Making Archaeology Happen Martin

Oswald Hugh Carver, 2016-06-16 Archaeology is for people is the theme of this book Split between the academic and commercial sectors archaeological investigation is also deeply embedded in the needs of local communities making it simultaneously an art science and social science Such a multi disciplinary discipline needs special methods and creative freedom not repetitive responses Carver argues that commercial procedures and academic theory are both suffocating creativity in fieldwork He d like to see us bring much more diversity and technical ingenuity to every opportunity and maintains this is more a matter of getting ourselves free of dogma than needing more time and money This has many implications for the way archaeology is designed and procured moving archaeologists up the professional ladder from builder to architect with contracts based on quality of design not the price Building Evaluation Wolfgang F.E.

Preiser, 2013-12-14 This book is about building evaluation in the broadest sense and it transcends the meaning and conventional boundaries of the evolving field of post occupancy evaluation by focusing on evaluation throughout the building delivery process This process is seen not just as being linear with a product in mind i e the completed and occupied building but rather it is seen as a cyclic evolution which has as its goal the continuous improvement of the quality of buildings This goal can only be accomplished if evaluation occurs throughout the building delivery process and if 1 the evaluation that does occur is systematic and rigorous 2 the data that is obtained can be fed into data bases and clearinghouses for use in future generations of buildings and 3 there is continuity in information flow The idea for this book originated with a symposium that was part of a conference held at the Technical University in Delft Netherlands in July of 1988 i e IAPS 10 the tenth biannual conference of the International Association for the Study of People and their Physical Surroundings Authors presented papers based on their book chapters and discussions ensued about the expanded boundaries of the field about theoretical methodological and practical issues as well as applications in building evaluation Other relevant topics were identified and several additional authors were invited to participate in order to round out the contents of this book Archaeological Investigation Martin Carver, 2013-10-18 Drawing its numerous examples from Britain and beyond Archaeological Investigation explores the procedures used in field archaeology travelling over the whole process from discovery to publication Divided into four parts it argues for a set of principles in part one describes work in the field in part two and how to write up in part three Part four describes the modern world in which all types of archaeologist operate academic and professional The central chapter Projects Galore takes the reader on a whirlwind tour through different kinds of investigation including in caves gravel quarries towns historic buildings and underwater Archaeological Investigation intends to be a companion for a newcomer to professional archaeology from a student introduction part one to first practical work part two to the first responsibilities for producing reports part three and in part four to the tasks of project design and heritage curation that provide the meat and drink of the fully fledged professional The book also proposes new ways of doing things tried out over the author s thirty years in the field and brought together here for the first time This is no plodding manual but an inspiring provocative informative and entertaining book urging that archaeological investigation is one of the most important things society does

Advances in Enterprise Engineering IX David Aveiro, Robert Pergl, Michal Valenta, 2015-06-02. This book constitutes the proceedings of the 5th Enterprise Engineering Working Conference EEWC 2015 held in Prague, Czech Republic during May 15-19, 2015. EEWC aims at addressing the challenges that modern and complex enterprises face in a rapidly changing world. The participants of the working conference share a belief that dealing with these challenges requires rigorous and scientific solutions focusing on the design and engineering of enterprises. The goal of EEWC is to stimulate interaction between the different stakeholders: scientists as well as practitioners interested in making enterprise engineering a reality. The 10 papers included in this book were presented at EEWC after being carefully reviewed and selected out of 29 submissions. The topics of the presented papers allowed for active participation in interesting discussions and exchange of ideas and stimulated future cooperation among the participants. This made EEWC a real working conference contributing to the further development of enterprise engineering as a mature discipline. Topics covered include enterprise engineering and DEMO, business process management simulation and analysis and complexity transformation and modeling.

The End of Project Overruns Robert M. Patty, Michael A. Denton, 2009-11. Applying the principles in this book unleashes ingenuity that achieves, solidifies and perpetuates a new performance culture of mutual benefit. In this culture, project teams will prepare their work in task packages and enable workflow necessary to leave inefficiency of time and resource literally no place to hide. Project examples will help teams implement the principles that shorten cycle times, eliminate error, improve quality and reduce costs to succeed in meeting project commitments. Emerging Lean enterprise relationships between clients, EPC contractors and their entire supply chain will advance what constitutes the new market, differentiating performance of individuals, project teams and companies justifying high levels of trust and inter-organizational efforts to improve. Client executives will learn to recognize root causes of risk and sources of excellence to mitigate them. Well-developed strategic improvement is often constrained because the traditional way current means and methods fit squarely in everyone's comfort zone. By learning to ask the right questions, top client leadership will soon render overruns from the best traditional systems as not good enough and strive for a new level of excellence. EPC executives will better engage creative voices from their best resources and stakeholders to resolve all concerns and define a unified vision for how to deliver on clients' expectations without overruns during capital project delivery. Lean methods will effectively assure that vision, principles and best expectations are understood and implemented at the workplace. Department discipline and stakeholder leaders will align and no longer frustrate each other and their clients. They will plan and execute with increased efficiency and effectiveness. Cost reduction will accelerate retaining only client-valued quality, enabling a nimble response to market opportunities and threats. Project and program managers will confidently accept intense market-induced cost and schedule reduction efforts They will apply new metrics measure potential and extract align and pilot improvements They will make workplace progress transparent to simplify resource balancing full utilization and workplace flow during all project phases The results will differentiate team members and their project s performance on the world stage Project professionals and the skilled labor force will gain confidence to make and keep increasingly difficult commitments and experience thereby increasing opportunity in an organization known for excellence They will fully engage heart and mind for leaders who expect excellence and they trust to enable and reward best practice performance while they jointly eliminate root causes of problems before they happen This book guides readers through each essential role for the transformation to Lean not just at the lowest levels but of the entire business model and all the supporting processes Resulting market recognition of sustained excellence of people their systems and they way they work together will create a market leading force      Resources in Education ,1996
