National Character A Psychosocial Perspective:

Why Do We Do What We Do? Ramsay MacMullen, 2014-12-02 Why we do what we do is a matter of great interest to everyone and everyone seems to have had their say about it philosophers sociologists anthropologists psychologists economists and historians perhaps the most case by case Occasionally the specialists have offered their ideas to a general readership but mostly they prefer to speak to and with their fellows in their particular disciplines To evaluate and compare their findings in a cross disciplinary way is now for the first time attempted by Ramsay MacMullen Emeritus history professor from Yale University he is the recipient of various academic awards including a lifetime Award for Scholarly Distinction from the American Historical Association Japan and National Anthropology: A Critique Sonia Ryang, 2004-08-02 Japan and National Anthropology A Critique is an empirically rich and theoretically sophisticated study which challenges the conventional view of Japanese studies in general and the Anglophone anthropological writings on Japan in particular Sonia Ryang explores the process by which the postwar anthropology of Japan has come to be dominated by certain conceptual and methodological and exposes the extent to which this process has occluded our view of Japan National Character Alex Inkeles, 2014-12-03 Seen in modern perspective the concept of national character poses fundamental problems for social science theory and research To what extent do conditions of life in a particular society give rise to certain patterns in the personalities of its members What are the consequences Alex Inkeles surveys various definitions of national character tracing developments through the twentieth century His approach is to examine the regularity of specific personality patterns among individuals in a society He argues that modal personality may be extremely important in determining which new cultural elements are accepted and which institutional forms persist in a society Reviewing previous studies Inkeles canvasses the attitudes and psychological states of different nations in an effort to discover a set of values in the United States He concludes that despite recent advances in the field there is much to be done before we can have a clear picture of the degree of differentiation in the personality structure of modern nations Until now there were few formal definitions and discussions on national character and the limits of this field of study This book will be of great interest to psychologists sociologists philosophers and political theorists Personality and Person Perception Across Cultures Yueh-Ting Lee, Clark R. McCauley, Juris G. Draguns, 2013-05-13 Neither human nature nor personality can be independent of culture Human beings share certain social norms or rules within their cultural groups Over 2000 years ago Aristotle held that man is by nature a social animal Similarly Xun Kuang 298 238 B C a Chinese philosopher pointed out that humans in social groups can not function without shared guidance or rules This book is designed to provide readers with a perspective on how people are different from and similar to each other both within and across cultures One of its goals is to offer a practical guide for people preparing to interact with those whose cultural background is different from their own Ecological Modernisation Around the World Arthur P.J. Mol, David A. Sonnenfeld, 2014-04-08 The idea of ecological modernisation originated in Western Europe in the 1980s gaining attention around the world by the late 1990s At the core of this social scientific and policy oriented approach is the view that contemporary societies have the capability of dealing with their environmental crises Experiences in some countries demonstrate that modern institutions can incorporate environmental interests into their daily routines Elsewhere economic and political interests dominate development trajectories and environmental deterioration continues challenging the premises of ecological modernisation This volume brings together research on ecological modernisation practices around the world Studies on Western Central and Eastern Europe the USA and Southeast Asia examine the applicability of this approach to advanced industrial countries transitional economies and developing countries respectively Authors critically examine the premises of ecological modernisation theory assess its value for understanding past and present environmental transformations and outline paths for designing future sustainable development Taken together the studies in collected this volume offer significant refinements extensions and critiques of ecological modernisation theory and suggest important directions for future research on social and policy dimensions of environmental change violence Hugh Davis Graham,Ted Robert Gurr,1969 Constructing Genocide and Mass Violence Maureen S. Hiebert,2017-03-16 This book addresses two closely related questions what is the process by which the relatively short and violent genocides of the twentieth century and beyond have occurred Why have these instances of mass violence been genocidal and not some other form of state violence repression or conflict Hiebert answers these questions by exploring the structures and processes that underpin the decision by political elites to commit genocide focusing on a sustained comparison of two cases the Nazi Final Solution and the Cambodian genocide The book clearly differentiates the structures and processes contained within a larger overall process that leads to genocidal violence Uncovering the mechanisms by which societies at least in the contemporary era come to experience genocide as a distinct form of destruction and not some other form of mass or political violence Hiebert is able to highlight a set of key process that lead to specifically genocidal violence Providing an insightful contribution to the burgeoning literature in this area this book will be of interest to students and scholars of genocide international relations and political violence
