Nationalities in East Central Europe Pieter M. Judson,Marsha L. Rozenblit,2005 The hundred years between the revolutions of 1848 and the population transfers of the mid twentieth century saw the nationalization of culturally complex societies in East Central Europe This fact has variously been explained in terms of modernization state building and nation building theories each of which treats the process of nationalization as something inexorable a necessary component of modernity Although more recently social scientists gesture to the contingencies that may shape these larger developments this structural approach makes scholars far less attentive to the hard work ideological political social undertaken by individuals and groups at every level of society who tried themselves to build national societies The essays in this volume make us aware of how complex multi dimensional and often contradictory this nationalization process in East Central Europe actually was The authors document attempts and failures by nationalist politicians organizations activists and regimes from 1848 through 1948 to give East Central Europeans a strong sense of national self identification They remind us that only the use of dictatorial powers in the 20th century could actually transform the fantasy of nationalization into a reality albeit a brutal one

The Vanished World of Lithuanian Jews Alvydas Nikžentaitis,Stefan Schreiner,Darius Staliūnas,2004 The

Lithuanian Jews Litvaks played an important and unique role not only within the Polish Lithuanian Commonwealth but in a wider context of Jewish life and culture in Eastern Europe too. The changing world around them at the end of the nineteenth century and during the first decades of the twentieth had a profound impact not only on the Jewish communities but also on a parallel world of the others that is those who lived with them side by side. Exploring and demonstrating this development from various angles is one of the themes and objectives of this book. Another is the analysis of the Shoah which ended the centuries of Jewish culture in Lithuania; a world of its own had vanished within months. This book therefore recalls that vanished world. In doing so it sheds new light on what has been lost. The papers presented in this collection were delivered at the international conferences in Nida 1997 and Telsiai 2001. Lithuania. Participants came from Israel, the USA, Great Britain, Poland, Russia, Belarus, Germany, and Lithuania.

The Oxford Handbook of Jewish Studies Martin Goodman, Jeremy Cohen, David Sorkin, 2002. This volume on Jewish studies presents surveys of today's interests and directions in the humanities and social sciences. It covers the main areas taught and researched as part of Jewish studies in universities throughout the world, especially in Europe, the US, and Israel.
