slaveries in extensive new zones of commodity production in Brazil Cuba and the US South as part of world economic processes of decolonization industrialization urbanization and the creation of mass markets Thus slavery was not a moribund institution Capitalist modernity liberal ideology and anti slavery from above or from below faced a vigorous foe that operated within the very economic political and cultural premises of the changing 19th century world This perspective offers an original approach to the history of slavery It has opened up vigorous debates over slavery and anti slavery Atlantic history and capitalism An international group of scholars critically engage older traditions of scholarship on Atlantic history the economic history of slavery and the history of slavery in Cuba Brazil and the United States from the perspective of the second slavery Each chapter reinterprets its subject matter in a way that opens out to dialogue between national historiographies and to a reformulation of Atlantic and world economic history This collection of essays contributes to the development of a more productive conceptual framework for the reconstruction and reinterpretation of the historical relation of slavery and world capitalism during the nineteenth century

Imagined Histories Anthony Molho, Gordon S. Wood, 2018-06-05 This collection of essays by twenty one distinguished American historians reflects on a peculiarly American way of imagining the past At a time when history writing has changed dramatically the authors discuss the birth and evolution of historiography in this country from its origins in the late nineteenth century through its present more cosmopolitan character In the book's first part concerning recent historiography are chapters on exceptionalism gender economic history social theory race and immigration and multiculturalism Authors are Daniel Rodgers Linda Kerber Naomi Lamoreaux Dorothy Ross Thomas Holt and Philip Gleason The three American centuries are discussed in the second part with chapters by Gordon Wood George Fredrickson and James Patterson The third part is a chronological survey of non American histories including that of Western civilization ancient history the middle ages early modern and modern Europe Russia and Asia Contributors are Eugen Weber Richard Saller Gabrielle Spiegel Anthony Molho Philip Benedict Richard Kagan Keith Baker Joseph Zizak Volker Berghahn Charles Maier Martin Malia and Carol Gluck

Together these scholars reveal the unique perspective American historians have brought to the past of their own nation as well as that of the world. Formerly writing from a conviction that America had a singular destiny, American historians have gradually come to share viewpoints of historians in other countries about which they write. The result is the virtual disappearance of what was a distinctive American voice. That voice is the subject of this book. Transformational Growth and the Business Cycle Edward Nell, 2005-09-27. This book examines the concept of Transformational Growth from a number of different historical and geographical perspectives. Transformational Growth sees the economy as an evolving system in which the market selects and finances innovations, changing the character of costs and affecting the pattern of market adjustment. This creates the possibility that markets will work differently in particular historical periods. This book explores market adjustments in two distinct historical periods: 1870-1914 and 1945 to the present. The book focuses on six countries: USA, United Kingdom, Canada, Germany, Japan, and Argentina. In all cases, the earlier period dominated by craft-based technologies proves to be the one in which markets adjust through a weakly stabilising price mechanism. By contrast, in the later period, in all cases, with the exception of Argentina, there is no evidence of such a price mechanism, but in its place can be seen a multiplier-accelerator process which arguably reflects a change of technology to mass production. Alan S. Milward and a Century of European Change Fernando Guirao, Frances M. B. Lynch, Sigfrido M. Ramírez Pérez, 2012. The main purpose of the book is to introduce the work of Alan S. Milward and to acknowledge the full magnitude of his scientific contribution to contemporary British and European history. The book is a collection of essays which provide a better understanding of Alan Milward's extensive intellectual work for future scholars and facilitate the knowledge and transmission of his published work to present and future generations of students, scholars in the various disciplines concerned, and the general public. The series of original contributions which this book contains are related to or reflect critically upon Milward's own contributions to the fields of political, diplomatic, and socio-economic history, political science, economics, international relations, and European Studies in general. This book honors Alan Milward through a better understanding of his many pioneering contributions in the fields of contemporary European history in general and the history of European integration in particular. Although the volume does not aim to be a substitute for Milward's work itself, it illuminates and assesses his creative process along fifty years of continued and intense work, as well as the impact of his main work and the continuing relevance of his main theses today.

Structural Analysis and the Process of Economic Development Jonas Ljungberg, 2016-05-05. Economic development is full of discontinuities. Mainstream economists perceive these as external disturbances to a natural state of equilibrium, but this book argues that much of the discontinuities are part of economic development, suggesting that patterns can be understood with structural analysis. Structural Analysis and the Process of Economic Development presents a detailed analysis of the trajectory of Swedish economic change since the nineteenth century. The emergence of structural analysis in economic research is reviewed, as well as a chapter devoted to development blocks, a key concept that was outlined in the 1940s and that has much in common with the more recent notions techno economic paradigms and general purpose technologies Structural analysis and the major contributions by Sch n are introduced in this book Also highlighted is Sweden s integration into the international economy via the nineteenth century capital markets along with structural analysis as a tool for understanding climate change The recent technique of wavelet analysis and its potential for structural analysis is demonstrated in a non technical chapter This book is suitable for those who are interested in and study political economy economic history and European history The Historiography of Economics A.W. Bob Coats,2013-10-08 This is the third and final volume of collected papers of A W Bob Coats Coats began to collect material for this volume in the years following the publication of the second volume in 1993 but sadly died in 2007 before the work was completed The volume has now been completed under the editorship of Roger Backhouse and Bruce Caldwell Along with his articles the compilation of the volume also reflects Coats interest in and commitment to book reviews a selection of which have been chosen for inclusion The book also includes a comprehensive bibliography In addition to a preface by Backhouse and Caldwell the volume also reproduces the obituary that was published in History of Political Economy a memoir published in 1996 and an interview with Grant Fleming published the previous year Together the introductory materials articles and reviews serve as a fitting tribute to the body of work of Bob Coats The Organization and Retrieval of Economic Knowledge Elliot Perlman,2019-06-10 This book is an outcome of the conference on The Organization and Retrieval of Economic Knowledge held in Kiel West Germany It focuses on the technology of the library industry and its uses for economic research and the economics of the economics library industry and its implication
