Man Who Tasted Shapes With New Foreword:

The Man Who Tasted Shapes, revised edition Richard E. Cytowic, 2003-08-11 In this medical detective adventure Cytowic shows how synesthesia or joined sensation illuminates a wide swath of mental life and leads to a new view of what it means to be human Richard Cytowic's dinner host apologized There aren't enough points on the chicken He felt flavor also as a physical shape in his hands and the chicken had come out too round This offbeat comment in 1980 launched Cytowic's exploration into the oddity called synesthesia He is one of the few world authorities on the subject Sharing a root with anesthesia no sensation synesthesia means joined sensation whereby a voice for example is not only heard but also seen felt or tasted The trait is involuntary hereditary and fairly common It stayed a scientific mystery for two centuries until Cytowic's original experiments led to a neurological explanation and to a new concept of brain organization that accentuates emotion over reason That chicken dinner two decades ago led Cytowic to explore a deeper reality that he argues exists in everyone but is often just below the surface of awareness which is why finding meaning in our lives can be elusive In this medical detective adventure Cytowic shows how synesthesia far from being a mere curiosity illuminates a wide swath of mental life and leads to a new view of what it means to be human a view that turns upside down conventional ideas about reason emotional knowledge and self understanding This 2003 edition features a new afterword

Language, Feeling, and the Brain Daniel Shanahan, 2017-09-08 Linguistic theory since the Cognitive Revolution has followed one of the premises of that revolution by largely sidelining the issue of emotions and concentrating on those aspects of language that are more strictly cognitive However during the last ten years research in cognitive science especially in neuropsychology has begun to fill in the gaps left by the exclusion of emotions from cognitive research The work of those like Oatley Zajonc Damasio and LeDoux to name a few has demonstrated both that it is possible to construct models of how emotions play into the workings of the psyche and that they are necessary in giving us a balanced view of the human mind Language Feeling and the Brain attempts to apply the fruits of this new research in emotion to our understanding of language itself Building on Karl Pribram's integrated model of emotions and motivations the book takes an eclectic approach to explaining how emotions contribute to the nature of language drawing on research done in neuropsychology philosophy cognitive linguistics anthropology and related fields Its aim is to construct a propositional model for how the emotions may have contributed to the emergence of symbolic formation most especially in the forms of gesture and speech and how identifying that emotional influence sheds new light on everything we have had to say about language itself from lexis and grammar to culture and literature
