Civic Obligation and Individual Liberty in Ancient Athens Peter Liddel, 2007-10-11 Peter Liddel offers a fresh approach to the old problem of the nature of individual liberty in ancient Athens He draws extensively on oratorical and epigraphical evidence from the late fourth century BC to analyse the ways in which ideas about liberty were reconciled with ideas about obligation and examines how this reconciliation was negotiated performed and presented in the Athenian law courts assembly and through the inscriptional mode of publication Using modern political theory as a springboard Liddel argues that the ancient Athenians held liberty to consist of the substantial obligations political financial and military of citizenship

History and Historiography in Classical Utilitarianism, 1800-1865 Callum Barrell, 2021-10-07 This first comprehensive account of the utilitarians historical thought intellectually resituates their conceptions of philosophy and politics at a time when the past acquired new significances as both a means and object of study Drawing on published and unpublished writings and set against the intellectual backdrops of Scottish philosophical history German and French historicism romanticism positivism and the rise of social science and scientific history Callum Barrell recovers the depth with which Jeremy Bentham James Mill George Grote and John Stuart Mill thought about history as a site of philosophy and politics He argues that the utilitarians contrary to their reputations as ahistorical and even antihistorical thinkers developed complex frameworks in which to learn from and negotiate the past inviting us to rethink the foundations of their ideas as well as their place in and relationship to nineteenth century philosophy and political thought

The Mythological and Political Origins of Christianity David J.P Haasbroek, 2020-08-28 Previous research about Jesus was confined to Israel only Researchers did so because they took it for granted that Christianity had begun on Jewish soil only Therefore the lacking information of the gospels forced researchers to conclude that Jesus was mythical and not historical This conclusion was due to the many Old Testament quotations that attribute to Jesus in the New Testament The Old Testament deals with Jewish history and the myths of the ancient world with whom the Jews have come into contact On that basis any nation can write an overview of its history and then use the myths of the ancient world to explain the intervention of gods in its history Likewise evangelists several centuries later have also been able to associate Jesus an orthodox Jewish king with the myths and politics of their times Creating Democratic Societies Plamen Makariev, Andrew M. Blasko, Asen Davidov, 1999

Rhetoric Reclaimed Janet M. Atwill, 2009 Thoroughly embedded in postmodern theory this book offers a critique of traditional conceptions of the liberal arts exploring the challenges posed by cultural diversity to the aims and methods of a humanist education Janet M Atwill investigates a neglected tradition of rhetoric exemplified by Protagoras and Isocorates and preserved in Aristotle s Rhetoric This tradition was rooted in the ancient sophistic and platonic conceptions of techn or productive knowledge that appears both in literary texts from the seventh century B C E and in medical and technical treatises from the fifth century B C E Atwill examines these traditions together with sophistic and platonic conceptions and considers the commentaries on Aristotle s Rhetoric by E M Cope and William S J Grimaldi where the concepts of techn and productive knowledge disappear in the modern opposition between theory and practice Since models of knowledge are closely tied to models of subjectivity Atwill s examination of techn also explores the role of political economic and educational institutions in standardizing a specific model for subjectivity She argues that the liberal arts traditions largely eclipsed the social and political functions of rhetoric transforming it from an art of disrupting and reinventing lines of power to a discipline of producing a normative subject defined by virtue but modeled on a specific gender and class type
