

Milinda spoke thus to Devamantiya: "Well then, do you, Devamantiya, let the revered one know that tomorrow he must converse with the king in the palace." When he had said this, King Milinda rose from his seat and asked the Elder Nāgasena (for permission to depart)¹ and, mounting his horse repeating 'Nāgasena, Nāgasena,'² he departed. Then Devamantiya spoke thus to the venerable Nāgasena: "Revered sir, King Milinda speaks thus: Tomorrow there must be conversation in the palace." The Elder assented by saying: "It is well." Then Devamantiya and Anantakāya and Mankura and Sabbadinna³ approached King Milinda towards the end of that night, and when they had approached King Milinda they spoke thus to him: "Sire, shall the revered Nāgasena come?" [30] "Yes, let him come." "With how many monks shall he come?" "Let him come with as many monks as he likes." Then Sabbadinna said: "Let him come, sire, with ten monks." And a second time the King said: "Let him come with as many monks as he likes." And a second time Sabbadinna said: "Sire, let him come with ten monks." And a third time the King said: "Let him come with as many monks as he likes." And a third time Sabbadinna said: "Sire, let him come with ten monks."

"All this hospitality has been prepared and I say: 'Let him come with as many monks as he likes,' but although I have said this, Sabbadinna says otherwise. Are we not competent to give food to the monks?" When this had been said, Sabbadinna was ashamed.

(iv) Then Devamantiya and Anantakāya and Mankura

² MilnT. 8 says that according to Buddhaghosācariya the king said this to show his great respect for Nāgasena.

and the answer to the question Why me has eluded not only those who are the victims of suffering but those who sympathize with them and try to understand and explain their suffering In this highly personal account Arvind Sharma shares his story of becoming the victim of a severe road accident and his gradual recovery from a fractured knee which included a hospital stay surgeries unexpected setbacks and a lengthy process of rehabilitation In the second and most substantial part of the book Sharma attempts to intellectually come to terms with his experience and to reflect on how the experience of suffering in one form or another is a universal condition of human existence This book reads like a spiritual handbook on the problems of suffering and evil which can be overwhelming It is filled with wisdom of various traditions on the viscous question of theodicy but is balanced by sprightly humor The difficult subject is made accessible through personal reflections and philosophical and religious insights Once I started reading I had to finish it it was captivating and inspiring Veena R Howard author of Gandhi s Ascetic Activism Renunciation and Social Action This fascinating and highly personal book offers a rare window into how events in the lives of scholars can shape their work and worldview It is a valuable contribution to the wider discourse on the embodied and embedded nature of scholarly work that it does not occur in a vacuum or from some imagined objective Archimedean standpoint Jeffery D Long author of A Vision for Hinduism Beyond Hindu Nationalism Esoteric Theravada Kate Crosby,2020-12-22 A groundbreaking exploration of a practice tradition that was nearly lost to history Theravada Buddhism often understood as the school that most carefully preserved the practices taught by the Buddha has undergone tremendous change over time Prior to Western colonialism in Asia which brought Western and modernist intellectual concerns such as the separation of science and religion to bear on Buddhism there existed a tradition of embodied esoteric and culturally regional Theravada meditation practices This once dominant traditional meditation system known as bor n kammatt na is related to yet remarkably distinct from Vipassana and other Buddhist and secular mindfulness practices that would become the hallmark of Theravada Buddhism in the twentieth century Drawing on a quarter century of research scholar Kate Crosby offers the first holistic discussion of bor n kammatt na illuminating the historical events and cultural processes by which the practice has been marginalized in the modern era Maitreya on Initiation Elizabeth Clare Prophet,2006 A History of Uyghur Buddhism Johan Elverskog,2024-06-18 Today most Uyghurs are Muslims For centuries however Uyghurs were Buddhists By around 1000 CE they like many of their neighbors had decisively turned toward the Dharma and a golden age of Uyghur Buddhism flourished under the Mongol empire Dwelling along the Silk Road in what is now northwestern China they stood at the center of Buddhist Eurasia linking far flung regions and traditions But as Muslim power grew Uyghur Buddhists converted to Islam rewriting their past and erasing their Buddhist history This book presents the first comprehensive history of Buddhism among the Uyghurs from the ninth to the seventeenth century Johan Elverskog traces how the Uyghurs forged their distinctive tradition considering a variety of social political cultural and religious contexts He argues that the religious history of the Uyghurs challenges conventional narratives of the meeting of Buddhism and Islam showing that conversion took place gradually and was driven by factors such as geopolitics climate change and technological innovation Elverskog also provides a nuanced understanding of lived Buddhism focusing on ritual practices and materiality as well as the religion's entanglements with economics politics and violence A groundbreaking history of Uyghur Buddhism this book makes a compelling case for the importance of the Uyghurs in shaping the course of both Buddhist and Asian history

The Lamp for the Eye of Contemplation Sangs-rgyas-ye-shes,2023-01-03 The book provides a complete translation of a groundbreaking Tibetan treatise on contemplation the Samten Migdron by Nubchen Sangye Yeshe 10th century This is one of the principal sources for our understanding of the various currents of meditation transmitted to Tibet during the early spread of Buddhism to that country It offers a detailed window into the ways in which one of the most learned masters of the early Tibetan Buddhist tradition made sense of the different forms of meditation practiced in his day

Buddhism and the Senses Robert DeCaroli,Donald S. Lopez Jr.,Donald S Lopez Jr,2024-09-24 Across Buddhist traditions the five senses sight sound smell taste and touch are perceived both positively and negatively Share our eminent scholars fascination and deep insight into what makes a sensuous experience good or bad Following on the exhibition Encountering the Buddha Art and Practice across Asia at the National Museum of Asian Art ten eminent scholars present their insights into Buddhism's fascinating relation with the five senses sight sound smell taste and touch which careens between delight and disgust rarely finding a middle way While much of Buddhist literature is devoted to overcoming the attachment that dooms us to rebirth in samsara primarily by deprecating sense experience and showing that whatever brings us sensual pleasure leads only to physical and mental pain in texts such as the Lotus Sutra sensory powers do not offer sensory pleasure but rather knowledge clear observation and ability to teach the Dharma Considering such religiously and historically contingent ambiguity this volume presents each of the five senses in two instantiations the good and the bad opening up the discourse on the senses across Buddhist traditions Just as the museum departed from tradition to incorporate sensory experiences into the exhibition this volume is a new direction in scholarship to humanize Buddhist studies by foregrounding sensory experience and practice inviting the reader to think about the senses in a focused manner and shifting our understanding of Buddhism from the conceptual to the material or practical from the idealized to the human from the abstract to the grounded from the mind to the body

Ganesh Robert L. Brown,1991-01-01 This book examines the complete Ganesh for the first time Here is the God in his multiple forms from the different geographical areas in Asia Particularly important are chapters that deal with his Buddhist and Tantric forms The controversial question of his origins is also thoroughly discussed

Rethinking 'Classical Yoga' and Buddhism Karen O'Brien-Kop,2021-09-09 This book revisits the early systemic formation of meditation practices called yoga in South Asia by employing metaphor theory Karen O'Brien-Kop also develops an alternative way of analysing the reception history of yoga that aims to decentre the Eurocentric and imperialist enterprises of the nineteenth century to reframe the cultural period of the 1st 5th centuries CE using categorical markers from South Asian intellectual history Buddhist traditions were just as concerned as Hindu traditions with meditative disciplines of yoga By exploring the intertextuality of the Patanjalyogasastra with texts such as Vasubandhu's Abhidharmakosabhasya and Asanga's Yogacarabhumisastra this book highlights and clarifies many ideologically Buddhist concepts and practices in Patanjala yoga Karen O'Brien Kop demonstrates that classical yoga was co-constructed systemically by both Hindu and Buddhist thinkers who were drawing on the same conceptual metaphors of the period This analysis demystifies early yoga meditation as a timeless classical practice and locates it in a specific material context of agrarian and urban economies

The Sacred Books of the East: v. 36. The Questions of King Milinda Friedrich Max Müller, 1890

The Buddha's Footprint Johan Elverskog, 2020-01-24 A corrective to the contemporary idea that Buddhism has always been an environmentally friendly religion In the current popular imagination Buddhism is often understood to be a religion intrinsically concerned with the environment The Dharma the name given to Buddhist teachings by Buddhists states that all things are interconnected Therefore Buddhists are perceived as extending compassion beyond people and animals to include plants and the earth itself out of a concern for the total living environment In The Buddha's Footprint Johan Elverskog contends that only by jettisoning this contemporary image of Buddhism as a purely ascetic and apolitical tradition of contemplation can we see the true nature of the Dharma According to Elverskog Buddhism is in fact an expansive religious and political system premised on generating wealth through the exploitation of natural resources Elverskog surveys the expansion of Buddhism across Asia in the period between 500 BCE and 1500 CE when Buddhist institutions were built from Iran and Azerbaijan in the west to Kazakhstan and Siberia in the north Japan in the east and Sri Lanka and Indonesia in the south He examines the prosperity theology at the heart of the Dharma that declared riches to be a sign of good karma and the means by which spiritual status could be elevated through donations bequeathed to Buddhist institutions He demonstrates how this scriptural tradition propelled Buddhists to seek wealth and power across Asia and to exploit both the people and the environment Elverskog shows the ways in which Buddhist expansion not only entailed the displacement of local gods and myths with those of the Dharma as was the case with Christianity and Islam but also involved fundamentally transforming earlier social and political structures and networks of economic exchange The Buddha's Footprint argues that the institutionalization of the Dharma was intimately connected to agricultural expansion resource extraction deforestation urbanization and the monumentalization of Buddhism itself
