Time and Space in Literacy Research Catherine Compton-Lilly, Erica Halverson, 2014-04-24 Literacy researchers interested in how specific sites of learning situate students and the ways they make sense of their worlds are asking new questions and thinking in new ways about how time and space operate as contextual dimensions in the learning lives of students teachers and families These investigations inform questions related to history identity methodology in school and out of school spaces and local global literacies An engaging blend of methodological theoretical and empirical work featuring well known researchers on the topic this book provides a conceptual framework for extending existing conceptions of context and provides unique and ground breaking examples of empirical research

Learning Space Jeremy Delamarter, 2025-01-13 As a genre science fiction is uniquely suited for highlighting and modeling the basic tenets of critical pedagogy that branch of educational philosophy and theory devoted equally to 1 exposing the hidden power structures embedded in educational practice and 2 articulating equitable and sustainable alternatives The science fiction novum that is the technological or scientific newness found within the text serves as a catalyst not only within the textual universe but also potentially within the universe of the reader New questions arise Previously hidden beliefs come to light Tacit assumptions are exposed The unfamiliar nova of science fiction can lead to new interrogations of our own all too familiar surroundings causing us to see our previously unquestioned worlds in a new way These new understandings are at the heart of critical pedagogy The learning spaces within science fiction texts can expose the fault lines within the educational structures of the real world Questions about what it means to be human about the proper limits of technological power or about the relationships and obligations of one species to another have profound implications for 21st century educators and learners particularly those who are interested in creating just and equitable learning spaces Learning Space Exploring Critical Pedagogy through Science Fiction draws on popular science fiction stories to provide current and future educators with the language concepts vocabulary and practices to cast a critical lens upon their own learning spaces and their own pedagogical practices For example a critical examination of the way that Yoda trains Luke Skywalker in The Empire Strikes Back reveals a great deal about the insidious nature of deficit thinking assuming that students learn best when they empty their minds and remain passive The assumed hierarchical power structure between teacher and student and the assumed relationship between learners and the knowledge with which they are supposed to be filled all of these are called into question when viewed through a critical lens The more we recognize the injustice in Yoda s pedagogy the more we might begin to see it in our own Similarly Isaac Asimov s classic Foundation trilogy imagines a world in which mathematical modeling and statistical computation are used not only to predict what people might do but instead to determine what they should do This kind of algorithmic determinism is unfortunately common in contemporary education and yet far too few educators and learners recognize just how much of their own agency has been given over to the machines By highlighting the algorithmic inequities in the world of Asimov s text we begin to recognize similar inequities at play in our own world Ultimately this book uses science fiction to highlight educational inequities in such wide ranging topics as standard English literary canons machine learning notions of academic dishonesty epistemicide inequitable school discipline and more More importantly however it provides a framework for moving forward giving current and future educators the critical knowledge and skills both to recognize pedagogical injustice and to create viable just and sustainable alternatives

Making Education Educational

Halvor Hoveid, Marit Honerød Hoveid, 2019-09-26 This book is an argument for reflexivity in the act of teaching which means to acknowledge that intention guides the act of teaching Teaching must create attention towards processes of collectivity in the classroom Today teaching is both acts of expressing knowledge and acts of securing justice to all students through a mediation of knowledge Teaching therefore expresses both knowledge with reference to school subjects and justice according to the distribution of this knowledge The authors argue for teaching as the driver of education To pay attention to teaching is to pay attention to that which is inside the system of education To consider education as a mediation of knowledge between generations places teaching as an act of performing the content of education in a class in a school The complexity of these processes is easily overlooked when education is used as a means in competitive economies The approach taken in this text is that deliberations about teaching must be based on historicity The support for this argument builds on a reading of the French philosopher Paul Ricoeur The book addresses teaching as an integral part of the learning process In education today everything seems to be concentrated around learning as if teaching no longer takes place Teachers and teacher educators need a language to discuss and understand teaching both as personal and institutional actions A Ricoeurian approach to a discussion on teaching as a reflexive and institutional practice provides a timely approach to important questions related to teaching in our day and age Graphic Encounters Dale Jacobs,2013-08-29 With the recent explosion of activity and discussion surrounding comics it seems timely to examine how we might think about the multiple ways in which comics are read and consumed Graphic Encounters moves beyond seeing the reading of comics as a debased or simplified word based literacy Dale Jacobs argues compellingly that we should consider comics as multimodal texts in which meaning is created through linguistic visual audio gestural and spatial realms in order to achieve effects and meanings that would not be possible in either a strictly print or strictly visual text Jacobs advances two key ideas one that reading comics involves a complex multimodal literacy and two that by studying how comics are used to sponsor multimodal literacy we can engage more deeply with the ways students encounter and use these and other multimodal texts Looking at the history of how comics have been used by churches schools and libraries among others will help us as literacy teachers best use that knowledge within our curricula even as we act as sponsors ourselves Nurturing Faith Fred P. Edie,Mark A. Lamport,2021-09-07 Faith left on rocky soil withers But faith nurtured in the good soil of Christian teaching formation and mentorship grows to maturity and yields thriving community Educational ministries are so often where this happens where the desires of the human heart are shaped toward a love for God a love for one s neighbor and a love for the world In this comprehensive guide to educational ministries in the twenty first century Fred Edie and Mark Lamport explore how church leaders and others involved in Christian education can nurture a robust cruciform faith within their communities When discussing strategies and goals Edie and Lamport consider a range of contexts and a variety of related fields that might give insight into educational ministry theology pedagogy philosophy social science and more Those working with any age group children adolescents and adults will find a relevant discussion of key underlying theological themes a guide to concrete practices and indispensable help in navigating shifting cultural dynamics Exceedingly practical and consistent with the teachings of the gospel the wisdom in this book will speak to all who long to foster discipleship in their church school or missional community Key Features A Road Map at the beginning of each chapter concisely introduces the chapter s topic and essential themes Sidebars throughout the text provide deeper insight into particular important or nuanced concepts Discussion questions at the end of each chapter facilitate further reflection especially in conversation with others Suggestions for further reading are provided at the end of each chapter for those interested in exploring the chapter s ideas in greater depth Concluding the book is a series of afterwords from experts in the field of Christian educational ministries Martyn Percy Almeda Wright Craig Dykstra Kirsten Oh Elizabeth DeGaynor and Thomas Groome How Children Learn

Terese Fayden, 2015-11-17 The inspirational stories of young learners in this book discredit assumptions behind recent educational reforms including high stakes testing and No Child Left Behind policies The experiences of the American Indian children and the author a kindergarten teacher challenge the widely held assumption that minority children enter school at risk Deficit theory assumes that minority children are responsible for their failure by cultural deficiency or family ineptitude Fayden vividly shows how truly equitable treatment of minority children can improve students inherent abilities to learn and can result in higher achievement for minority and all young children

Losing Heart H. Svi Shapiro, 2006-08-15 In this book Svi Shapiro explores the ideological and attitudinal functions of schools looking especially at what is called the hidden curriculum He offers both an analysis of the role of education in producing and maintaining attitudes and values that contribute to our competitive socially unequal instrumental consumerist and self oriented culture and a radically different vision for what our schools should be about a vision that focuses on education s role in supporting a more critically reflective socially responsible and compassionate culture Federal and state legislation have propelled schools today in the direction of an increasingly test driven instrumental and individually competitive regime Under these legislative mandates schools are increasingly alienating and stressful places for both students and teachers Most disturbing is that this form of education is not conducive to providing young people with the capacity to cope with the moral cultural spiritual and political challenges of the world they inhabit More than only
