Reference Services, 1992 Women and Elective Office Sue Thomas, Clyde Wilcox, 2014-01-02 This edition of Women and Elective Office offers the latest research on women as candidates and officeholders It provides a comprehensive look at at the history and status of women in elective office their prospects for the future and why women in elected office matter to American democracy It features all new essays and up to the minute research by leading experts in the field including the latest political trends and events such as Hillary Rodham Clinton's run for the presidency women s representation on the state and local level the diversity of women officeholders experiences and circumstances and female judges Women and Elective Office is an essential guide to understanding the past present and future of women in all echelons of government White Political Women Diane L. Fowlkes, 1992 A Woman's Place Is in the House Barbara Burrell,2010-05-07 In this first comprehensive examination of women candidates for the U S House of Representatives Barbara Burrell argues that women are as successful at winning elections as men Why then are there still so few women members of Congress Compared to other democratically elected national parliaments the U S Congress ranks very low in its proportion of women members During the past decade even though more and more women have participated in state and local governments they have not made the same gains at the national level A Woman's Place Is in the House examines the experiences of the women who have run for a seat in the U S House of Representatives from 1968 through 1992 and compares their presence and performance with that of male candidates The longitudinal study examines both general and primary elections and refutes many myths associated with women candidates including their ability to raise money and garner support from both interest groups and political parties According to Burrell election year 1992 was correctly dubbed the Year of the Woman in American politics not so much because women overcame perceived barriers to being elected but because for the first time a significant number of women chose to run in primaries Burrell's study examines the effects women are having on the congressional agenda and offers insight on how such issues as term limitations and campaign finance reform will impact on the election of women to Congress Barbara Burrell Ph D University of Michigan is professor

They are the product of a large coordinated research project sponsored by the Center for American Women and Politics CAWP at Rutgers University and funded by the Charles H Revson Foundation The subjects of these studies range from a single very prominent U S Senator who served in Congress from the early 1940s to the early 1970s to local council members in a New Jersey county in the 1980s They include state legislators from across the country The research presented in this volume offers compelling evidence that women public officials do have a gender related impact on public policy and the political process Nevertheless context matters these studies demonstrate that the impact of women public officials varies considerably across political environments Finally the research in this volume suggests that identification with feminism and or of particular racial or ethnic group also influence how and to what extent women public officials are making a difference Contributors include Edith J Barrett Susan Abrams Beck Janet K Boles Susan J Carroll Debra L Dodson Lyn Kathlene Elaine Martin Nancy E McGlen Meredith Reid Sarkees Janann Sherman Sue Thomas Sue Tolleson Rinehart and Susan Welch Women's Political Voice Janet A.
