Man With The Candy:

The Man with Candy Jack Olsen, 2008-06-30 The mass murder of almost thirty young boys in Houston may well have been the most heinous crime of the century How could such a series of murders go undetected for almost three years before being exposed The Man with the Candy is a brilliant investigative journalist's story of the crime and the answer to that question The night David Hilligiest didn't come home was both like and unlike other nights when other Houston boys disappeared between the years 1971 and 1973 At three in the morning the police were called but they just said that boys were running away from the best of homes nowadays and that they'd list David as a runaway No there would be no official search for the youngster Aghast the Hilligiests in the months that followed hired their own detective put up posters even sought the aid of clairvoyants But David never did come home again because along with at least twenty six other Houston boys he had been murdered and buried by the homosexual owner of a candy factory the mass murderer of the century Dean Corll according to his two teenage confessed accomplices Elmer Wayne Henley Jr and David Brooks Many of the young boys had not even been reported as missing and the fact that they were dead would probably never have come to light had not one of the murderers confessed For in Houston where in a typical year the total number of murders is twice that of London despite the fact that London is six times as large and far more densely populated missing persons and violence are likely to be considered commonplace In the months before the trial of Henley and Brooks Jack Olsen interviewed and probed for answers about the criminals the victims and the city itself which remained for the most part silent angry and defensive The result is a classic of true crime reportage

The Candy Man of Houston Brian Lee Tucker, 2015-02-26 Dean Corll was an electrician for Houston Power and Light but most of Henley's friends knew him as the Candy Man so named because he had labored for years in the candy manufacturing plant that he and his mother had once owned Corll was famous for giving away candy to the kids Little did they know that the Candy man of Houston was in fact a sadistic cruel remorseless rapist and murderer Between September 25 1970 August 3 1973 Corll killed at least 28 young men and boys and the actual number of victims may have been more than thirty They were all systematically lured into his trap and then beaten tortured raped and strangled to death and most victims found bore evidence of sexual torture pubic hairs had been plucked out genitals had been chewed objects had been inserted into their rectums and glass rods had been shoved into their penis and smashed In the aftermath two young men Elmer Wayne Henley and David Brooks Corll's two main accomplices in the heinous crimes confessed that they had been forced to participate against their will and Corll himself by now having been shot dead by Henley was the lone culprit in the torturous murders But was he Author Brian Lee Tucker having culled information from documented interviews taped confessions newspaper coverage magazine articles court transcripts provides an in depth behind the scenes look into who the real culprits were the crimes which at the time of their discovery the Houston Mass Murders were considered the worst example of serial murder in American history
