studies show that organisations demonstrated agility by mobilising resources and fostering collaboration in novel ways guided by overarching objectives that transcended local concerns Identified CWPs were characterised by their innovative nature and various degrees of newness and time constraints which necessitated new approaches and provided opportunities for adaptive and developmental learning Three conclusions can be drawn from the analysis in the thesis first disruptive changes trigger entrepreneurship and innovations through enhanced space of action and seamless cross collaborations Second the interaction between intermediaries managers and employees fosters a holistic understanding and proactivity Third rapid change contexts stress test organisations where strengths constraints and new opportunities become visualised Theoretically the thesis contributes with a conceptual model highlighting essential factors of organisational conditions and their interconnections An additional contribution is made in introducing the concept of CWPs and identifying prerequisites for handling different forms of such practices in rapid change contexts The practical implications of this research include that different types of CWPs are a source that can be utilised for continuous improvements supporting organisations ability to handle increasing uncertainties Moreover the conceptual model provides analytical support of work practices that intend to contribute to transitions related to development areas such as a circular economy electrification digitalisation and resilience
