Richard Wright Kenneth Kinnamon, 2014-11-04 African American writer Richard Wright 1908-1960 was celebrated during the early 1940s for his searing autobiography Black Boy and fiction Native Son. By 1947 he felt so unwelcome in his homeland that he exiled himself and his family in Paris. But his writings changed American culture forever and today they are mainstays of literature and composition classes. He and his works are also the subjects of numerous critical essays and commentaries by contemporary writers. This volume presents a comprehensive annotated bibliography of those essays, books, and articles from 1983 through 2003. Arranged alphabetically by author, within years are some 8,320 entries ranging from unpublished dissertations to book-length studies of African American literature and literary criticism. Also included as an appendix are addenda to the author's earlier bibliography covering the years from 1934 through 1982. This is the exhaustive reference for serious students of Richard Wright and his critics

Haiku Richard Wright, 2011-11-21 Richard Wright, one of the early forceful and eloquent spokesmen for black Americans, author of the acclaimed Native Son and Black Boy, discovered the haiku in the last eighteen months of life. He attempted to capture through his sensibility as an African American the elusive Zen discipline and beauty in depicting man's relationship not only to his fellow man as he had in the raw and forceful prose of his fiction but to the natural world. In all he wrote over 4,000 haiku. Here are the 817 he personally chose. Wright's haiku, disciplined and steeped in beauty, display a universality that transcends both race and color without ever denying them. Wright wrote his haiku obsessively in bed, in cafes, in restaurants, in both Paris and the French countryside. They offered him a new form of expression and a new vision with the threat of death constantly before him; he found in them inspiration, beauty, and insights. Fighting illness and frequently bedridden, deeply upset by the recent loss of his mother Ella Wright, continued as his daughter notes in her introduction to spin these poems of light out of the gathering darkness

Richard Wright's Native Son Harold Bloom, 2009 Richard Wright is one of the greatest African American writers of the 20th century. His masterpiece Native Son is analyzed in this volume of essays
