Specifications for Building Conservation Rory Cullen, Rick Meier, 2017-09-19 In Specifications for Building Conservation the National Trust draws on a range of case studies and specifications to provide a much needed guide to specification writing for building conservation. Although traditional building accounts for approximately a quarter of all buildings in the UK the old skills and understanding required for their care and maintenance have been increasingly eroded over the last century. As the largest heritage charity in Europe the National Trust has a first class reputation for high standards of conservation and care and in this three volume set the Trust brings together a remarkable pool of expertise to guide conservation professionals and students through the process of successful specification writing. This first book focusses on the materials used for the external fabric detailing successful approaches employed by the National Trust at some of their most culturally significant sites. A range of studies have been carefully selected for their interest, diversity and practicality showcasing projects from stonework repairs on the magnificent Grade I listed Hardwick Hall to the re thatching of the traditional cottages of the Holnicote Estate. Complete with a practical Conservation Management Plan checklist this book will enable practitioners to develop their skills allowing them to make informed decisions when working on a range of project types. This is the first practical guide to specification writing for building conservation and the advice provided by the National Trust experts will be of interest to any practitioners and students involved in building conservation both in the UK and beyond. Profits generated from the sale of this publication will go to the National Trust Building Apprenticeship Scheme. This provides placements for traditional skills at National Trust properties.

The Real Beatrix Potter Nadia Cohen, 2020-04-30 A revealing and surprising biography of the woman who defied Victorian expectations and gave the world Peter Rabbit. Beatrix Potter's children's books have enchanted generations of young readers who adored the characters she created as well as her distinctive illustrations. Born into a typically repressed Victorian family Beatrix was expected to achieve little more than finding herself a rich husband and thus her parents felt there was no point in bothering to educate her. But the Potters underestimated their daughter. Stifled by the lack of stimulation she educated herself in art and science and developed a great love of the natural world. The success of The Tale of Peter Rabbit proved her to be creative genius who could have become the toast of the London literary scene but when her fiancé tragically died Beatrix retreated to the Lake District where she reinvented herself as a successful farmer, a canny businesswoman and an early environmental pioneer. Passionately campaigning to save the area from development she helped establish the National Trust and despite her great wealth Beatrix lived out her days in humble anonymity. From a journalist who has authored biographies of Roald Dahl and A A Milne this is an in depth look at the woman behind the beloved books.

The Battle of the Fields Brian Short, 2014 This book will appeal not only to historians and geographers but to many who maintain a deep interest in the British countryside and its past and to those who continue to share a fascination for the Second World War in particular the home front. The Battle of the Fields tells the story of rural community and authority in Britain during the Second World War by looking at the County War

Agricultural Executive Committees From 1939 they were imbued with powers to transform British farming to combat the loss of food imports caused by German naval activity and initial European mainland successes Their powers were sweeping and draconian When fully exercised against recalcitrant farmers dispossession in part or whole could and did result This book includes the most detailed analysis of these dispossessions including the tragic case of Ray Walden the Hampshire farmer who was killed by police after refusing to leave his farmhouse in 1940 The committees were deemed successful by Whitehall as harbingers of modernity mechanization draining artificial fertilizers reclamation of heaths marshes and woodlands We now deplore some of these changes but Britain did not starve in large part thanks to their efforts This book will appeal not only to historians and geographers but to many who maintain a deep interest in the British countryside and its past and to those who continue to share a fascination for the Second World War in particular the home front It will also demonstrate to all who are anxious about food security in the modern age how this question was dealt with 70 years ago BRIAN SHORT is Emeritus Professor of Historical Geography at the University of Sussex and formerly Dean of School and Head of the Department of Geography
