Managing and Adapting Library Information Services for Future Users Osuigwe, Nkem Ekene, 2019-11-22

Information in today's modernized world has become much more attainable with the use of technology. A resource that has fallen victim to this are library services. What was once a staple of knowledge and communication has failed to keep pace with recent advancements in information service providers. Library practitioners need to learn how to manage change, build influence, and adapt their services to remain relevant within local communities. Libraries can continue to play a key role in future aspects of information provision, but proper research is a necessity. Managing and Adapting Library Information Services for Future Users is a collection of innovative research that encapsulates practices, concepts, ideas, and proposals that would chart pathways for libraries of all types to envision and understand how to thrive and remain relevant in the competitive information provision environment. It is expected to motivate librarians and information scientists to probe further into how libraries would better serve user communities of the 21st century who have options of accessing information from sources other than from libraries. While highlighting topics including artificial intelligence, human design thinking, and alternative finance, this book is ideally designed for librarians, information specialists, architects, data scientists, researchers, community development practitioners, policymakers, faculty members, and students seeking current research on emerging advancements in library optimization.

Management And Leadership Innovations Anne Woodsworth, W. David Penniman, 2014-06-04 Vol 38 of Advances in Librarianship focus on innovative leadership and management techniques, e.g. selecting new team members, service design, mindful leadership, burnout causes, and management of librarians as independent active public leaders, and how libraries and other non-profit organizations can use UN's Agenda 21 to achieve sustainability.

International and Comparative Librarianship Peter Johan Lor, 2019-06-17 Based on his extensive experience in international librarianship, Peter Johan Lor, South Africa's first National Librarian and a former Secretary General of the IFLA, has written the first comprehensive and systematic overview of international and comparative librarianship. His book provides a conceptual framework and methodological guidelines for the field and covers the full range of international relations among libraries and information services, with particular attention to the international political economy of information, the international diffusion of innovations, and policy in library and information services, LIS development, and international aid. It concludes with a discussion of the practical relevance and future of international and comparative studies in LIS.
