Rev. Francis E. Gigot Collection [4 Books] Rev. Francis E. Gigot, Aeterna Press, Naamiwan's Drum Maureen Matthews, 2017-01-06 Naamiwan's Drum follows the story of a famous Ojibwe medicine man his gifted grandson and remarkable water drum This drum and forty other artefacts were given away by a Canadian museum to an American Anishinaabe group that had no family or community connections to the collection Many years passed before the drum was returned to the family and only about half of the artefacts were ever returned to the museum Maureen Matthews takes us through this astonishing set of events from multiple perspectives exploring community and museum viewpoints visiting the ceremonial group leader in Wisconsin and finally looking back from the point of view of the drum The book contains a powerful Anishinaabe interpretive perspective on repatriation and on anthropology itself Containing fourteen beautiful colour illustrations Naamiwan's Drum is a compelling account of repatriation as well as a cautionary tale for museum professionals

Collections Management as Critical Museum Practice Cara Krmpotich, Alice Stevenson, 2024-07-22 There is a common misconception that collections management in museums is a set of rote procedures or technical practices that follow universal standards of best practice This volume recognises collections management as a political critical and social project involving considerable intellectual labour that often goes unacknowledged within institutions and in the fields of museum and heritage studies Collections Management as Critical Museum Practice brings into focus the knowledges value systems ethics and workplace pragmatics that are foundational for this work Rather than engaging solely with cultural modifications such as Indigenous care practices the book presents local knowledge of place and material which is relevant to how collections are managed and cared for worldwide Through discussion of varied collection types management activities and professional roles contributors develop a contextualised reflexive practice for how core collections management standards are conceptualised negotiated and enacted Chapters span national museums in Brazil and Uganda to community led heritage work in Malaysia and Canada they explore complexities of numbering digitisation and description alongside the realities of climate change global pandemics and natural disasters The book offers a new definition of collections management travelling from what is done to care for collections to what is done to care for collections and their users Rather than use being an end goal it emerges as a starting point to rethink collections work contemporary significance the book exposes the opportunities and challenges involved in returning cultural heritage for the communities and the institutions that hold significant collections the author reveals important new insights about the impact of return on communities Technological advances combined with the push towards decolonising methodologies in Indigenous research have resulted in considerable interest in ensuring that collections of cultural value are returned to Indigenous communities Gibson challenges the rhetoric of museum repatriation arguing that while it has been tremendously important to advancing Indigenous interest it is too often over simplified Repatriation of Indigenous Cultural Heritage offers a timely critical perspective on current museum practice and its place within processes of cultural production and transmission The book is sure to resonate in other international contexts where questions about Indigenous re engagement and decolonisation strategies are being debated and will be of interest to students and scholars of Museum Studies Indigenous Studies and
