Comparative Studies on Pandemic Control Policies and the Resilience of Society Simon X. B. Zhao,Kam Tong Chan,Selçuk Çolakoğlu,Qiaoyun Zhang,Bo Yan,2023-03-29 This book documents and analyses the differentiated control policies the determinant factors behind social resilience and international relations during the pandemic from a comparative perspective in a facts based data supporting manner The intermittent outbreak of cases public sentiments after long anxiety questions over the efficacy of vaccines have forced governments as well as the public to rethink differing approaches and policies in the combat against not just COVID but the delta variant In this context this book establishes itself as a timely product perhaps the first of its kind to provide a widely covered individual country based observation of policies with an emphasis on multidimensional determinant factors behind the policies A comparative study of social resilience during the pandemic constitutes another highlight of the book The different policies tested social resilience differently in parameters such as mortality rates vaccination coverage social mobility travel arrangements trust in government and general human development Above and beyond observations and analyses at local and national levels this book expands its scope to incorporate international relations contemplating over the impacts of the pandemic on international relations power shifts and new world global orders crystallized in the indisputable rise of China

Citizenship and the Environment Andrew Dobson,2003-11-27 This is the first book length treatment of the relationship between citizenship and the environment Andrew Dobson argues that ecological citizenship cannot be fully articulated in terms of the two great traditions of citizenship liberal and civic republican which have been bequeathed to us He develops an original theory of citizenship which he calls post cosmopolitan and argues that ecological citizenship is an example and an inflection of it Ecological citizenship focuses on duties as well as rights and these duties are owed non reciprocally by those individuals and communities who occupy unsustainable amounts of ecological space to those who occupy too little The first virtue of ecological citizenship is justice but post cosmopolitanism follows some feminisms in arguing that care and compassion may be required to meet its special obligations Dobson suggests that ecological citizenship s conception of political space is not the state or the municipality or the ideal speech community of cosmopolitanism but the ecological footprint Most governments around the world have signed up to sustainable development and they cannot afford to ignore ecological citizenship as a means of getting there Government policies usually revolve around financial sticks and carrots but these leave people uncommitted to the idea of sustainability and only to the rewards that are attached to it Dobson contrasts citizenship with fiscal incentives as a way of encouraging people to act more sustainably in the belief that the former is more compatible with the long term and deeper shifts of attitude and behaviour that sustainability requires Both citizenship and sustainability though are often viewed with suspicion in liberal societies because they refuse to accept the inviolability of individual preferences Dobson therefore offers an original account of the relationship between liberalism and sustainability arguing that the former's commitment to a plurality of conceptions of the good entails a commitment to so called strong forms of the latter How to make an ecological citizen Dobson examines the potential of formal high school citizenship education programmes through a case study of the recent implementation of the compulsory citizenship curriculum in the UK He concludes that the Department of Education and Skills has constructed a Trojan horse capable of kick starting ecological citizenship if teachers are willing and able to travel in it This book will be of interest to those working in the fields of environmental political theory citizenship globalisation cosmopolitanism liberalism and citizenship education
