This is a collection of 11 short stories that were published in 1891. The book features the classic short story The Man Without a Country which tells the story of Philip Nolan, an Army lieutenant who renounced the United States during a trial for treason and is sentenced to spend the rest of his life at sea. The story was first published in 1863 and was written as a way to promote the Union cause. The man without a country Edward E. Hale, 1894 The Man Without a Country, and Other Tales Edward E. Hale, 2017-10-09 Edward Everett Hale (April 3, 1822 – June 10, 1909) was an American author, historian, and Unitarian minister. The Man Without a Country is a short story by American writer Edward Everett Hale, first published in The Atlantic in December 1863. It is the story of American Army lieutenant Philip Nolan who renounces his country during a trial for treason and is consequently sentenced to spend the rest of his days at sea without so much as a word of news about the United States. Though the story is set in the early 19th century, it is an allegory about the upheaval of the American Civil War and was meant to promote the Union cause. Plot summary: The protagonist is a young United States Army lieutenant Philip Nolan who develops a friendship with the visiting Aaron Burr. When Burr is tried for treason (historically this occurred in 1807), Nolan is tried as an accomplice. During his testimony, he bitterly renounces his nation, angrily shouting, "I wish I may never hear of the United States again." The judge is completely shocked at this announcement and, on convicting him, icily grants him his wish: he is to spend the rest of his life aboard United States Navy warships in exile, with no right ever again to set foot on U.S. soil and with explicit orders that no one shall ever mention his country to him again. The sentence is carried out to the letter. For the rest of his life, Nolan is transported from ship to ship, living out his life as a prisoner on the high seas, never once allowed back in a home port. Though he is treated according to his former rank, nothing of his country is ever mentioned to him. None of the sailors in whose custody Nolan remains is allowed to speak to him about the U.S., and his newspapers are censored. Nolan is unrepentant at first but, over the years, becomes sadder and wiser and desperate for news. One day, as he is being transferred to another ship, he beseeches a young sailor never to make the same mistake that he had. "Remember, boy, that behind all these men, behind officers and government and people, even there is the Country Herself, your Country, and that you belong to her as you belong to your own mother. Stand by her, boy, as you would stand by your mother." On one such ship, he attends a party in which he dances with a young lady he had formerly known. He then beseeches her to tell him something, anything, about the United States, but she quickly withdraws and speaks no longer to him. Deprived of a homeland, Nolan slowly and painfully learns the true worth of his country. He misses it more than his friends or family, more than art or music or love or nature. Without it, he is nothing. Dying aboard the USS Levant, he shows his room to an officer named Danforth; it is a little shrine of patriotism. The

Stars and Stripes are draped around a picture of George Washington Over his bed Nolan has painted a bald eagle with lightning blazing from his beak and claws grasping the globe At the foot of his bed is an outdated map of the United States showing many of its old territories that had unbeknownst to him been admitted to statehood Nolan smiles Here you see I have a country The dying man asks desperately to be told the news of American history since 1807 and Danforth finally relates to him almost all of the major events that have happened to the U S since his sentence was imposed the narrator confesses however that I could not make up my mouth to tell him a word about this infernal rebellion Nolan then asks him to bring his copy of the Presbyterian Book of Public Prayer and read the page where it will automatically open These are the words Most heartily we beseech Thee with Thy favor to behold and bless Thy servant the President of the United States and all others in authority Nolan says I have repeated those prayers night and morning it is now fifty five years
