Peace on Bougainville Rebecca Adams,2001 This is a unique look at the country of Bougainville its people their history and their move toward peace told from the perspectives of the people involved both within and outside of the process The book traces the peace movement from November 20 1997 when unarmed monitors from New Zealand Australia Vanuatu and Fiji arrived in Bougainville with the agreement of the Papua New Guinea government and most of the political factions on Bougainville Their task was to establish a secure atmosphere in which Bougainvilleans could forge their own peaceful solution to the conflict The individual viewpoints show how the fragile road toward a peaceful outcome was constructed

Constitution Making during State Building Joanne Wallis,2014-09-15 How can fragmented divided societies that are not immediately compatible with centralised statehood best adjust to state structures This book employs both comparative constitutional law and comparative politics as it proposes the idea of a constituent process whereby public participation in constitution making plays a positive role in state building This can help to foster a sense of political community and produce a constitution that enhances the legitimacy and effectiveness of state institutions because a liberal local hybrid can emerge to balance international liberal practices with local customary ones This book represents a sustained attempt to examine the role that public participation has played during state building and the consequences it has had for the performance of the state It is also the first attempt to conduct a detailed empirical study of the role played by the liberal local hybrid approach in state building

Arbitration and Renegotiation of International Investment Agreements: A Study with Particular Reference to Means of Conflict Avoidance Under Natural Resources Investment Agreements Wolfgang Peter, Jean-Quentin de Kuyper, Bénédicte de Candolle, 1995-06-08 This book is a second revised edition of the original 1986 publication Since then the issue of contract change has increasingly challenged the business community and legal practitioners The world wide recession may well have accelerated the need to secure contractual relationships by reasonable flexibility Successful foreign investment a relentless challenge is subject to many unpredictable errors Of all these variables however successful investment is most dependent on the investor host country relationship which is the object of the present study In particular the pressure by host countries for contract change and its counterpart the investor's defence of contract stability The book is essentially a reference handbook for legal practitioners It analyzes a variety of increasingly important questions concerning international investment agreements that come under pressure for change by one of the contracting parties either a transnational corporation or a host country government The seven case studies and the analytical chapters which follow are based on the author's research and the assistance of corporate and government officials experts from the United Nations and other organizations and members of academic research institutes

Fighting Over Peace Andrew G. Reiter, 2016-09-19 This book presents post peace agreement violence as a serious yet predictable and manageable political phenomenon Negotiating an end to a civil war is extremely difficult and many signed peace agreements subsequently unravel ushering in renewed conflict In response important international actors have become increasingly involved in conflict mediation peacekeeping and post conflict reconstruction around the globe Policymakers and scholars alike have identified spoilers violent actors who often rise up and attempt to challenge or derail the peace process as one of the greatest threats to peace Using a mixed method approach combining quantitative and qualitative analyses of a newly created global dataset of spoiling Reiter demonstrates that this type of violence occurs in predictable circumstances and only represents a threat to peace under specific conditions The book also shows that spoiling often serves to bring agreement flaws and implementation failures to light and in turn forces actors to recommit to an accord thereby strengthening peace in the long term

Settling Self-Determination Disputes Marc Weller, Barbara Metzger, 2008-01-31 The study is the result of an international collaborative project supported and funded by the Carnegie Corporation of New York This multi year venture has involved a research team of some forty chapter authors and commentators The research has been accompanied by three major workshops on project methodology initial chapter reviews and final discussions A point was made of including both scholars and practitioners involved in power sharing settlements in the review process in the hope that more would be learned about the actual implementation of the settlements under investigation The project team was united in its wish to explore whether long standing secessionist conflicts have been addressed effectively through the significant number of self determination settlements that were generated in response to the wave of internal conflicts of the 1990s It was also committed to testing whether consociationalist and integrative techniques of conflict settlement really are as mutually exclusive as is sometimes supposed or whether they can in fact be mutually reinforcing Finally the project derives its impetus from the necessity to critically rethink the doctrine of self determination One may question whether its traditional restrictive interpretation will be adequate in confronting the wide variety of future challenges to the territorial integrity of states

State Crime on the Margins of Empire Kristian Lasslett, 2014-08-20 This book offers a pioneering window into the elusive workings of state corporate crime within the mining industry It follows a campaign of resistance organised by indigenous activists on the island of Bougainville who struggled to close a Rio Tinto owned copper mine and investigates the subsequent state corporate response which led to the shocking loss of some 10 000 lives Drawing on internal records and interviews with senior officials Kristian Lasslett examines how an articulation of capitalist growth mediated through patrimonial politics imperial state power large scale mining and clan based rural society prompted an ostensibly responsible corporate citizen and liberal state actors to organise a counterinsurgency campaign punctuated with gross human rights abuses State Crime on the Margins of Empire represents a unique intervention rooted in a classical Marxist tradition that challenges positivist streams of criminological scholarship in order to illuminate with greater detail the historical forces faced by communities in the global south caught in the increasingly violent dynamics of the extractive industries

The Pacific Journal of Louis-Antoine de Bougainville, 1767-1768 Louis-Antoine de Bougainville, 2022-03-01 The French entered the Pacific in the late 17th century but the ocean remained largely a Spanish preserve until British navigators began to cross its vast expanse in the mid 1760s France s concerns that Britain might establish its superiority in the area meant they welcomed Louis de Bougainville s voyage of exploration undertaken in 1766 9 After handing over the colony he had established in the Falkland Islands to Spain he sailed through the still relatively unknown Straits of Magellan into the poorly charted South Pacific He made a number of discoveries in the south west but was too late to discover Tahiti where Samuel Wallis had preceded him by less than a year Reports on Bougainville s reception there and on life in the island were to create wide interest and controversy in Europe He then sailed to the Samoan Islands and on to Vanuatu as far as the Great Barrier Reef and north towards New Guinea and the Samoan Islands making a number of discoveries and all the while leaving his name to a number of features the best known of which are the island of Bougainville and the Bougainvillea flower He returned home by way of the Dutch East Indies and the Indian Ocean Although Bougainville published an account of his voyage in 1771 his original journal was published only in 1977 the present volume makes the latter text available for the first time in English translation

Media and the British Empire C. Kaul, 2006-03-28 The only true history of a country wrote Thomas Macaulay is to be found in its newspapers This book explores how the media shaped and defined the economic social political and cultural dynamics of the British Empire by viewing it from the perspective of the colonised as well as the colonisers Pacific Power? Joanne Wallis, 2017-07-17

Australia is much larger and has significantly more military and economic power than its Pacific Island neighbours. As a result, it is frequently described as having a natural right to lead in the region. Yet Australia has found it difficult to effectively influence Pacific Island states in pursuit of its strategic interests. It provides the definitive account of how and how effectively Australia has sought to influence Pacific Island states in pursuit of its strategic interests since 1975, the year that Papua New Guinea, Australia's former colonial territory, gained independence. Informed by interviews with key decision makers, Pacific Power analyses why Australia has had difficulty exercising influence in the Pacific Islands and identifies how Australia can more effectively influence Pacific Island states in pursuit of its strategic interests and how Australia can present itself more as a Pacific partner than power.

Peace Negotiations and Time Marco Pinfari, 2013 This book discusses the role of time in peace negotiations and peace processes in the post Cold War period, making reference to real world negotiations and using comparative data. Deadlines are increasingly used by mediators to spur deadlocked negotiation processes under the assumption that fixed time limits tend to favour pragmatism. Yet little attention is typically paid to the durability of agreements concluded in these conditions, and research in experimental psychology suggests that time pressure can have a negative impact on individual and collective decision making by reducing each side's ability to deal with complex issues, complex inter group dynamics, and inter cultural relations. This volume explores this lacuna in current research through a comparative model that includes 68 episodes of negotiation, and then more in detail in relation to four case studies: the Bougainville and Casamance peace processes and the Dayton and Camp David proximity talks. The case studies reveal that in certain conditions, low time pressure can impact positively on the durability of agreements by making possible effective intra rebel agreements before official negotiations, and that time pressure works in proximity talks only when applied to solving circumscribed deadlocks. This book will be of much interest to students of peace processes, conflict resolution, negotiation, diplomacy, and international relations in general.

Australia's Arc of Instability Dennis Rumley, Vivian Louis Forbes, Christopher Griffin, 2006-01-12 The idea for this book emerged from a conversation between Vivian Forbes and Charles Eaton following two seminars held in the Department of Geography at the University of Western Australia, given by Trevor Soeld and Christopher Griffin more than five years ago. One seminar involved papers from Charles Eaton and Christopher Griffin on the recent Speight coup in Fiji; the other given by Trevor Soeld was on the Solomon Islands. The seminars were attended by among others Dennis Rumley who on getting involved in the conversation suggested the idea of a book and then followed through on its scope structure planning and possible contributors Looking back now we owe a special debt of gratitude to Charles Eaton both for his enthusiasm and his ideas then and for his continued support throughout the whole project Since that time ve years ago many people have boarded and have left the Arc Indeed the very project itself exhibited a degree of instability At times it even looked as though it might not stay a oat Thankfully several early boarders remained rmly anchored Other authors were co opted later some at relatively short notice one or two of them under mild duress We extend our heartfelt thanks to all of these contributors for remaining patient enthusiastic and keeping faith with the project Naturally a project like this dealing with such a large and dynamic region will always be out of date
