The Educational System in the United States National Institute on Student Achievement, Curriculum, and Assessment (U.S.), 1999 This volume reports on the Case Study Project an initiative that evaluates the experiences of math and science teachers across the United States and includes levels of schooling and achievement levels The report focuses on typical public schools in the United States at three levels elementary junior high and senior high with the intent of creating a composite profile of typical schools The volume is divided into five chapters Rationale for the Study The Development and Implementation of Education Standards in the United States Individual Differences and the United States Education System The Role of School in United States Adolescents Lives and Teachers and the Teaching Profession in the United States Results show that the typical school had adopted curriculum standards or guidelines proposed by state departments of education rather than by a national body One exception to this was the influential set of national guidelines developed by the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics Despite the general interest in standards the choices made by parents teachers and students reflected many values of which the desire for independence was one of the strongest Students who were surveyed exhibited high optimism especially those students from middle class families RJM

Educating Immigrant Children Charles L. Glenn, Ester J. De Jong, 1996-08-01 This study is concerned with the ways in which a dozen knowledge based societies of Western Europe and the English speaking world respond to unprecedented cultural and linguistic diversity resulting from the flow of immigrants and refugees since World War II It asks how public policy has sought to use schooling to minimize the potentially divisive and inequitable effects of this diversity and to provide opportunities to the children of immigrants It asks also how the nature of each of these societies affects the meaning of integration into each of them IJER Vol 4-N3 International Journal of Educational

Reform,1995-07-01 The mission of the International Journal of Educational Reform IJER is to keep readers up to date with worldwide developments in education reform by providing scholarly information and practical analysis from recognized international authorities As the only peer reviewed scholarly publication that combines authors voices without regard for the political affiliations perspectives or research methodologies IJER provides readers with a balanced view of all sides of the political and educational mainstream To this end IJER includes but is not limited to inquiry based and opinion pieces on developments in such areas as policy administration curriculum instruction law and research IJER should thus be of interest to professional educators with decision making roles and policymakers at all levels turn since it provides a broad based conversation between and among policymakers practitioners and academicians about reform goals objectives and methods for success throughout the world Readers can call on IJER to learn from an international group of reform implementers by discovering what they can do that has actually worked IJER can also help readers to understand the pitfalls of current reforms in order to avoid making similar mistakes Finally it is the mission of IJER to help readers to learn about key issues in school reform from movers and shakers who help to study and shape the power base directing educational reform in the U S and the world Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, Education, and Related Agencies
