Millenium Hall Sarah Scott, 1995-10-03 In 1750 at the age of twenty seven Sarah Scott published her first novel a conventional romance A year later she left her husband after only a few months of marriage and devoted herself thereafter to writing and to promoting such causes as the creation of secular and separatist female communities This revolutionary concept was given flesh in Millenium Hall first published in 1762 and generally thought to be the finest of her six novels The text may be seen as the manifesto of the bluestocking movement the protean feminism that arose under eighteenth century gentry capitalism originating in 1750 largely under the impetus of Scott s sister Elizabeth Montagu and that rejected a world which early feminists saw symbolized in the black silk stockings demanded by formal society It is a comment on Western society as well as on the strengths of Scott s novel that the message of Millenium Hall continues to resonate strongly more than two centuries later A Description of Millenium Hall and the Country Adjacent Sarah Scott, 2018-08-12 A Description of Millenium Hall and the Country Adjacent Large Print by Sarah Scott Sarah Scott was an English novelist translator social reformer and member of the Bluestockings Her most famous work was her utopian novel A Description of Millenium Hall and the Country Adjacent followed closely by the sequel The History of Sir George Ellison We are delighted to publish this classic

A Description of Millenium Hall and the Country Adjacent Sarah Scott, 2018-07-08 A Description of Millenium Hall And the Country Adjacent Together with the Characters of the Inhabitants and Such Historical Anecdotes and Reflections Sarah Scott You may remember Sir that when I took leave of you with a design of retiring to my native county there to enjoy the plenty and leisure for which a few years labour had furnished me with the necessary requisites I was advised by an eminent physician to make a very extensive tour through the western part of this kingdom in order by frequent change of air and continued exercise to cure the ill effects of my long abode in the hot and unwholesome climate of Jamaica where while I increased my fortune I gradually impaired my constitution and though one who like me has dedicated all his application to mercantile gain will not allow that he has given up the substance for the shadow yet perhaps it would be difficult to deny that I thus sacrificed the greater good in pursuit of the less We are delighted to publish this classic book as part of our extensive Classic Library collection Many of the books in our collection have been out of print for decades and therefore have not been accessible to the general public The aim of our publishing program is to facilitate rapid access to this vast reservoir of literature and our view is that this is a significant literary work which deserves to be brought back into print after many decades The contents of the vast majority of titles in the Classic Library have been scanned from the original works To ensure a high quality product each title has been meticulously hand curated by our staff Our philosophy has been guided by a desire to provide the reader with a book that is as close as possible to ownership of the original work We hope that you will enjoy this wonderful classic work and that for you it becomes an enriching experience

These essays reflect on issues related to specific configurations of utopias and utopianism by considering in detail English and French texts by both women: Sarah Scott, Sarah Fielding, Isabelle de Charrière, and men: Paltock and Montesquieu. The contributors ask the following questions: In the influential discourses of eighteenth-century utopian writing, is there a place for woman, and if so, what or where is it? How do women disrupt, confirm, or ground the utopian projects within which these constructs occur? By posing questions about the inscription of gender in the context of eighteenth-century utopian writing, the contributors shed new light on the eighteenth-century legacies that continue to shape contemporary views of social and political progress. A Description of Millenium Hall: and the Country Adjacent Together with the Characters of the Inhabitants and Such Historical Anecdotes and Reflections As May Excite in the Reader Proper Sentiments of Humanity, and Lead the Mind to the Love of Virtue Sarah Scott, 2016-05-13 Sarah Scott ne Robinson 21 September 1723 3 November 1795 was an English novelist, translator, social reformer, and member of the Bluestockings. Reflections As May Excite in the Reader Proper Sentiments of Humanity and Lead the Mind to the Love of Virtue by Sarah Scott Though when I left London I promised to write to you as soon as I had reached my northern retreat yet I believe you little expected instead of a letter to receive a volume but I should not stand excused to myself were I to fail communicating to you the pleasure I received in my road hither from the sight of a society whose acquaintance I owe to one of those fortunate though in appearance trifling accidents from which sometimes arise the most pleasing circumstances of our lives for as such I must ever esteem the acquaintance of that amiable family who have fixed their abode at a place which I shall nominate Millenium Hall as the best adapted to the lives of the inhabitants and to avoid giving the real name fearing to offend that modesty which has induced them to conceal their virtues in retirement We are delighted to publish this classic book as part of our extensive Classic Library collection Many of the books in our collection have been out of print for decades and therefore have not been accessible to the general public The aim of our publishing program is to facilitate rapid access to this vast reservoir of literature and our view is that this is a significant literary work which deserves to be brought back into print after many decades The contents of the vast majority of titles in the Classic Library have been scanned from the original works To ensure a high quality product each title has been meticulously hand curated by our staff Our philosophy has been guided by a desire to provide the reader with a book that is as close as possible to ownership of the original work We hope that you will enjoy this wonderful classic work and that for you it becomes an enriching experience The Power of Female Community Julie Marie Zeleznik,1997 The Letters of Sarah Scott Vol 1 Nicole Pohl,2024-08-01 Sarah Robinson Scott was a writer translator and social reformer While Scott s legacy presents her as a committed Anglican philanthropist the letters she wrote reveal her to have been a witty even savage commentator on eighteenth century life This is the first edition of Scott s letters to be published and presents all extant copies Families of the Heart Ann Campbell,2022-11-11 In this innovative analysis of canonical British novels Campbell identifies a new literary device the surrogate family as a signal of cultural anxieties about young women s changing relationship to matrimony across the long eighteenth century By assembling chosen families rather than families of origin Campbell convincingly argues female protagonists in these works compensate for weak family ties explore the world and themselves prepare for idealized marriages or sidestep marriage altogether Tracing the evolution of this rich convention from the female characters in Defoe s and Richardson s fiction who are allowed some autonomy in choosing spouses to the more explicitly feminist work of Haywood and Burney in which connections between protagonists and their surrogate sisters and mothers can substitute for marriage itself this book makes an ambitious intervention by upending a traditional trope the model of the hierarchal family ultimately offering a new lens through which to regard these familiar works Notes and Queries ,1892 Sarah Scott Gaby Esther Onderwyzer,1957 Prolific Ground Nicolle Jordan,2024-11-15 Land ownership and engagement with land more generally constituted a crucial dimension of female independence in eighteenth century Britain Because political citizenship was restricted to male property owners women could not wield political power in the way propertied men did Given its foundational sociopolitical function land necessarily generated copious writing that vested it with considerable aesthetic and economic value This book then situates these issues in relation to the historical transformation of landscape under emergent capitalism The women writers featured herein including Jane Barker Anne Finch Sarah Scott and Elizabeth Montagu participated in this transformation by celebrating female estate stewardship and evaluating the estate stewardship of men By asserting their authority in such matters these writers acquired a degree of independence and self determination that otherwise proved elusive
