A History of Medicine Lois N. Magner, 1992-03-17 A non technical jargon free presentation of the history of medicine from palaeopathology to recent theories and practices of modern medicine It gives a wide ranging overview of Western medicine and an introduction to the rich and varied medical traditions of the Near and Far East This text stresses the major themes in the history of medicine placing the modern experience within the framework of historical issues and it presents medical history as an important part of intellectual and social history supplying students with an examination of the field that encourages them to question modern medical assumptions Areas that are less familiar to students are highlighted and case histories represent broader issues and trends Medieval Civilization Larry D.

Harwood, 2016-03-02 Providing an overall view of the medieval period of Western history this book maintains a balanced approach to an age that has been romanticized as well as vilified Written with an eye toward modern readers who may be perplexed by the hazy Middle Ages Medieval Civilization provides illuminating details that enable the reader to enjoy a fascinating overview of this stretch of a thousand years Rather than maintaining a dismissive attitude toward this presumed dark and dank period of human failings the author banters about and responds to some criticisms of the medieval world by modern critics alongside his telling of the medieval story Religious presences loom large in this book written about an age of religion and things religious in a way largely foreign to the modern world The medieval period breathes in this tale of peasants priests and kings rather than being autopsied as a museum piece Terms like scholastic gothic mendicant monk stigmata and others are put into medieval contexts for ease of understanding while a huge slice of Western history usually looked at suspiciously by modern people is presented as preparation for understanding much of the modern world A

The Collapse of the Eastern Mediterranean Ronnie Ellenblum, 2012-08-02 As a Medieval Warm Period prevailed in Western Europe during the tenth and eleventh centuries the eastern Mediterranean region from the Nile to the Oxus was suffering from a series of climatic disasters which led to the decline of some of the most important civilizations and cultural centres of the time This provocative study argues that many well documented but apparently disparate events such as recurrent drought and famine in Egypt mass migrations in the steppes of central Asia and the decline in population in urban centres such as Baghdad and Constantinople are connected and should be understood within the broad context of climate change Drawing on a wealth of textual and archaeological evidence Ronnie Ellenblum explores the impact of climatic and ecological change across the eastern Mediterranean in this period to offer a new perspective on why this was a turning point in the history of the Islamic world
