Jones, 2015-03-08 Catherine the Great s treatment of the Russian nobility has usually been regarded as dictated by court politics or her personal predilections Citing new archival sources Robert Jones shows that her redefinition and reorganization of the Russian nobility were in fact motivated by reasons of state In 1762 Peter III had emancipated the nobility from obligatory state service and in the early years of her reign Catherine attempted to govern Russia through a bureaucratic administration Although this threatened the provincial nobles with social and economic decline the government was oblivious to their plight until the peasant revolt of 1773 1775 convinced Catherine that she could not provide Russia with a government capable of defending and promoting the national interest without them This realization led to the formation of a new alliance between the state and the nobility based on a mutual fear of peasant revolt and expressed first in the provincial reforms of 1775 and finally in Catherine s Charter to the Nobility of 1785 In the

1760 s Catherine had hoped to forestall peasant uprisings by improving the lot of the serfs and limiting the authority of the serf owners But faced with the choice between controlling the serfs in a way open to abuses and eliminating abuses in a way that might lead to loss of control Catherine chose the former Her Charter committed the state to the preservation of serfdom and the reactionary ancien r gime Originally published in 1973 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905
