National Perspectives On Housing Rights International Studies In Human Rights:

National Perspectives on Housing Rights Scott Leckie, 2021-10-18 More than one billion people around the world do not have adequate housing How far does human rights law help to remedy this problem What measures must governments take to protect people against housing rights violations What are the strengths and weaknesses of human rights law in the housing area Is the current law enough or are new laws necessary These and many other questions are addressed in the various chapters contained in National Perspectives on Housing Rights While most coverage of economic social and cultural rights has tended to focus on international standards and principles this book examines the more challenging question of how housing rights are implemented at the national and local level Chapters from recognised housing rights practitioners from Brazil Canada India Kenya Mexico Nigeria Philippines South Africa the US and elsewhere provide some of the first national level legal analyses of the implementation of housing rights standards recognised under international law A foreword by Nelson Mandela and a preface by international legal scholar Professor Philip Alston provide interesting perspectives on the fundamental role of housing rights within the broader human rights field

Health Law, Human Rights and the Biomedicine Convention Gevers, Ewoud Hondius, Joep Hubben, 2006-01-01 In 1997 the Council of Europe established the Convention on Human Rights and Biomedicine It is generally regarded as an important addition to the general human rights laid down in the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms 1950 in particular with a view to the developments in modern biology and medicine The Biomedicine Convention which entered into force in 2000 is a framework treaty meaning that a number of issues have to be dealt with or will be elaborated in additional Protocols at this moment three such Protocols have already been opened for signature This volume of essays written in honour of Henriette Roscam Abbing upon her retirement as Professor of Health Law at the University of Utrecht gives an overview of some of the most important issues raised by the Convention In six parts this volume discusses the basic concepts and leading principles the provision of services the rights of patients research human tissue and genetics and the implementation of the Convention

The Right to housing in law and society Nico Moons, 2018-05-16 From the very first negotiations of the International Covenant on Economic Social and Cultural Rights half a century ago to the present day socio economic rights have often been regarded as less enforceable than civil and political rights The right to adequate housing even though protecting one of the most basic needs of human beings has not escaped this classification Despite its strong foundations in international regional and domestic legislation many people are still deprived of one or more of the different key elements that comprise adequate housing How then can international human rights theory and case law be developed into effective vehicles at the domestic level Rather than focusing merely on possibilities for individualized relief through the court system The Right to Housing in Law and Society looks into more effective socio economic rights realization by addressing both conceptual and practical stumbling blocks that hinder a more structural progress at the national level The Flemish and Belgian housing legislation and policy are used to highlight the problems and illustrate the pathways here presented While first and foremost legal in its approach the book also offers a more sociological perspective on the functioning of the right to housing in practice It shows the latest state of knowledge on the topic and will be of interest to researchers academics policymakers and students in the fields of international socio economic rights law and human rights law more generally

Trafficking of Human Beings from a Human Rights Perspective Tom Obokata, 2006 It has been widely accepted that trafficking of human beings is a human rights issue However it has been difficult to address the human rights aspects of the phenomenon in practice because a comprehensive analysis of applicable human rights norms and principles has not been fully developed and therefore the nature of obligations imposed upon States is not entirely clear The purpose of this book then is to establish a human rights framework to promote better understanding of the multi faceted problems inherent in trafficking of human beings articulate obligations imposed upon States and facilitate a holistic approach The book also contains chapters on case studies at the national regional and international levels thereby combining the theory and practice

Human Rights Protection in the Field Bertie G. Ramcharan, 2006-02-01 Massive shocking violations of human rights are taking place in conflicts crises and emergencies around the world There is broad agreement that human rights must be protected in the field on the ground where people are vulnerable But how is this to be done There is a crisis of protection world wide Human rights and humanitarian organizations are in a quandry They have all sounded the alarm But how can protection be extended to those at risk whether it be children women civilians non combattants or the victims of oppression and violence This is one of the first books to examine the need for protection in the field survey the experiences of the different human rights and humanitarian organizations and assess what works and what does not work For the most part it reveals sadly a crisis in protection efforts in the field But in doing so it will hopefully spur on greater efforts for strengthened protection in the field More effective protection of human rights is its quest

Rights and the City Sandeep Agrawal, 2022-09-20 Rights and the City takes stock of rights struggles and progress in cities by exploring the tensions that exist between different concepts of rights Sandeep Agrawal and the volume's contributors expose the paradoxes that planners and municipal governments face when attempting not only to combat discriminatory practices but also advance a human rights agenda The authors examine the legal conceptual and philosophical aspects of rights including its various forms human Indigenous housing property rights and various other forms of rights Using empirical evidence and examples they translate the philosophical and legal aspects of rights into more practical terms and applications Regionally the book draws on municipalities from across Canada while also making broad international comparisons Scholars policy makers and activists with an interest in urban studies planning and law will find much of value throughout this volume Afterword by Benjamin Davy Contributors Sandeep Agrawal Rachelle Alterman Sasha Best Alexandra Flynn Eran S Kaplinsky Ola P Malik Jennifer A Orange Michelle L Oren Ren e Vaugeois Afterword by Benjamin Davy

Age Discrimination And Children's Rights Claire Breen, 2006 One of the aims of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child is to accord due recognition to the fact that the child by reason of his physical and mental immaturity needs special safeguards and care including appropriate legal protection before as well as after birth However a question mark hangs over the extent to which special safeguards and care can negatively impact on the rights of the child and result in discrimination against the child in the guise of his physical and mental immaturity This volume explores the extent to which children's rights are secured at the national level and the reasons why children's rights have or have not been recognised and secured by various states at the level of domestic law It also explores the difficulties inherent in the accordance of rights to children in order to ascertain whether they do in fact derive from the particular nature of children or whether they mask a reluctance of states to fulfil their domestic and international rights obligations to children and whether such reluctance constitutes discrimination against children The volume thus explores the theoretical and legal underpinnings of gender and race discrimination at both the domestic and international level and examines the extent to which these may be applied to the area of children's rights

Responding to International Crime Geoff Gilbert, 2006 Following the wars in the former Yugoslavia and Rwanda and the events of 11 September 2001 awareness of international crimes has come to the forefront of public consciousness The very public responses seen in the establishment by the Security Council of the ad hoc tribunals and the international community coming together to create the International Criminal Court have done much to promote the idea that there should be no impunity for international criminals Nevertheless while those are incredibly significant steps in the attempt to combat international crime there is no way due to their jurisdictional competence that such bodies could ever hope to address all the various crimes that are committed that are not confined to a single domestic jurisdiction either by reason of their nature or trans border factors As such the response of the international community to international crime depends as much on extraterritorial criminal jurisdiction mutual legal assistance agreements extradition and other means of lawful rendition Furthermore given the fundamental rule that a person is innocent until proven guilty and that everyone within the jurisdiction of a State is owed certain basic minimum human rights guarantees responses to international crime cannot be without limitation Respect for the alleged transnational fugitive offender is as important a factor in responding to international crime as preventing impunity for genocide crimes against humanity war crimes and gross human rights violations

Mental Disability And the European Convention on Human Rights Peter Bartlett, Oliver Lewis, Oliver Thorold, 2007 Mental disability has come of age as a subject of concern under the European Convention on Human Rights It was only in 1979 that the first significant decision of the ECHR was decided on the subject and after that cases were relatively few for many years It is only recently that this has begun to change This volume provides an account of where the law currently stands and speculation as to how it may develop The initial chapters deal with substantive aspects of Convention rights including issues of detention in institutions conditions within institutions medical treatment problems associated with guardianship and others The final two chapters move to discuss the practicalities of litigation The book concludes with a number of appendices primarily the primary international legal materials of relevance to mental disability rights under the ECHR and the relevant recommendations and principles from the Council of Europe It is hoped that this volume in addition to shedding light on where the law currently stands will offer practical guidance to lawyers concerning the mechanics of representing people with mental disabilities

Human Rights in Turmoil Stéphanie Lagoutte, Hans-Otto Sano, Peter Scharff Smith, 2006-11-01 Are human rights gaining or losing ground This question has become relevant after two decades of unprecedented progress in developing human rights standards and institutions The political climate during the Cold War created many obstacles but the fall of the Berlin Wall in 1989 and its aftermath during the following decade created a sense of promise and progress among human rights scholars and actors Yet today actions statements and initiatives questioning the legitimacy and validity of human rights or even threatening their very existence have become a regular part of current political realities even in states traditionally dedicated to the rule of law This would have been inconceivable ten or twenty years ago At the political level human rights are gaining as well as losing ground The question of the adequacy legitimacy and scope of human rights is still a live one And weaknesses in supra national human rights protection systems have emerged over the last twenty years It is now clear that human rights mechanisms are not well adapted to the handling of the ever increasing number of complaints or to the effective implementation of human rights This thought provoking collection of essays by leading scholars and practitioners in the field of human rights explores the ways in which human rights are currently being challenged and weakened but also strengthened in important and groundbreaking ways in different areas and settings They explore the many current debates which centre on human rights concerns debates about secularism and religious norms about minimum social standards and social security about the future regulation of citizenship about prison reform and the use of less inhumane methods of detention as well as the reform of the UN system and the challenges facing the now overburdened European Court of Human Rights Systemic Discrimination in Employment and the Promotion of Ethnic Equality Ronald Craig, 2006-12-01 This book argues that traditional complaint based antidiscrimination laws are inherently inadequate to respond to systemic discrimination in employment It examines the mechanisms and characteristics of systemic discrimination and the shortcomings of complaint based laws Yet these characteristics can also inform employers and government authorities of the kinds of preventive action that help alleviate systemic discrimination at the workplace In its search for a rational government policy response to systemic discrimination the book evaluates selected legal regimes which impose proactive obligations on employers to promote equality at the workplace Proactive regimes are regulatory in nature rather than adjudicatory They induce employer compliance through technical assistance dialogue and regulatory pressure rather than court orders By examining the key elements of these regimes the author explains why some proactive regimes function better than others and why proactive regimes function better than complaint based laws in addressing systemic discrimination Social Issues, Globalisation And International Institutions Virginia A. Leary, Daniel Harry Warner, 2006 This original study examines the extent to which international labour issues have become issue of concern within the European Union the ILO the OECD Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development and the WTO World Trade Organization A Right to Housing Rachel Bratt, Michael Stone, Chester Hartman, 2006-02-15 How can we explain the persistent inability of the United States to meet the housing needs of a large portion of its people What can we do about the problem In this important new work leading progressive housing activists and thinkers examine the state of housing the housed and housing policy in the United States and then provide a comprehensive and detailed program for solving the problem under the goal of a Right to Housing Fair Balance Jonas Christoffersen, 2009 In one of the most important publications on the European Convention and Court of Human Rights in recent years a wide range of fundamental practical and theoretical problems of crucial importance are addressed in an original and critical way bringing a fresh coherent and innovative order into well known battle zones The analysis revolves around the Court's fair balance test and comprises in depth analyses of e.g. methods of interpretation proportionality the least onerous means test the notion of absolute rights subsidiarity formal and substantive principles evidentiary standards proceduralisation of substantive rights etc The author coins the term of a oeprimarity in order to clarify the obligation of the Contracting Parties to implement the Convention in domestic law

The Protection of the Right to Education by International Law Klaus Dieter Beiter, 2005-11-01 A trend has emerged of not defining education as a human right anymore but of rather calling it a human need This has paved the way for an ever increasing commercialisation of education excluding the poor from access to education A problem at a different level is that states often do not know what is expected of them when realising the right to education as protected by international law This relates to the complex nature of this right which is simultaneously a civil and political and an economic social and cultural right This book seeks to affirm education as a human right and to describe the various state duties flowing from the right to education It refers to the provisions on the right to education found in instruments of international law and systematically analyses article 13 of the International Covenant on Economic Social and Cultural Rights The book is of interest to students teachers researchers legal practitioners and state and international officials dealing with international human rights law The Right of the Child to Religious Freedom in International Law Sylvie Langlaude,2007-11-30

The child s right to religious freedom in international law has never been considered in a comprehensive fashion yet key issues include the prevention of indoctrination religious clothing the relationship of the child with parents and religious communities and the duties of the state to the child Building on a sociological analysis of religious children a body of international legal materials is analysed against a theoretical model of what the child s right ought to be This book is the first attempt at analysing what international law says on the question the result is a compelling analysis of the definitive position of international law on the child s right to religious freedom Encyclopedia of Human Rights David P

Social and Economic Rights Sakiko Fukuda-Parr,Terra Lawson-Remer,Susan Randolph,2015 One of the most ambitious legacies of the 20th century was the universal commitment to ensure freedom from want as a human right But to what extent are countries across the world living up to this commitment This path breaking book develops an innovative evidence based index for comparing performance on education food health work and housing across very differently situated countries and over time It explores the factors influencing performance and provides empirical evidence to resolve some long standing controversies over the principle of progressive realization By defying the boundaries of traditional research disciplines this work fundamentally advances our knowledge about the status of and factors promoting social and economic rights fulfillment at the dawn of the 21st century
