Regional Financial Cooperation Jose Antonio Ocampo, 2007-08-29 A Brookings Institution Press and Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean ECLAC publication Using the experience of postwar Western Europe as a benchmark Jos Antonio Ocampo and his colleagues assess how regional financial institutions can help developing countries often at a disadvantage within the global financial framework finance their investment needs counteract the volatility of private capital flows and make their voices heard The 1997 Asian financial crisis generated extensive debate on the international financial architecture Through this discussion it became clear that services by financial institutions including adequate mechanisms for preventing and managing financial crises and instruments for safeguarding global macroeconomic and financial stability are undersupplied Furthermore private international capital markets provide finance to developing countries in a way that effectively reduces the ability of those nations to undertake countercyclical macroeconomic policies International capital markets ration out many developing countries particularly the poorest from private global capital markets While these deficiencies in the financial architecture are clear the post 1997 debate has done little to evaluate the role that regional institutions could play in improving global financial arrangements Regional Financial Cooperation aims to fill that important gap Contributors include Ernest Aryeetey Institute of Statistical Social and Economic Research University of Ghana Georges Corm Saint Joseph University Beirut Roy Culpeper North South Institute Ottawa Ana Teresa Fuzzo de Lima Institute of Development Studies University of Sussex Stephany Griffith Jones Institute of Development Studies University of Sussex Julia Leung Hong Kong Monetary Authority Jos Luis Machinea ECLAC Jae Ha Park Korean Institute of Finance Yung Chul Park Korea University Fernando Prada FORO Naciona International Lima Guillermo Rozenwurcel School of Politics and Government University of San Martin Argentina

Region-building Ludger Kühnhardt, 2010-07-01 After two centuries of nation building the world has entered an era of region building in search of political stability cultural cohesion and socio economic development Nations involved in the regional structures and integration schemes that are emerging in most regions of the world are deepening their ambitions with Europe's integration experience often used as an experimental template or theoretical model Volume I provides a political analytical framework for recognizing the central role of the European Union not only as a conceptual model but also a normative engine in the global proliferation of regional integration It also gives a comprehensive treatment of the focus motives and objectives of non European integration efforts Volume II offers a unique collection of documents that give the best available overview of the legal and political evolution of region building based on official documents and stated objectives of the relevant regional groupings across all continents Together these volumes are important contributions for understanding the evolution of global affairs in an age when power shifts provide new challenges and opportunities for transatlantic partners and the world community Innovation, Regional Integration, and Development in Africa Samuel Ojo Oloruntoba, Mammo Muchie, 2018-07-26 This edited volume discusses the role of innovation and regional integration in economic development in Africa Over the past five decades post colonial African countries have struggled to break loose from the trap of poverty and underdevelopment through the adoption of various development strategies at regional national and continental levels However the results of both national and regional efforts at advancing development on the continent have been mixed Although the importance of agglomeration and fusion of institutions have long been recognized as possible path to achieving economic development in Africa the approach to regionalism has been unduly focused on market integration while neglecting other dimensions such as social policy mobility of labor educational policy biotechnology regional legislation manufacturing innovation and science and technology This volume investigates the link between innovation regional integration and development in Africa arguing that the immediate and long term development of Africa lies not just in the structural transformation of its economies but in the advancement of scientific and innovation capacities The book is divided into four parts Part I addresses the theoretical and conceptual underpinnings of innovation and regional integration in Africa Part II presents case studies which examine how regional economic institutions are fostering innovation in Africa Part III of the book deals with sectoral issues on innovation and integrated development in Africa Part IV sets the future research on innovation regional integration and development in Africa Combining theoretical analysis and a comparative interdisciplinary approach this volume is appropriate for researchers and students interested in economic development political economy African studies international relations agricultural science and geography as well as policymakers in regional economic communities and the African Union Development Centre Seminars Regional Integration in Africa OECD, Asian Development Bank, 2002-04-25 Regional integration and co ordination are not a panacea but they could hold the key to African countries long awaited participation in the world economy This was one of the conclusions of the second International Forum on African Perspectives Climate Change and Africa Pak Sum Low, 2006-11-02 At the beginning of the twenty first century no environmental issue is of such truly global magnitude as the issue of climate change The poorer developing countries are the least equipped to adapt to the potential effects of climate change although most of them have played an insignificant role in causing it African countries are amongst the poorest of the developing countries This book presents the issues of most relevance to Africa such as past and present climate desertification biomass burning and its implications for atmospheric chemistry and climate energy generation sea level rise ENSO induced drought and flood adaptation disaster risk reduction the UNFCCC and Kyoto Protocol especially the Clean Development Mechanism capacity building and sustainable development It provides a comprehensive and up to date review of these and many other issues with chapters by the leading experts from a range of disciplines Climate Change and Africa will prove to be an invaluable reference for all researchers and policy makers with an interest in climate change and Africa Nation-states and the challenges of regional integration in West Africa Kwame A. Ninsin, 2009 Since the Treaty establishing the Economic Community of West African States ECOWAS was signed in 1975 several protocols have been adopted providing the legal and institutional framework for implementing the integration of the West African sub region All social and political stakeholders agree that regional integration is a major challenge for development in West Africa Yet the regional integration process has been affected by many delays even failures Member states have pursued a seemingly contradictory dual objective build a Nation state within colonial Borders and achieve regional integration to fight against under development Can national planning priorities be reconciled with the demands and objectives of regional integration processes in West Africa Since 2005 under the auspices of the Management of Social Transformations MOST Programme initiative the Social and Human Sciences Sector of UNESCO has organized a series of national seminars on West African regional integration in the ECOWAS region Four seminars have so far been organized in Senegal Mali Benin and Ghana This anthology publishes papers presented at Ghana's national seminar on Nation states and the Challenge of Regional Integration in West Africa the Case of

Ghana held in Accra from 8 to 9 November 2005 The contributors suggest that Ghana's reluctance to relinquish its sovereignty stemmed from a lack of commitment in the first 20 years of ECOWAS existence and preoccupation with its own security and survival against internal and external threats The state has currently demonstrated renewed commitment by establishing a Ministry of Regional Cooperation and the New Agenda for Africa's Development NEPAD to coordinate and manage the sub regional integration programme In spite of positive developments results have been disappointing The new ministry remains isolated and is constrained by limited resources in finance and manpower Its approach to integration issues has been elitist and technocratic concentrating on formal trade and ignoring the importance of the informal trade that has been the traditional means of popular participation in the integration of West African economies Borderland communities with economic and social ties continue to engage in exchanges across political boundaries in defiance of national and state security concerns Empowerment of Ghanaians involved in small scale informal cross border trade in majority women would not only increase the levels of social and economic integration but would make the benefits of integration available to large sections of the population

West Africa's Security Challenges Adekeye Adebajo, Ismail O. D. Rashid, 2004 Provides a context for understanding West Africa's security dilemmas highlighting the link between failures of economic development governance and democratization on the one hand and military insecurity and violent conflicts on the other
