Management Of Burns And Fire Disasters:

The Management of Burns and Fire Disasters: Perspectives 2000 M. Masellis, S. William A. Gunn, 2012-12-06 This volume is published with a triple aim to take a look back over the advances during the ten years of the Mediterranean Burns Club and mark its anniversary to follow up and strengthen the successful twinning of burns as a clinical individual illness problem and fires as a societal disaster management problem and to look ahead at the perspectives of burn care and fire prevention in the fast approaching new century The occasion also marks the tenth annual presentation of the prestigious G Whitaker International Burns Prize to which the Mediterranean Burns Club acts as the scientific fulcrum The award is now established as the most distinguished recognition in burns science worldwide and it is gratifying that the contributions of many of the renowned recipients will be found in this book This is a sequel to The Management of Mass Burn Casualties and Fire Disasters which contained the Proceedings of the First International Conference on Burns and Fire Disasters The book and the conference have fully justified the authors initial concept that burn specialists constantly combatting burn disease and promoting rehabilitation of the victims especially in mass casualty situations had for too long remained separate from that other essential sector the fire fighting authorities and fire prevention systems whose aim is also the protection of the individual and the promotion of safety This long overdue synergism has now become reality and the present volume strengthens this desirable trend

The Management of Mass Burn Casualties and Fire Disasters M. Masellis, S. William A. Gunn, 2007-07-23 Thermal harm is one of the most traumatizing assaults on man and his environment Whether suffered by living beings as burn injury or sustained by societal structures as fire damage the resulting physical pain and material loss can be extremely distressing both to the person and to society The health professions and in particular burn specialists have been continually developing effective means of combating burn disease and promoting rehabilitation of the victims especially in mass casualty situations In parallel various levels of the community have been mobilizing fire prevention and fire fighting mechanisms that protect society and the environment from the ever increasing hazards of fire disasters It is therefore surprising that while aiming at the same objective the two sectors have rarely come together doctor has rarely worked with fire chief Yet both disciplines have so much to learn from and contribute to each other's efforts The Mediterranean Burns Club is a professional organization that brings together persons concerned with burn therapy and fire safety in all forms especially in the countries of the Mediterranean basin It is honoured to have been identified by the United Nations as a premier scientific body in its field within the programme of the International Decade for Natural Disaster Reduction It is therefore natural that it should have initiated an international gathering of specialists engaged in burns as a surgical clinical problem and of counterparts dealing with fires as a societal disaster management problem destroyed a major part of London Many ancient civilizations also talk about fires which destroyed cities towns and even countries Most of them were man made especially the aftermath of war or civil disturbances Others came in the wake of natural disasters like earthquakes typhoons and tsunamis A burnt child dreads the fire is an age old idiom Down the ages human beings taught their children that though fire was a necessary part and parcel of their day to day fabric it was the thing to be created with care While it provided light and warmth it could also provide death and instruction when it was not kept under control This is the reason why fire along with other natural agencies was worshiped as a god in all the ancient civilizations all over the world It had to be fed sacrifices in ancient times and the God of fire placated to leave human beings alone and not visit his wrath upon them their families and their properties An ancient Roman prayer went something like this to the gods Oh Almighty powerful Gods on my head the power of sword and fire But protect thou my wife and children Protect thou my lands As sword and fire were two of the dreaded shadows under which the ancient lived one can see how much the power of the fire was feared No wonder people have instinctively down the centuries been apprehensive of this major force of nature which brings in its wake disaster death and instruction wherever it goes

The Public Health Consequences of Disasters Eric K. Noji, 1996-11-14 Natural and man made disasters earthquakes floods volcanic eruptions industrial crises and many others have claimed more than 3 million lives during the past 20 years adversely affected the lives of at least 800 million people and caused more than 50 billion dollars in property damages A major disaster occurs almost daily in some part of the world Increasing population densities in flood plains along vulnerable coastal areas and near dangerous faults in the earth's crust as well as the rapid industrialization of developing economies are factors likely to make the threat posed by natural disasters much bigger in the future Illustrated with examples from recent research in the field this book summarizes the most pertinent and useful information about the public health impact of natural and man made disasters It is divided into four sections dealing with general concerns geophysical events weather related problems and human generated disasters The author starts with a comprehensive discussion of the concepts and role of surveillance and epidemiology highlighting general environmental health concerns such as sanitation water shelter and sewage The other chapters based on a variety of experiences and literature drawn from both developing and industrialized countries cover discrete types of natural and technological hazards addressing their history origin nature observation and control Throughout the book the focus is on the level of epidemiologic knowledge on each aspect of natural and man made disasters Exposure disease and health event surveillance are stressed because of the importance of objective data to disaster epidemiology In addition Noji pays particular attention to prevention and control measures and provides practical recommendations in areas in which the public health practitioner needs more useful information He advocates stronger epidemiologic awareness as the basis for better understanding and control of disasters A comprehensive theoretical and practical treatment of the subject The Public Health Consequences of Disasters is an invaluable tool for epidemiologists disaster relief specialists and physicians who treat disaster victims

Large-Scale Disasters Mohamed Gad-el-Hak, 2008-06-23 Extreme events including climatic events such as hurricanes tornadoes drought can cause massive disruption to society including large death tolls and property damage in the billions of dollars Events in recent years have shown the importance of being prepared and that countries need to work together to help alleviate the resulting pain and suffering This volume presents an integrated review of the broad research field of large scale disasters It establishes a common framework for predicting controlling and managing both manmade and natural disasters There is a particular focus on events caused by weather and climate change Other topics include air pollution tsunamis disaster modeling the use of remote sensing and the logistics of disaster management It will appeal to scientists engineers first responders and health care professionals in addition to graduate students and researchers who have an interest in the prediction prevention or mitigation of large scale disasters
