Diagnostics and Therapy of Prostatic Cancer W.B. Peeling,Hermann Becker,2012-12-06 There is now increasing awareness by the general public in European countries that prostate cancer is a serious threat to health and this has created higher expectations for improved and more effective methods for detecting and treating the disease However urologists are very conscious of the limitations of the diagnostic methods that are available and are even more concerned about the apparent lack of therapeutic advances made during the past 50 years since Huggins discovered the fundamental principles of endocrine treatment for is theo prostate cancer Recent efforts to detect the disease when it retically curable have been successful certainly in the USA but this has highlighted our uncertainty about the best treatment for early stage prostate cancer and there is no doubt that radical pro statectomy is sometimes carried out on men who may not be threa tened by their illness While it is generally accepted that many men with prostate cancer will die of old age rather than this malignancy it cannot be ignored that this disease kills many others in a process that is frequently lingering miserable and humiliating not only for the victim but also his family There are many important issues about prostate cancer that remain unclear at the present time some of which are addressed by the reviews in this book The debate about early detection and screening can arouse considerable heat in otherwise placid urological mee tings Controversial Issues in the Management of Head and Neck Cancer: A Swiss Multidisciplinary and Multi-Institutional Patterns of Care Study Olgun Elicin,Marco Siano,Christian Simon,2020-02-26 The heterogeneity in the practice of diagnosis and treatment of head and neck squamous cell carcinoma HNSCC is known and expected to be inversely correlated with the level of evidence on a given topic Literature on various aspects of management of HNSCC were previously published but were usually restricted within narrow foci Due to the lack of a similar comprehensive work published so far the Head and Neck Cancer Working Group of Swiss Group for Clinical Cancer Research SAKK decided to perform a survey covering the whole spectrum of controversial topics concerning the diagnosis and the treatment of HNSCC among its member institutions This survey was designed to discuss current diagnostic and treatment strategies for HNSCC of all localizations and to find out probable differences and level of consensus between the participating academic institutions by means of a questionnaire based pattern of care study The items in the survey was generated with a scored voting system by inclusion of all involved centers and divided into four sections each of them not exceeding twenty questions head and neck surgery radiation oncology medical oncology and biomarkers Surely the topics and questions were intentionally chosen from controversial areas Nonetheless the lack of major consensus in most queried areas provide an insight to head and neck oncologist in terms of the scope of heterogeneity in their practice Although none of the participated centers being plainly wrong it is still disturbing to see that a patient may be treated with quite discrepant diagnostic and treatment concepts even in a relatively small country adhering to up to date evidence based medicine We believe that this work will serve the head and neck oncologists to be aware of their discrepancies and to stimulate discussion toward standardization of practice and prioritize topics of future clinical research
