Making Of The United Kingdom:

The Making of the United Kingdom, 1660-1800 Jim Smyth, 2001 The three kingdoms or four nations which became the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland in 1801 have distinct but not separate histories Sensitive questions of religion local loyalty and allegiance to the state shaped politics within and between the four nations and still give an edge to politics in parts of modern Britain In 1660 the restoration of Charles II to all three of his kingdoms was followed by an attempt to impose religious uniformity across his kingdoms It failed The make up of the British Isles was too diverse Tories Jacobites radicals and Whigs each had strong links to a Church or religious faction Politics and religion could intermingle dangerously Fear of popery was a major cause of the revolution of 1688 and at the beginning of the eighteenth century Presbyterians led Scottish opposition to a union until they were recognised as an established church At the end of the century the architects of the act of union with Ireland hoped finally to resolve the Catholic Question but as it does today constitutional change brought issues of national identity to the fore The eighteenth century witnessed the triumph of unionism on the larger island and the rise of nationalism and separatism across the Irish sea The Making of the United Kingdom seeks to explain that crucial divergence and gives an incisive account of the forging of Britishness the sense of a new nation Jim Smyth is Professor of History University of Notre Dame
