Managing Big Business:

Management of Large Business Corporation Tax Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Committee of Public Accounts, 2008 In 2006 07 Her Majesty's Revenue Customs the Department raised a total of 23.8 billion in Corporation Tax from large businesses There are some 700 of these businesses and in 2005 06 just 50 of them paid 67 per cent of the large business Corporation Tax whilst 181 businesses paid none Two thirds of the tax comes from the banking oil and gas and insurance sectors Businesses pay little or no Corporation Tax because for example they have made a loss or had losses in previous years or they are using tax reliefs or engaging in tax avoidance In 2006 07 the Department's large business Corporation Tax enquiry programme raised nearly 2.7 billion Many of these enquiries were poorly targeted with nearly 60 per cent producing less than 1 per cent of the additional tax raised The enquiries also take too long in January 2008 42 per cent of its enquiries were over two years old and 10 per cent over four years old In February 2007 based on initial review of tax returns from the previous 12 months the Department estimated that the potential Corporation Tax at risk was 8.5 billion The tax assessments are very complicated and there has been a widening gap between the skill set of large business tax staff and that of the Large Business Service The Department is bringing in external recruits including retired tax advisors to help to train its staff and to deal with the more complicated technical work

The Dynamics of Big Business Veronica Binda, 2013-06-26 Throughout the Twentieth Century big business has been a basic institution Large corporations have provided a fundamental contribution to the wealth of nations and at the same time have had a remarkable impact on the political and social systems within which they have operated It is difficult to understand the development of the most advanced economies if we do not consider the specific evolution of big business in every national case On the other hand it is not possible to explain the shape and behavior of big business without considering its development as part of the history of the country in which they operate The largest US German British and French firms were key actors in favoring their nations development and even at the end of the Twentieth Century made a very important contribution to their growth In many countries a stable core of large corporations developed only relatively lately or did not develop at all and under these circumstances big business was not able to significantly participate in the economic growth of such countries Scholars who dealt with the economic history of Italy and Spain are generally unanimous in tagging these nations as industrial late comers ineffective in promoting big autochthonous private and State owned firms dominated by family companies and characterized by a strong competitive advantage on the part of small and medium sized enterprises At the same time Spanish and Italian business and economic historians have tended to say little about the role and features of big business This book thus fills a significant gap in the work on the development of Southern European capitalism and its large corporations by analyzing the Italian and Spanish cases and comparing them with each other and with what has occurred in the United States and in the largest European nations Examining both the macro dynamics national but also supra national and the micro level utilizing samples of big corporations and going deeply into some company cases this volume identifies some important protagonists of the Italian and Spanish economies such as the State families and foreign investors and investigates a wider panorama which includes the political economic and social relationships of the corporations providing insights into the form of capitalism that exists in these countries Drucker Management Peter, Managing Big Data Integration in the Public Sector
