Bergerson, 1991-01-30 The curriculum of public policy education is currently undergoing an introspective examination as academics and practitioners develop programs to reflect the dramatic theoretical informational technological and managerial changes of the 1980s This book is a response to some of these creative and innovative instructional techniques The text covers policy theory research and a number of substantive topics including financial management budgeting ethics computers and experiential learning The essays are grouped in seven separate areas each emphasizing successful teaching strategies Organizational theory is the first area to be treated with discussions of public administration education and democratic values a reflection in action model and the role of ethics in public policy education Research skills are covered through surveys of quantitative analysis skills of MPA students and bridging the gap between methods courses and real research studies Surveys of information resource management and an active reactive model of policy evaluation comprise the section on program evaluation and management while financial core curriculum courses are considered in chapters on in class budget simulations and fiscal management in the public sector A computers and communications section focuses on computer literacy and the skills an MPA program should teach and two contributions analyze comparative public administration Finally a concluding section explores the contemporary issues of the use of practitioners in the classroom experiential learning and the political science perspective on public administration This volume will be a useful resource for courses in public administration public policy and political science as well as a welcome addition to public and academic libraries

Development Management Justice Nyigmah Bawole, Farhad Hossain, Asad K. Ghalib, Christopher J. Rees, Aminu Mamman, 2016-10-04 Despite significant financial investments the rate of development and pace of poverty reduction in developing and transitional countries has not always matched expectations Development management typically involves complex interactions between governmental and non governmental organisations donors and members of the public and can be difficult to navigate This volume brings together a group of international contributors to explore the theoretical and empirical underpinnings of development management and to consider the prospects and challenges associated with it in the context of both developing and transitional countries Referring to dominant norms and values in public and developmental organisations development management is tied up with the attitudes and perceptions of various stakeholders including government officials public sector managers aid workers donors and members of the public Attempting to make sense of complex interactions between these actors is highly problematic and calls for new approaches models and insights Based on cutting edge research the chapters challenge much of the previous discourse on the subject and evaluate the challenges and opportunities that it presents Development Management offers academics researchers and practitioners of public administration business and management international development and political science a comprehensive and state of the art review of current research on development management in the context of developing and transitional countries
