Man Who Could Work Miracles Movie:

H. G. Wells, Modernity and the Movies Keith Williams, 2007-12-01 This book investigates Wells's interest in cinema and related media technologies by placing it back into the contemporary cultural and scientific contexts giving rise to them. It plugs a gap in understanding Wells's contribution to exploring and advancing the possibilities of cinematic narrative and its social and ideological impacts in the modern period. Previous studies concentrate on adaptations; this book accounts for the specifically proto-cinematic techniques and concerns of Wells's texts. It also focuses on contemporary film making in dialogue with his ideas. Alongside Hollywood's later transactions it gives equal weight to neglected British and continental European dimensions. Chapter 1 shows how early writings The Time Machine and short stories feature many kinds of radically defamiliarised vision. These constitute imaginative speculations about the forms and potentials of moving image and electronic media. Chapter 2 discusses the power of voyeurism, absent presence and the disjunction of sound image reproduction implied in The Invisible Man and its topical politics, updated in notable screen versions. Chapter 3 extends this to dystopian warnings of systematic surveillance, broadcasting of celebrity personae and post-literate video culture in When the Sleeper Wakes, a crucial template for urban futures on film. Chapter 4 analyses Wells's belated return to screenwriting in the 1930s. It accounts for his broad ambition of mediating between popular and avant-garde tendencies to promote his cause and its mixed results in Things to Come, The Man Who Could Work Miracles etc. Chapter 5 finally surveys Wells's legacy on both small and large screens. It considers whether as well as being raided for scenarios for spectacular effects, his subtexts still nourish an evolving tradition of alternative SF which duly critiques the innovations and applications of its host media.

H.G. Wells on Film Don G. Smith, 2015-06-08 One of the most influential thinkers of his era, H. G. Wells is primarily known for his science fiction writings that looked ahead in time to teach and warn. These novels and stories inspired many filmmakers to bring his visions, if often greatly altered or misfocused, to life on screen. He himself wrote screenplays and closely supervised the production of some of his work. This book is a study of every theatrically released film from 1909 to 1997 that is based even loosely on the writings of H. G. Wells, including The Time Machine, The Island of Dr Moreau, The Invisible Man, The War of the Worlds, The First Men in the Moon, The Food of the Gods and The Empire of the Ants to name a few. For each film, the author discusses the circumstances surrounding its creation, its plot, how it compares with the literary work, its production and marketing, and its strengths and weaknesses based on aesthetic qualities.

Film: an Anthology Daniel Talbot, 1975 An anthology of writings on film studies.
