News of Norway, 1952 The Complete History of Plague in Norway, 1348-1654 Ole Jørgen

Benedictow, 2022-07-08 Historical studies of plague are predominantly related to individual local epidemics often associated with the Black Death However this unique book provides a complete presentation of the entire Second Plague Pandemic in Norway from the Black Death to the last outbreaks of plague in 1654 It begins with a succinct presentation of the history of plague and its basic clinical and epidemiological features while also drawing upon new scholarship and research It confirms the great genetic stability of the plague contagion and shows that the outbreaks and spread of plague can be studied in interaction with two historical societies of two historical periods the late medieval society and the early modern society The changes and differences in epidemiology and dynamics of plague between the two halves of the pandemic are gateways to understanding how plague epidemics are transmitted disseminated and evolve The book's long term perspective allows it to study plague's epidemiology and to identify consistent long term features The Phonology of the Dialect of Aurland, Norway George Tobias Flom, 1915 Jane Austen Speaks Norwegian Marie N. Sørbø, 2018-01-16 What can translations reveal about the global reception of any authorship In Jane Austen Speaks Norwegian The Challenges of Literary Translation Marie Nedregotten Sørbø compares two novels and six translations of them The discussion is entirely in English as all Norwegian versions are back translated This study therefore lends itself to comparisons with other languages and aims to fill its place as one component in a worldwide field of research how Jane Austen is understood and transmitted Moreover this book presents a selection of pertinent issues for any translator including abbreviation and elaboration style and vocabulary and censorship Sørbø gives vivid examples of how literary translation happens and how it serves to interpret and refashion literature for new readerships Bibliography of Social Science Periodicals and Monograph Series : Norway, 1945-1962 United States. The Last Witches of England John Callow, 2021-10-07 Fascinating and vivid New Statesman Thoroughly researched The Spectator Intriguing BBC History Magazine Vividly told BBC History Revealed A timely warning against persecution Morning Star Astute and thoughtful History Today An important work All About History Well researched The Tablet On the morning of Thursday 29 June 1682 a magpie came rasping rapping and tapping at the window of a prosperous Devon merchant Frightened by its appearance his servants and members of his family had within a matter of hours convinced themselves that the bird was an emissary of the devil sent by witches to destroy the fabric of their lives As the result of these allegations three women of Bideford came to be forever defined as witches A Secretary of State brushed aside their case and condemned them to the gallows to hang as the last group of women to be executed in England for the crime Yet the hatred of their neighbours endured For Bideford it was said was a place of witches Though pretty much worn away the belief in witchcraft still lingered on for more than a century after their deaths In turn ignored reviled and extinguished but never more than half forgotten it seems that the memory of these three women and of their deeds and sufferings both real and imagined was transformed from canker to regret and from regret into celebration in our own age Indeed their example was cited during the final Parliamentary debates in 1951 that saw the last of the witchcraft acts repealed and their names were chanted as both inspiration and incantation by the women beyond the wire at Greenham Common In this book John Callow explores this remarkable reversal of fate and the remarkable tale of the Bideford Witches Social Geography Series: Eastern

Women, Politics, and Social Networks in the Sagas of Norwegian Kings Markus Eldegard Mindrebø,2025-05-19
The Old Norse Icelandic konungas gur kings sagas have been thoroughly studied for centuries for their vivid representation of Scandinavia s Viking Age past but women have frequently been overlooked in scholarly discussions of the political culture found within the texts Women Politics and Social Networks in the Sagas of Norwegian Kings shows that in their accounts of early Norwegian history the kings sagas portray aristocratic and royal women as able to participate in politics at a similar level to men but only within certain social parameters Women are structurally enabled to enter male dominated political spaces and positions through their participation in interaction with and manipulation of multifaceted aristocratic networks based around interpersonal bonds of kinship friendship and lordship Inspired by advancements within medieval network theory and studies of aristocratic group behaviour and women s social agency in medieval historiography the book demonstrates that the sagas portray elite women as utilising the same network strategies as men and potentially exercising similar levels of political power as a consequence while being excluded from the institutionalised roles of kingship chieftaincy and military and judicial leadership Trade Promotion Series ,1930 The Frithiof Saga. A Poem. Translated from the Norwegian by R. Muckleston Esaias TEGNÉR (Bishop of Wexiö.),1862 Air Transport Provision in Remoter Regions Svein Bråthen,2016-03-23 This book stems from a series of biennial conferences devoted to issues affecting air transport provision in remoter regions that have been organized by the Centre for Air Transport in Remoter Regions at Cranfield University The primary aim of the conferences has been to provide an opportunity for those responsible for operating managing regulating and financing air transport services and associated infrastructure in these areas to be informed of the latest best practice initiatives to contrast different policy approaches and to debate potential solutions to perennial problems Remoter regions has been a neglected area of air transport as much of the focus of public and media attention is on the larger airlines airports and aircraft While the number of large airports in the world is in the hundreds there are many thousands of smaller airports providing communities all over the globe with vital air links More often than not these services and the airports to which they are operated are loss making and require subsidies to sustain them There are therefore many more interested parties involved in both providing and deciding issues relating to the provision of air transport in these situations most especially central regional and local governments who are charged with financing these activities The book contains 17 chapters from experts in remote region air transport within the following 5 sections Key economic and socio economic issues Subvention mechanisms Route development initiatives Infrastructure provision Issues affecting the provision of air services in remoter regions Moody's Manual of Railroads and Corporation Securities ,1920 The

Schumacher,Cordelia Heß,2025-07-14 In Aristotle s Poetics the well constructed turning point peripeteia makes a story by unfolding its tragic or more broadly literary potential But neither narrative nor historical turning points occur in empty spaces Given the power of the peripety for plot making this volume inquires about its agency in the shaping of specific regions Narration matters for the constitution of events and regions alike space matters as a key element for the construction of plots and their dynamics The Baltic Sea region with its rich literary and cultural traditions and multiple overlapping layers of historical ruptures is a particularly fruitful area for exploring transformation processes from a narratological point of view
