North of America Asa McKercher,Michael D. Stevenson,2023-07-15 In 1941 influential US publishing magnate

Henry Luce declared the world was in the midst of the first great American century believing his nation held the power and vision to lead and transform the world. What did a newly outward looking and hegemonic United States mean for its northern neighbour North of America is a sharp eyed volume providing a unique look at postwar Canada bringing to the fore the opinions and perceptions of a broad range of Canadians from consumers to diplomats jazz musicians to urban planners and a diverse cross section in between. As they grappled with issues including constitutional reform transit policy national security the arrival of television white supremacy and postwar domesticity Canadians were ever mindful of the unfolding American experience and its influence.

The Black Atlantic Reconsidered Winfried Siemerling, 2015-05-01. Readers are often surprised to learn that black writing in Canada is over two centuries old. Ranging from letters editorials sermons and slave narratives to contemporary novels plays poetry and non fiction black Canadian writing represents a rich body of literary and cultural achievement. The Black Atlantic Reconsidered is the first comprehensive work to explore black Canadian literature from its beginnings to the present in the broader context of the black Atlantic world. Winfried Siemerling traces the evolution of black Canadian witnessing and writing from slave testimony in New France and the 1783 Book of Negroes through the work of contemporary black Canadian writers including George Elliott Clarke Austin Clarke Dionne Brand David Chariandy Wayde Compton Esi Edugyan Marlene NourbeSe Philip and Lawrence Hill. Arguing that black writing in Canada is deeply imbricated in a historic transnational network Siemerling explores the powerful presence of black Canadian history slavery and the Underground Railroad and the black diaspora in the work of these authors. Individual chapters examine the literature that has emerged from Quebec Nova Scotia the Prairies and British Columbia with attention to writing in both English and French. A major survey of black writing and cultural production The Black Atlantic Reconsidered brings into focus important works that shed light not only on Canada's literature and history but on the transatlantic black diaspora and modernity.

Journeys to the Bandstand Chris Wong, 2024-01-19. What I didn't know when starting to research and write this book I would become full on hopelessly obsessed with finding out every arcane detail about the artists gathered in these pages whether they are living or long gone. Those myriad facts are puzzle pieces that even though some pieces are missing form portraits of extraordinary people with a hunger for jazz and other creative artforms a determination to overcome struggles and a deep joy for creating profound expression. Chris Wong from the Preface and Introduction to Journeys to the Bandstand. Journeys to the Bandstand: Thirty Jazz Lives in Vancouver chronicles the creative lives and musical journeys of thirty extraordinary artists who have helped shape the jazz scene in the west coast Canadian city and further afield. Each chapter focuses on one remarkable artist or a small group of impactful musicians mostly based in Vancouver. Al Neil Dave Quarin Brad Turner Cory Weeds Jodi Proznick Natasha D Agostino and others. The book also highlights some American musicians Ornette Coleman Charles Mingus Dr Lonnie Smith George Coleman and others who have made an indelible impression on the city's jazz community. Weaving a first person perspective through the author's experiences hearing the musicians perform and documenting oral history from in depth interviews with extensive written and audio visual history gathered from articles letters recordings films and more Journeys to the Bandstand is a compelling collection of long form portraits The unique life stories of each subject include challenges addictions anxiety and self doubt racism abuse and other hard realities and triumphs when they succeeded in making expressive and memorable music Each individual path forms a complex and fascinating passage the journey to the bandstand

Statesman of the Piano Sean Mills, Eric Fillion, Désirée Rochat, 2023-09-15 Ontario born jazz pianist Lou Hooper 1894 1977 began his professional career in Detroit accompanying blues singers such as Ma Rainey at the legendary Koppin Theatre In 1921 he moved to Harlem performing alongside Paul Robeson and recording extensively in and around Tin Pan Alley before moving to Montreal in the 1930s Prolific and influential Hooper was an early teacher of Oscar Peterson and deeply involved in the jazz community in Montreal When the Second World War broke out he joined the Canadian Armed Forces and entertained the troops in Europe Near the end of his life Hooper came to prominence for his exceptional career and place in the history of jazz inspiring an autobiography that was never published Statesman of the Piano makes this document widely available for the first time and includes photographs concert programs lyrics and other documents to reconstruct his life and times Historians archivists musicians and cultural critics provide annotations and commentary examining some of the themes that emerge from Hooper s writing and music Statesman of the Piano sparks new conversations about Hooper s legacy while shedding light on the cross border travels and wartime experiences of Black musicians the politics of archiving and curating and the connections between race and music in the twentieth century

Critical Collaborations Smaro Kamboureli, Christl Verduyn, 2014-05-28 Critical Collaborations Indigeneity Diaspora and Ecology in Canadian Literary Studies is the third volume of essays produced as part of the TransCanada conferences project The essays gathered in Critical Collaborations constitute a call for collaboration and kinship across disciplinary political institutional and community borders They are tied together through a simultaneous call for resistance to Eurocentrism corporatization rationalism and the fantasy of total systems of knowledge and a call for critical collaborations These collaborations seek to forge connections without perceived identity linking concepts and communities without violating the differences that constitute them seeking epistemic kinships while maintaining a willingness to not know In this way they form a critical conversation between seemingly distinct areas and demonstrate fundamental allegiances between diasporic and indigenous scholarship transnational and local knowledges legal and eco critical methodologies Links are forged between Indigenous knowledge and ecological and social justice creative critical reading and ambidextrous epistemologies unmaking the nation through translocalism and unsettling histories of colonial complicity through a poetics of relation Together these essays reveal how the critical methodologies brought to bear on literary studies can both challenge and exceed disciplinary structures presenting new forms of strategic transdisciplinarity that expand the possibilities of Canadian literary studies while also emphasizing humility complicity and the limits of knowledge
