Coming in from the Margins Connie Schroeder, 2023-07-03 Why is it critical for faculty development centers to reexamine their core mission today The core argument of this book that a necessary and significant role change is underway in faculty development is a call for centers to merge the traditional responsibilities and services of the past several decades with a leadership role as organizational developers Failing collectively to define and outline the dimensions and expertise of this new role puts centers at risk of not only marginalization but of dissolution When a TLC is busy and in demand it is hard to believe that it may be despite all the activity and palpable array of daily outcomes institutionally marginalized The actual and increasing potential of marginalization and center closings may help motivate this field to recognize the danger of complacency or remaining stuck in an old paradigm that exclusively defines itself as instructional development or supportive service Proposing a newly defined organizational development role for academic and faculty developers and directors of teaching and learning centers Coming in from the Margins examines how significant involvement in broader institutional change initiatives is becoming a critical aspect of this work Although undefined and unrecognized as a significant dimension of this work the organizational development role increasingly demanded of developers is far more attuned with the demand for change facing higher education than ever before The book provides evidence based research into what directors of centers are currently doing as organizational developers and how they shape influence and plan institutional initiatives that intersect with teaching and learning Directors of centers their supervisors and leaders in the field provide models from a wide range of institutional contexts as well as the strategies they have employed to successfully engage in significant organizational development They also demonstrate how they handled the challenges that ensued The strategies in each chapter provide a practical resource and guide for re examining the mission and structure of existing centers or for designing new centers of teaching and learning and most importantly to develop their role as change agents The book covers such topics as Center mission statements Center staffing Center advisory boards committee involvement unique expertise knowledge and skills embedding Centers in strategic planning Center vision organizational change processes collaboration and partnerships institutional priorities and initiatives relationships with upper administration Contemporary Perspective on Capital in Educational Contexts RoSusan D. Bartee, 2010-08-01 The edited volume Contemporary Perspectives on Capital in Educational Contexts is timely in its unique and appropriate analyses of the prevailing internal and external dynamics of capital as indicative of the type of currency within institutional structures or the currency among individual stakeholders of education The intersection of capital and currency emerges similarly and differently within the American compulsory based system of K 12 and the choice based system of higher education More specifically Contemporary Perspectives on Capital in Educational Contexts disentangles the broader challenges and opportunities of the institution of education and the individuals who comprise Emerging insights from the analyses provide an informed basis for ascertaining the rules of engagement and means of negotiation for the respective constituencies With that said this volume essentially responds to three important questions 1 What are the tenets of capital and currency in public schools and higher education 2 How do institutions and individuals navigate those tenets and 3 What general and specific implications do capital hold for the educational pipeline and beyond These questions provide a useful framework for engaging critical conversations about the dynamics of capital while offering perspectives about how to improve the quality of currency in K 12 or colleges and universities These questions further serve as a basis for eliciting more questions toward the consideration capital as both a conceptual construct and applicable model Contemporary Perspectives on Capital in Educational Contexts too is an expansion of the work of School matters Why African American students need multiple forms of capital where Bartee Brown 2006 examines how the acquisition and possession of capital equips African American students in a highperforming high achieving magnet school in Chicago for competitiveness in school generated and non school generated activities Success experienced by the students and the school become associated with the academic rigor and reputation while any shortcomings reflect an inadequate capacity of the school or the student to appropriately engage the other School matters Why African American students need multiple forms of capital 2006 further introduces an initial exploration of different forms of capital as producer improve the status quo through inputs consumer participant based upon outputs and regulator maintain the status quo through the process within the educational system The multifaceted role of capital demonstrates its span of influence for institutional and individual capacities

Life After Dawkins Stuart Macintyre, Gwilym Croucher, André Brett, 2016-04-18 The reconstruction of higher education in Australia through the creation of the Unified National System of Higher Education at the end of the 1980s by John Dawkins is commonly seen as a watershed It brought new ways of funding directing and organising universities expanding their size reorienting their activities and setting in train a far reaching transformation of the academic enterprise This volume traces its impact on the balance between the University of Melbourne s academic mission and external expectations and how it adjusted to neutralise the impact of the change and restore the balance At Melbourne the Dawkins revolution changed little in the way it understood itself and conducted its affairs but changed everything
