Son Preference Declining in South Korea? Woojin Chung, Monica Das Gupta, Asian Power and Politics Lucian W. Pye, Mary W. Pye, Lucian W. Pye, 2009-06-30 In a major new book Lucian W. Pye reconceptualizes Asian political development as a product of cultural attitudes about power and authority. He contrasts the great traditions of Confucian East Asia with the Southeast Asian cultures and the South Asian traditions of Hinduism and Islam and explores the national differences within these larger civilizations. Breaking with modern political theory, Pye believes that power differs profoundly from one culture to another. In Asia, the masses of the people are group oriented and respectful of authority, while their leaders are more concerned with dignity and upholding collective pride than with problem solving. As culture decides the course of political development, Pye shows how Asian societies confronted with the task of setting up modern nation states respond by fashioning paternalistic forms of power that satisfy their deep psychological craving for security. This new paternalism may appear essentially authoritarian to Western eyes, but Pye maintains that it is a valid response to the people's needs and will ensure community solidarity and strong group loyalties. He predicts that we are certain to see emerging from Asia's accelerating transformation some new version of modern society that may avoid many of the forms of tension common to Western civilization but may also produce a whole new set of problems. This book revitalizes Asian political studies on a plane that comprehends the large differences between Asia and the West and at the same time is sensitive to the subtle variations among the many Asian cultures. Its comparative perspective will provide indispensable insights to anyone who wishes to think more deeply about the modern Asian states. state-community synergies in development Monica Das Gupta, Hélène Grandvoinnet, Mattia Romani, 2000 Sitings Timothy R. Tangherlini, Sallie Yea, 2007-12-03 Arranged around a set of provocative themes, the essays in this volume engage in the discussion from various critical perspectives on Korean geography. Part One, Geographies of the Colonial City, focuses on Seoul during the Japanese colonial occupation from 1910 to 1945 and the lasting impact of that period on the construction of specific places in Seoul. In Part Two, Geographies of the Imagined Village, the authors delve into the implications for the conceptions of the village of recent economic and industrial development. In this context, they examine both constructed space such as the Korean Folk Village and rural villages that were physically transformed through the processes of rapid modernization. The essays in Geographies of Religion, Part Three, reveal how religious sites are historically and environmentally contested, as well as the high degree of mobility exhibited by sites themselves. Similarly, places that exist at the margins are powerful loci for the negotiation of identity and aspects of cultural ideology. The final section, Geographies of the Margin, focuses on places that exist at the margins of Korean society. Contributors: Todd A. Henry, Jong Heon Jin, Laurel Kendall, David J.
