Flouris,Dennis Lock,2016-02-22 Triant Flouris is a prominent academic and administrator in aviation management education Dennis Lock has more than forty years experience in practising lecturing and writing about project management When these two experts combined their considerable talents to write their earlier book Aviation Project Management it was little wonder that distinguished reviewers gave generous praise and acclaimed it as a welcome addition to what until then had been a neglected field That first title was structured as an essential primer for managers and students The authors have now written this more in depth book for managers and students who need to study aviation project management in much greater detail as well as critically connect project management within an aviation context to prudent business decision making Aviation project management is described in considerable detail throughout all stages of a lifecycle that begins when the project is only a vague concept and does not end until the project has been successfully completed fully documented and put into operational service Aviation projects have commonly failed to deliver their expected outcomes on time and have greatly exceeded their intended budgets Many of those failures would have been prevented if the project managers had adhered to the sound principles of project management as described and demonstrated throughout this book

Total Information Systems Management Hubert Osterle, Walter Brenner, Konrad Hilbers, 1993 Total Information Systems Management A European Approach Hubert Osterle Institute for Information Management University of St Gallen Switzerland Walter Brenner Freiberg University of Mining and Technology Sachsen Germany and Konrad Hilbers Bertlesmann AG G tersloh Germany In the 1980s many enterprises usually with the help of external consultants explored the potential of implementing Information Technology IT in the running of their organizations This book identifies a significant gap between the implementation of Information Systems IS and business needs Organizations where enterprise wide IS architectures were developed as part of the corporate policy are now finding their position has scarcely changed Total Information Systems Management illustrates how this lack of progress can in some way be attributed to the gulf which has been created between IT and business management This gulf has arisen due to an obscurity in the distribution of responsibility in large firms and a lack of rigour in the implementation of ambitious plans Based on empirical research the authors elaborate the important concepts of IS management They provide a pragmatic and fully integrated system of documents and functions as well as an organizational model which is aimed at bringing synergy to the implementation and management of IS within the organization Total Information Systems Management A European Approach will be of great value to managers of IS units in middle and large sized enterprises and to researchers in the field of information management and business administration Advanced students on information management and business studies courses will also find the book of interest

The Dynamics of International Information Systems Hans Lehmann, 2010-03-17 The serious difficulties facing the developer of international information systems i e supporting business functions in different countries are widely known and their propensity to catastrophic failure has been acknowledged among practitioners for quite some time Despite the often pivotal importance that such systems generally have scholarly research in this field has been surprisingly sparse Information technology applications with a global range and reach are still largely unstudied and under explored Subsequently there is a distinct dearth of theoretical frameworks for dealing with them After a career in information technology line management I have been involved with multinational enterprises and their information systems for over a decade as a consultant working in Africa the UK continental Europe North America and Australasia It was on joining a university in the early nineties that I discovered the near vacuum in this field of research When I decided to make international information systems my field of research it became clear that fairly fundamental work needed to be done I started the project described further on more than 10 years ago It turned out a fairly difficult necessarily broad based and eventually longitudinal research
