

The background image shows an archaeological excavation site. In the foreground, there are several tiers of rough-hewn stone walls. To the right, two men are working: one in a blue patterned shirt and jeans stands looking towards the excavation, while another in a grey shirt and khaki pants is kneeling, operating a yellow surveying instrument. In the background, a wooden safety fence separates the site from a modern brick building with large windows. Several people are visible behind the fence, observing the work. The ground is dirt and sand, with some green hoses and yellow caution tape visible on the left.

Unlike most textbooks on heritage which discuss the creation of heritage as a cultural phenomenon or offer practical guides to heritage practices Archaeology and Heritage takes a fresh approach by providing an introduction to themes in the field of heritage as it relates to the material legacy of our past A survey of current approaches to theorizing archaeological practice presents some ideas about how we understand and relate to the remains sites structures and buildings that have come to our present from the past The book is divided into seven chapters each preceded by a short interlude which considers the types of literature and ways of talking about heritage which characterize that approach For those not already acquainted with recent archaeological theory the book provides a brief introduction to current trends Each chapter is in turn divided into key points indicated by sub headings and these key points are reiterated at the end of each chapter and are followed by a list of suggested readings Archaeological Heritage Conservation and Management Brian J.
