Russian Poetry A Personal Anthology:

Russian Poetry R. A. Ford, 1995 Contemporary Russian Poetry Евгений Бунимович, J. Kates, 2008 Prominent Moscow poet Evgeny Bunimovich selected representative work from forty four living Russian poets born after 1945 to be translated and published in this bilingual edition The collection ranges from the mordant post Soviet irony of Igor Irteniev to the fresh voices of poets like Marianna Geide and Anna Russ young women just beginning to make themselves heard The book includes the work of Booker Prize winner Sergey Gandlevsky and several winners of the Andrey Bely Prize and Brodsky Fellowships Most of these poems and many of the poets have previously been unpublished in the West Reading and Writing Poetry with Teenagers Fredric Lown, Judith W. Steinbergh, 1996 This versatile volume combines examples of poetry from historical and contemporary masters with high school writing Each chapter contains poems for reading aloud poems for discussion models for writing exercises samples of student poems and a bibliography for extended reading Many teachers use Reading and Writing Poetry with Teenagers across disciplines Writing exercises include Animals as Symbols Family Portraits in Words Of War and Peace Writing Song Lyrics as an Expression of Social Protest Twentieth-Century Russian Poetry Katharine Hodgson, Joanne Shelton, Alexandra Smith, 2017-04-21 The canon of Russian poetry has been reshaped since the fall of the Soviet Union A multi authored study of changing cultural memory and identity this revisionary work charts Russia's shifting relationship to its own literature in the face of social upheaval Literary canon and national identity are inextricably tied together the composition of a canon being the attempt to single out those literary works that best express a nation's culture This process is of course fluid and subject to significant shifts particularly at times of epochal change This volume explores changes in the canon of twentieth century Russian poetry from the 1991 collapse of the Soviet Union to the end of Putin's second term as Russian President in 2008 In the wake of major institutional changes such as the abolition of state censorship and the introduction of a market economy the way was open for wholesale reinterpretation of twentieth century poets such as Iosif Brodskii Anna Akhmatova and Osip Mandel'shtam their works and their lives In the last twenty years many critics have discussed the possibility of various coexisting canons rooted in official and non official literature and suggested replacing the term Soviet literature with a new definition Russian literature of the Soviet period Contributions to this volume explore the multiple factors involved in reshaping the canon understood as a body of literary texts given exemplary or representative status as classics Among factors which may influence the composition of the canon are educational institutions competing views of scholars and critics including figures outside Russia and the self canonising activity of poets themselves Canon revision further reflects contemporary concerns with the destabilising effects of emigration and the internet and the desire to reconnect with pre revolutionary cultural traditions through a narrative of the past which foregrounds continuity Despite persistent nostalgic yearnings in some quarters for a single canon the current situation is defiantly diverse balancing both the Soviet literary tradition and the parallel contemporaneous literary worlds of the
