It looks at the practices, habits, conventions, and norms of constitutional life. It focuses on the structures, processes, and culture that govern the exercise of public power, a perspective that is necessary to explore and account for a lived rather than textual constitution. New Zealand's constitution is unique. One of three remaining unwritten democratic constitutions in the world, it is characterised by a charming set of anachronistic contrasts. Unwritten but much found in various written sources. Built on a network of Westminster constitutional conventions but generously tailored to local conditions. Proudly independent yet perhaps a purer Westminster model than its British parent. Flexible and vulnerable while oddly enduring. It looks to the centralised authority that comes with a strong executive, strict parliamentary sovereignty, and a unitary state. However, its populace insists on egalitarian values and representative democracy with elections fiercely conducted nowadays under a system of proportional representation. The interests of indigenous Maori are protected largely through democratic majority rule. A reputation for upholding the rule of law, yet few institutional safeguards to ensure compliance. Confidence and Concern: Citizens View American Government United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Government Operations. Subcommittee on Intergovernmental Relations, 1974 Understanding Loss Judith Murray, 2015-09-16 Loss and consequent grief permeates nearly every life-changing event from death to health concerns to dislocation to relationship breakdown to betrayal to natural disaster to faith issues. Yet while we know about particular events of loss, independently we know very little about a psychology of loss that draws many adversities together. This universal experience of loss as a concept in its own right sheds light on so much of the work we do in the care of others. This book develops a new overarching framework to understand loss and grief, taking into account both pathological and wellbeing approaches to the subject. Drawing on international and cross-disciplinary research, Judith Murray highlights nine common themes of loss, helping us to understand how it is experienced. These themes are then used to develop a practice framework for structuring assessment and intervention systematically. Throughout the book, this generic approach is highlighted through discussing its use in different loss events such as bereavement, trauma, chronic illness, and with children or older people. Having been used in areas as diverse as child protection, palliative care, and refugee care, the framework can be tailored to a range of needs and levels of care. Caring for people experiencing loss is an integral part of the work of helping professions, whether it is explicitly part of their work such as in counselling or implicit as in social work, nursing, teaching, medicine, and community work. This text is an important guide for anyone working in these areas.
