Insanity and Genius Harry Eiss, 2014-06-02 In his book about the discovery of the structure of DNA, James Watson wrote: "So we had lunch telling ourselves that a structure this beautiful just had to exist. Indeed, the quest most often asked by scientists about a scientific theory is: Is it beautiful? Yes, beauty equals truth. Scientists know, mathematicians know. But the beauties, the truths of mathematics and science were not the truths that inspired the author as a child, and he intuitively knew that the truths he needed come from a different way of knowing, a way of knowing not of the world of logic and reason and explanation, though they have a value, but rather a way of knowing that is of the world, expression, a world that enters the truths beyond the grasp of logic. That is what this book is all about. It is an exploration of the greatest minds of human existence struggling to understand the deepest truths of the human condition. This second edition updates the previous one, incorporating new publications on Van Gogh, recent discoveries in neurology, psychology, and the rapid developments in understanding DNA and biotechnology. We've come a long way already from that original discovery by Watson and his coauthor Francis Crick."

Christ of the Coal Yards Harry Eiss, 2010-02-19 No one heard the shot. No one ever found the gun. It was Sunday, July 27, 1890. Vincent had recently finished Wheatfield with Crows, thought to be his final painting, one that he described as representing vast fields of wheat beneath troubled skies, one where he said in a letter he meant to send to Theo: "I did not need to go out of my way to try to express cheerlessness and extreme loneliness. The letter never got sent but was found stuffed in his smock. That morning, as usual, he walked out into the wheat fields with his easel, brushes, tubes of color, and folding stool, perhaps hoping to reach his destination before the gang of local boys and girls were up and able to tease him and throw tomatoes. Le Crau, a wide plain of ripe grain, fields of citron yellow, tan, and ochre spread out beneath the bright Provencal sun. It's safe to assume he heard the cicadas singing loudly, the swiping swishes of the farmers' scythes already cutting through the rich wheat stalks, the gusts of wind whispering through the olive branches. Driven and filled with energy for months, he had been quickly with an assurance that overcame and perhaps even came from his doubts and struggles putting his own dramatic visions on canvas after canvas But today he did not go into the fields to paint or perhaps in the beginning he did perhaps in the morning that was his intention No one will ever know He said he brought the revolver to frighten off the crows Possibly that was his original intention when he included it with his lunch of bread and milk In the end it s probably not relevant except for the endless attempts to analyze him to dig into his complex psyche at once brilliant and yet impelled to self destruction The Ravoux family were sitting on the terrace of their caf when he returned a bit concerned because he was late but not overly so When he finally appeared his walk was more uneven than usual and he held his hand over his stomach Monsieur Vincent Mrs Ravoux said we were worried we are glad to see you come Has anything bad happened No but I he left his reply unfinished as he passed inside Mr Ravoux followed him upstairs where he found him sitting on his bed facing the wall I wanted to kill myself This book is a critical examination of Vincent van Gogh that offers insights into his life his religious beliefs his relationships with women and of course his paintings It includes discussions of his letters and responds to many of the previous works about him dispelling some of the myths that have no foundation and pointing out how many of the claims made about him and many of the popular beliefs that have grown up around him are at best guesswork It explores psychological neurological theological philosophical aesthetic and historical paradigms for comprehending his enigmatic and enticing personality The Biography Book Daniel S. Burt, 2001-02-28 From Marilyn to Mussolini people captivate people A E s Biography best selling autobiographies and biographical novels testify to the popularity of the genre But where does one begin Collected here are descriptions and evaluations of over 10 000 biographical works including books of fact and fiction biographies for young readers and documentaries and movies all based on the lives of over 500 historical figures from scientists and writers to political and military leaders to artists and musicians Each entry includes a brief profile autobiographical and primary sources and recommended works Short reviews describe the pertinent biographical works and offer insight into the qualities and special features of each title helping readers to find the best biographical material available on hundreds of fascinating individuals

The Season of Migration Nellie Hermann, 2015-01-06 The lyrically told story of one of the world s greatest artists finding his true calling Though Vincent van Gogh is one of the most popular painters of all time we know very little about a ten month period in the painter s youth when he and his brother Theo broke off all contact In The Season of Migration Nellie Hermann conjures this period in a profoundly imaginative original and heartbreaking vision of Van Gogh s early years before he became the artist we know today In December 1878 Vincent van Gogh arrives in the coal mining village of Petit Wasmes in the Borinage region of Belgium a blasted and hopeless landscape of hovels and slag heaps and mining machinery Not yet the artist he is destined to become Vincent arrives as an ersatz preacher barely sanctioned by church authorities but ordained in his own mind and heart by a desperate and mistaken spiritual vocation But what Vincent experiences in the Borinage will change him Coming to preach a useless gospel he thought he knew and believed he learns about love suffering and beauty ultimately coming to see the world anew and finding the divine not in religion but in our fallen human world In startlingly beautiful and powerful language Hermann transforms our understanding of Van Gogh and the redemptive power of art Orgasmic Days in the South of France Barbara Keller,2000-07 A highly selective personal guide to the Cote d Azur devised by an American who spent 15 years in the hilltop town of Vence Walter Pach (1883-1958) Laurette E.
