

COMMITMENT TO CHANGE

It's not an all or nothing proposition

Herscovitch and Meyer's model of change commitment suggests that support for organizational change shows up in different ways.

POSITIVE
COMMITMENT

NEGATIVE

TYPE	DRIVER	ACTIONS
EMOTION-BASED (Affective)	DESIRE Believe the change is important & will benefit them & org.	CHAMPIONING Advocate for change. Willing to invest a lot in the effort.
VALUES-BASED (Normative)	OBLIGATION Want to do the "right" thing.	COOPERATION Willing to do their part, make small sacrifices.
COST-AVOIDANCE (Continuance)	SELF-PRESERVATION Believe the cost of non-compliance is too high.	COMPLIANCE Do what's asked and only what's asked.
RESISTANCE Passive and Active	OBSTRUCTION Want the change to fail.	CHALLENGE Non-compliance to sabotage.

A Manager's Guide to Human Behavior, Fifth Edition Matthew Reis, Judith B. Geller, 2010 Understanding how and why employees behave as they do is a critical skill for managers in every organization. Managers are responsible for ensuring that the organization's mission and strategic goals are enacted so it is of the utmost importance they know how to motivate and engage employees. This updated and revised edition of A Manager's Guide to Human Behavior will prepare managers to better understand, motivate, and focus the energies of individual employees and the collective energy of their work teams. Building on the content in the fourth edition, this updated course reexamines key theories and focuses on their practical application to typical management situations. New topics in this edition include learning organizations and open systems as a context for understanding how individuals contribute to organizational effectiveness, self-awareness, Goleman's emotional intelligence, and Bridge's transitions model of change. The performance management section has been enhanced with a simplified process model: define, develop, review, and reward, and the section on leadership examines the concept of the versatile leader who engages the spirit, head, heart, and hands of employees. Throughout the course, self-assessments, worksheets, checklists, and questionnaires give students the opportunity to apply what they are learning. Each chapter incorporates an action plan tied to the objectives and competencies for the topic area. Short case studies enable students to apply their new knowledge to analyze, understand, and influence human behavior.

Hannah, Ulla Gerdin Jelger, Hans Peterson, 2013-11-11 Nursing like other health-related professions is information intensive.

The quality of care a patient receives is based on the soundness of judgment exercised by the health care team. Underlying sound judgment is up-to-date information. Unless nurses have access to accurate and pertinent information, the care being rendered will not be of the highest standard. What is required is not necessarily more rapid and efficient information services. Modern technology can process immense amounts of data in the blink of an eye. What we in the health professions need are information systems that are more intelligent systems that can integrate information from many sources, systems that analyze and synthesize information and display it so that it may be applied directly in patient care. In other words, information that answers a question or even gives practical advice. In order to accomplish such objectives, work is needed to establish the scientific and theoretical basis for the use of computing and information systems by health professionals. This is the research component. In addition, there is the need for continued development and evaluation of practical information systems.
