Management Of Water Resources Bulk Water Pricing In Brazil:

Management of Water Resources Musa Asad,1999-01-01 Although procedures for pricing retail distribution have been established for a long time methods for pricing bulk or wholesale water supplies are still evolving How to finance the infrastructure and service of bulk water supply and how to use pricing to achieve efficient allocation and use of water as a resource are the central issues that emerge from discussions about bulk water pricing Efficiency will lead to allocating water resources better reducing water losses caused by poor maintenance of the supply systems and increased monitoring of water quality At first glance Brazil may not appear to be a relevant country from which to draw lessons in distributing scarce water resources since it contains 12 percent of the world s fresh water supply However with its vast territory and issues of regional drought and population explosion Brazil provides a unique environment in which to demonstrate how adequate pricing of bulk water on a regional level can help allocate water efficiently This paper offers a framework for bulk water pricing reform and examines the lessons from recent analytical work and practice in Brazil as well as relevant international experience It then offers recommendations for the development of both water pricing and allocation policies to facilitate continued implementation of bulk water pricing in Brazil

Management of Water Resources Musa Asad,1999 This document compares analytical work done on Brazil with the experience of bulk water pricing in other countries to arrive at practical recommendations for determining fair bulk water pricing in Brazil Adequate pricing of bulk water is critical to ensure efficient allocation of water and to properly fund the maintenance and operation costs involved with collecting water at its natural source and distributing it to intermediate water users Two central issues emerge from these discussions How to finance the infrastructure and service of bulk water supply and how pricing can be used to achieve efficient allocation and use of water as a resource Attaining efficiency will lead to better allocation of water resources which will reduce water losses caused by poor maintenance of water supply systems and inadequate attention to water contamination Of the varied methods used to address these issues public water allocation is regarded by the authors as being the least effective and efficient when you compare relevant international experiences Although Brazil has recognized the need for bulk water pricing it has not yet established an overall framework of regulations and pricing mechanisms Without such a framework the willingness to establish appropriate water pricing mechanisms may descend

Water Pricing and Public-Private Partnership Asit Biswas,Cecilia Tortajada,2014-04-10 There is no question that water pricing and public private partnership can improve water management practices in the future However this concept is neither the cure all many proponents argue nor the disaster its opponents forecast Providing a comprehensive and objective assessment of what does and does not work where why and under what circumstances this informative collection assesses the social economic equity and institutional implications This cohesive set of carefully selected essays the result of The Third World Centre for Water Management and the Inter American Development Bank's decision to objectively and critically assess the experiences in these areas transcends the current dogmatic debate on these complex issues. Providing an in depth analysis and assessment of the main issues and constraints of water pricing, private sector participation and their affect on water supply, the collection draws on illustrative case studies from Argentina, Brazil, the USA and Western European countries amongst others. This is a special issue of the Journal of Water Resource Development.

Irrigation Water Pricing François Molle, Jeremy Berkoff, 2007. This book contains 14 separately authored chapters on the pricing of irrigation water. The Vietnamese State's dilemma of decentralization of water management in the Red River Delta 8 Water pricing in Haryana, India 9 The energy irrigation nexus in South Asia: groundwater conservation and power sector viability 10 Wells and canals in Jordan: can pricing policies regulate irrigation water use 11 Water pricing in Tadla, Morocco 12 Water pricing policies and recent reforms in China: the conflict between conservation and other policy goals 13 Water pricing and irrigation: a review of the European experience and 14 Policy driven determinants of irrigation development and environmental sustainability: a case study in Spain.

Regulatory Frameworks for Water Resources Management Salman M. A. Salman, Daniel D. Bradlow, 2006-01-01. This title examines how regulatory frameworks have addressed the various basic issues related to water resources management and provides a comparative analysis of those issues. It elicits and discusses what it considers are the essential elements for a regulatory framework for water resources management and identifies some emerging trends.

Managing and Transforming Water Conflicts Jerome Delli Priscoli, Aaron T. Wolf, 2010-02-04. What is the one thing that no one can do without? Water. Where water crosses boundaries be they economic, legal, political or cultural, the stage is set for disputes between different users trying to safeguard access to a vital resource while protecting the natural environment. Without strategies to anticipate, address and mediate between competing users, intractable water conflicts are likely to become more frequent, more intense and more disruptive around the world. In this book Delli Priscoli and Wolf investigate the dynamics of water conflict and conflict resolution from the local to the international. They explore the inexorable links between three facets of conflict management and transformation: Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR), public participation and institutional capacity. This practical guide will be invaluable to water management professionals as well as to researchers and students in engineering, economics, geography, geology and political science who are involved in any aspects of water management.

Water and Development - Volume II Catherine M. Marquette, 2009-08-10. Water and Development is a component of Encyclopedia of Water Sciences, Engineering and Technology Resources in the global Encyclopedia of Life Support Systems (EOLSS) which is an integrated compendium of twenty one Encyclopedias Water is perhaps the most critical natural resource upon which humans depend Agricultural and food production trade and ultimately the economic development of all regions of the world depend on rivers streams dams oceans and other water resources This critical relationship has persisted through the agricultural and industrial revolution and into the era of economic globalization The relationship between human activity and the water resources on which it depends also continues to be reciprocal Human consumption energy agricultural industrial and other economic activity have significant impacts on water quality and quantity for better or worse A key element of sustainable development rests on our global capacity to interact with the water resources on which we depend in ways that preserve them for our use and that of future generations The two volumes on the subject present some of the topics such as Water Agriculture and Food Interactions dams water valuation arid regions water management and Conflict over Water Resources Water and Sustainable Development They consider the implications which contributions have in each of these areas as well as introduce additional issues relating to the future of dams innovative ways of increasing water supply transboundary water resources and the implications of global climate change for water resources These two volumes are aimed at the following five major target audiences University and College students Educators Professional practitioners Research personnel and Policy analysts Managers and Decision makers and NGOs

Telecommunications Legislation in Transitional and Developing Economies Tim Schwarz, David Satola, 2000 This paper examines the design of telecommunications legislation in countries with transitional and developing economies TDCs engaged in liberalising and privatising their telecommunications sectors It attempts to synthesise good practice and is intended to be used as a tool for legislative drafting The main purpose of the paper is to highlight some of the issues which policy makers and legislators in TDCs may wish to bear in mind The paper has three components The first section outlines the scope and underlying principles of telecommunications legislation the second section outlines the regulatory imperatives of telecommunications legislation and the third part the annex contains framework telecommunications legislation

Municipal Solid Waste Incineration T. Rand, J. Haukohl, U. Marxen, 2000-01-01 Ever increasing amounts of solid waste and dwindling space for disposal is a problem reaching crisis level in many of the world's largest urban areas Incineration as an alternative to landfill has come under scrutiny though the capital and operating costs generally exceed those associated with landfill This report provides background information for the Decision maker guide to municipal solid waste MSW incineration Key criteria for a solid waste incineration scheme are identified and the report gives decision makers information on how to investigate and assess the degree to which they are fulfilled

Farm Sector Restructuring in Belarus Csaba Csáki, Zvi Lerman, Serge? Sotnikov, 2000 Agriculture remains the main source of employment and livelihood for the large rural population of many transition countries especially among the former Soviet republics Accordingly the World Bank continuously monitors the progress of land reform and farm restructuring in the region because of the potential impact of these processes on rural development and poverty alleviation in rural areas The present study on Belarus is the latest addition to a long and growing series of World Bank publications on land reform and farm restructuring in the former socialist countries of Europe and Central Asia The unique features of all these publications is their reliance on first hand empirical information collected through extensive farm surveys of various rural constituencies Analysis of survey findings enables the World Bank to base its policy dialogue with governments in the region on solid empirical facts making the Bank's recommendations more credible and relevant The survey findings in this volume will provide a platform for useful policy discussions with this country's government and supply international donors that are active there with essential information to design their strategic programs

Turkmenistan Zvi Lerman, Karen McConnell Brooks, 2001-01-01 This study on Turkmenistan is the latest addition to a long and growing series of World Bank publications on land reform and farm restructuring in the former socialist countries of Europe and Central Asia The present report combines an analysis of the 1998 farm survey overview of general agricultural policies and sectoral performance Survey results are preceded by a sectoral review and a description of emerging legal framework for land reform and farm restructuring

The City Poverty Assessment Jesko Hentschel, Radha Seshagiri, 2000-01-01 Cities and towns are increasingly becoming the primary locus of poverty in many countries Rural urban migration and low urban mortality rates have contributed to the rapid population growth of cities in many parts of the world With such rapid growth comes an increasing concentration of poverty in urban areas In parallel more countries assign local governments increased responsibility in fighting poverty With decentralization the responsibility of local social policy goes beyond the execution of centrally designed and funded education and health programs In many countries local policymakers today decide on tax rates expenditure policies development of new assistance programs incentives for local economic development land and zoning laws and more The formulation of pro poor local policies requires good information analyses Local governments and their partners have both an opportunity and a need to understand the determinants of poverty and impediments for its reduction This paper is an introduction to how such local information on poverty can be gathered and analyzed It provides local policy makers with a broad overview of the type of questions typically asked and answered in City Poverty Assessments As the nature of poverty differs widely between cities and countries so will the content of such poverty assessments as they have to be adapted to local needs This publication will be of interest to city policy makers international organizations nongovernmental organizations and urban practitioners

Susan Bogach, 2000 This reports on a detailed market study of rural areas in China without access to electricity from the local or national grid It obtained basic socio economic data on households with and without photovoltaic PV systems and used the data to determine the market potential for PV systems in such areas Communal Infrastructure in Slovenia Mojmir Mrak, 2000 Annotation Although growth of infrastructure services in Vietnam since the late 1980s greatly facilitated rapid growth in exports and gross domestic product GDP Vietnam s infrastructure still suffers from a number of major inadequacies This report has three main objectives to describe and assess the current status and performance of key infrastructure sectors to describe and assess the policy regulatory and institutional environment for involving the private sector in those sectors and to help policymakers in framing future reform and development strategies and to assist potential private sector investors in assessing investment opportunities Groundwater Salman M. A. Salman, 1999-01-01 Water is becoming an increasingly scarce resource for most of the world s citizens The current trends indicate that the overall situation is likely to deteriorate further at least for the next decade unless the water profession eschews business as usual practices which can only allow incremental changes to occur Groundwater is the least understood and least appreciated yet the most important natural resource available to mankind Groundwater represents about 97% of the existing fresh water resources excluding the resources locked in polar ice More than one and a half billion people in the urban parts of the world today depend on groundwater Groundwater supply is more reliable than the seasonal and sometimes erratic surface water and provides the main line of defense against drought Moreover the quality of groundwater is by and large superior to surface water and cheaper to develop However when available data on groundwater is very scanty As a result the World Bank is now paying increasing attention to this valuable resource through both operations and sector work This publication represents the proceeding of the seminar Groundwater Legal and Policy Perspectives that was organized by the Legal Vice Presidency of the World Bank It explains some basic technical aspects of groundwater surveys the regulatory framework for it and discusses the World Bank experience and international law regarding this precious resource It is a timely publication and should also assist in a better understanding and appreciation of this valuable source It will be of interest to Bank staff borrowing country officials international agencies and research organizations working on groundwater Sustainable water management in the tropics and subtropics - and case studies in Brazil.
