Man With A Shattered World:

The Man with a Shattered World A. R. Luria, 1987-04-30 Luria presents a compelling portrait of a man's heroic struggle to regain his mental faculties. A soldier named Zasetzky, wounded in the head at the battle of Smolensk in 1943, found himself unable to recall his recent past or speak, read or write without difficulty. Woven throughout his first person account are interpolations by Luria himself.

Plasticity and Pathology David Bates, Nima Bassiri, 2016-01-15 Two leading neuroscientists examine the current paradigm of the neural subject and what we can learn from neurological trauma, pathology and adaption. With the rise of cognitive science and the revolution in neuroscience, the study of human subjects thinking, feeling, acting, individuals ultimately focuses on the human brain. In both Europe and the United States, massive state-funded research is focused on mapping the brain in all its remarkable complexity. The metaphors employed are largely technological, using a diagram of synaptic connectivity as a path to understanding human behavior. But alongside this technologized discourse, we find another perspective, one that emphasizes the brain's essential plasticity, both in development and as a response to traumas such as strokes, tumors, or gunshot wounds. This collection of essays brings together a diverse range of scholars to investigate how the neural subject of the twenty-first century came to be. Taking approaches both historical and theoretical, they probe the possibilities and limits of neuroscientific understandings of human experience. Topics include landmark studies in the history of neuroscience, the relationship between neural and technological pathologies, and analyses of contemporary concepts of plasticity and pathology in cognitive neuroscience. Central to the volume is a critical examination of the relationship between pathology and plasticity. Because pathology is often the occasion for neural reorganization and adaptation, it exists not in opposition to the brain's normal operation but instead as something intimately connected to our ways of being and understanding.

The Man with a Shattered World Aleksandr Romanovich Lurii, 1976-09-01 A young soldier suffered a severe brain injury resulting in impaired vision, loss of memory, and loss of the ability to speak, read, and write. As though he were a child, he has to relearn. Professor Luria worked with him for over twenty years together, building a life for him.

An Analysis of Oliver Sacks's The Man Who Mistook His Wife for a Hat and Other Clinical Tales Dario Krpan, Alexander O' Connor, 2017-07-05 In The Man Who Mistook His Wife for a Hat, neurologist Oliver Sacks looked at the cutting-edge work taking place in his field and decided that much of it was not fit for purpose. Sacks found it hard to understand why most doctors adopted a mechanical and impersonal approach to their patients and opened his mind to new ways to treat people with neurological disorders. He explored the question of deciding what such new ways might be by deploying his formidable creative thinking skills. Sacks felt the issues at the heart of patient care needed redefining because the way they were being dealt with hurt not only patients but practitioners too. They limited a physician's capacity to understand and then treat a patient's condition. To highlight the issue, Sacks wrote the stories of 24 patients and their neurological clinical conditions. In the process, he rebelled.

against traditional methodology by focusing on his patients subjective experiences Sacks did not only write about his patients in original ways he attempt to come up with creative ways of treating them as well At root his method was to try to help each person individually with the core aim of finding meaning and a sense of identity despite or even thanks to the patients condition Sacks thus redefined the issue of neurological work in a new way and his ideas were so influential that they heralded the arrival of a broader movement narrative medicine that placed stronger emphasis on listening to and incorporating patients experiences and insights into their care

The Man Who Mistook His Wife for a Hat Oliver Sacks, 2021-09-14 THE INSPIRATION FOR THE NBC SERIES BRILLIANT MINDS In his most extraordinary book the bestselling author of Awakenings and poet laureate of medicine The New York Times recounts the case histories of patients inhabiting the compelling world of neurological disorders from those who are no longer able to recognize common objects to those who gain extraordinary new skills Oliver Sacks has become the world s best known neurologist His case studies of broken minds offer brilliant insight into the mysteries of consciousness The Guardian Featuring a new preface Oliver Sacks s The Man Who Mistook His Wife for a Hat tells the stories of individuals afflicted with perceptual and intellectual disorders patients who have lost their memories and with them the greater part of their pasts who are no longer able to recognize people and common objects whose limbs seem alien to them who lack some skills yet are gifted with uncanny artistic or mathematical talents In Dr Sacks s splendid and sympathetic telling his patients are deeply human and his tales are studies of struggles against incredible adversity A great healer Sacks never loses sight of medicine s ultimate responsibility the suffering afflicted fighting human subject

Psychologies in Revolution Hannah Proctor, 2020-01-13 This book situates the work of the Soviet psychologist and neurologist Alexander Luria 1902 1977 in its historical context and explores the romantic approach to scientific writing developed in his case histories Luria consistently asserted that human consciousness was formed by cultural and historical experience He described psychology as the science of social history and his ideas about subjectivity cognition and mental health have a history of their own Lines of mutual influence existed between Luria and his colleagues on the other side of the iron curtain but Psychologies in Revolution also discusses Luria s research in relation to Soviet history from the October Revolution of 1917 through the collectivisation of agriculture and Stalinist purges of the 1930s to the Second World War and finally the relative stability of the Brezhnev era foregrounding the often marginalised people with whom Luria s clinical work brought him into contact By historicising science and by focusing on a theoretical approach which itself emphasised the centrality of social and political factors for understanding human subjectivity the book also seeks to contribute to current debates in the medical humanities

The Male Body in Medicine and Literature Andrew Mangham, Daniel Lea, 2018 With the dawn of modern medicine there emerged a complex range of languages and methodologies for portraying the male body as prone to illness injury and dysfunction Using a variety of historical and literary approaches this collection explores how medicine has interacted with key moments in literature and culture
