Making Ends Meet Incomegenerating Strategies Among Mexican Immigrants:

Making Ends Meet Socorro Torres Sarmiento,2002 Using ethnographic interviews Sarmiento studies how globalization affects ordinary Mexican American immigrants shaping their families and daily lives Even as families are divided by borders they try to remain cohesive units Globalization challenges immigrants to restructure their families gender roles and even their political boundaries The unstable working conditions of immigrant men are decisive for the form in which families organize their income generating strategies However women are key to the family economy in that they subsidize low wages through paid and unpaid work on both sides of the border

The Xaripu Community across Borders Manuel Barajas,2009-04-17 During the past three decades there have been many studies of transnational migration Most of the scholarship has focused on one side of the border one area of labor incorporation one generation of migrants and one gender In this path breaking book Manuel Barajas presents the first cross national comparative study to examine a Mexican origin community s experience with international migration and transnationalism He presents an extended case study of the Xaripu community with home bases in both Xaripu Michoac n and Stockton California and elaborates how various forms of colonialism institutional biases and emergent forms of domination have shaped Xaripu labor migration community formation and family experiences across the Mexican U S border for over a century Of special interest are Barajas s formal and informal interviews within the community his examination of oral histories and his participant observation in several locations Barajas asks What historical events have shaped the Xaripus migration experiences How have Xaripus been incorporated into the U S labor market How have national inequalities affected their ability to form a community across borders And how have migration settlement and employment experiences affected the family especially gender relationships on both sides of the border

Immigrant Women Workers in the Neoliberal Age Nilda Flores-Gonzalez,Anna Romina Guevarra,Maura Toro-Morn,Grace Chang,2013-07-01 To date most research on immigrant women and labor forces has focused on the participation of immigrant women on formal labor markets In this study contributors focus on informal economies such as health care domestic work street vending and the garment industry where displaced and undocumented women are more likely to work Because such informal labor markets are unregulated many of these workers face abusive working conditions that are not reported for fear of job loss or deportation In examining the complex dynamics of how immigrant women navigate political and economic uncertainties this collection highlights the important role of citizenship status in defining immigrant women's opportunities, wages and labor conditions. Contributors are Pallavi Banerjee, Grace Chang, Margaret M. The New Latino Studies Reader Ramon A. Gutierrez, Tomas Almaguer, 2016-08-23 The New Latino Studies Reader is designed as a contemporary updated multifaceted collection of writings that bring to force the exciting necessary scholarship of the last decades. Its aim is to introduce a new generation of students to a wide ranging set of essays that helps them gain a truer understanding of what it is like to be a Latino in the United States. With the reader, students explore the sociohistorical formation of Latinos as a distinct panethnic group in the United States, delving into issues of class formation, social stratification, racial, gender and sexual identities and politics and cultural production. And while other readers now in print may discuss Mexican Americans, Puerto Ricans, Cubans and Central Americans as distinct groups with unique experiences, this text explores both the commonalities and the differences that structure the experiences of Latino Americans. Timely, thorough and thought provoking, The New Latino Studies Reader provides a genuine view of the Latino experience as a whole.

Research Methods in Anthropology H. Russell Bernard, 2017-11-17 Research Methods in Anthropology is the standard textbook for methods classes in anthropology. Written in Russell Bernard's unmistakable conversational style, this guide has launched tens of thousands of students into the fieldwork enterprise with a combination of rigorous methodology, wry humor and commonsense advice. Whether you are coming from a scientific interpretive or applied anthropological tradition, you will learn field methods from the best guide in both qualitative and quantitative methods.

Janitors, Street Vendors, and Activists Christian Zolniski, 2006 This book exposes the underbelly of California's Silicon Valley, the most successful high technology region in the world, in a vivid ethnographic study of Mexican immigrants employed in Silicon Valley's low wage jobs. The author demonstrates how global forces have incorporated these workers as an integral part of the economy through subcontracting and other flexible labor practices and explores how these labor practices have in turn affected working conditions and workers' daily lives. These immigrants do not emerge merely as victims of a harsh economy; despite the obstacles they face, they are transforming labor and community politics, infusing new blood into labor unions and challenging exclusionary notions of civic and political membership.

Street Vending in the Neoliberal City Kristina Graafland, Noa Ha, 2015-10-01 Examining street vending as a global urban and informalized practice found both in the Global North and Global South, this volume presents contributions from international scholars working in cities as diverse as Berlin, Dhaka, New York City, Los Angeles, Calcutta, Rio de Janeiro and Mexico City. The aim of this global approach is to repudiate the assumption that street vending is usually carried out in the Southern hemisphere and to reveal how it also represents an essential and constantly growing economic practice in urban centers of the Global North Although street vending activities vary due to local specificities this anthology illustrates how these urban practices can also reveal global ties and developments

Understanding Commodity Cultures Scott Cook,2004 In this overview of economic anthropology studies of Mexico Guatemala Scott Cook argues that because Mesoamerican societies have long been involved in production for exchange they must be understood as commodity cultures where individuals pursue their own self interest Working in America Amy S.
