Management Development Stefan Aufschnaiter, Matthias Wurzenrainer, 2011-02-02 Seminar paper from the year 2010 in the subject Leadership and Human Resources Miscellaneous grade 1 0 University of Innsbruck Department of Organisation and Learning course Issues in Management Development language English abstract Outdoor Management Development is a concept based on experiential learning theory and combines several tasks and activities conducted in the outdoors with the purpose of facilitating management development and improving organizational processes The mainstream literature is primarily concerned with the effectiveness of training programmes and the quantifiable observation of performance Thus it is strongly biased towards positivism and functionalism The purpose of our paper is to provide an overview of the literature and to develop a critical perspective on the concept We argue that Outdoor Management Development must not be seen as a neutral management tool but is subject to specific social and political contexts It should be seen as an emergent process and approached with reflexive awareness We argue that reflexive practice may be capable of dealing with the issues of context politics and process we are discussing throughout the critical part of this paper Gower Handbook of Management

Development Alan Mumford,1994 A constant theme is the need to match management development schemes and activities to the needs of specific organizations and the contributions though widely differing in their origin all derive from actual experience and are all concerned with application

The growing use of the outdoors British Institute of Management,1983
