The Politics of Bones J. Timothy Hunt, 2005 The gripping story of a people's battle against a corrupt government and a powerful oil company On November 10 1995 Nigeria's military dictatorship executed nine environmental activists Among them was Ken Saro Wiwa the charismatic spokesman of the Ogoni people whose land in the fertile Niger River delta has been grotesquely polluted by Royal Dutch Shell Corporation During Ken's incarceration on a trumped up murder charge his brother Dr Owens Wiwa fought valiantly to save his life even though he himself was on his government's most wanted list When his quest failed Owens narrowly escaped Nigeria with his life fleeing the country on foot with his wife and newborn son first to London where he was embraced by the likes of Anita Roddick and Doris Lessing and then to Toronto where he now lives Owens Wiwa has taken up his brother's environmental crusade and fought against terrible odds to have his brother's remains returned to the family for a proper burial His story is a heart stopping saga of personal courage and official corruption of individual selflessness and corporate greed of a man's abiding love for his brother and extraordinary determination to honour him

The Politics of Memory Joanne Rappaport, 1990-06-29 Reconsidering the predominantly mythic status of non Western historical narrative Rappaport identifies the political realities that influenced the form and content of Andean history revealing the distinct historical vision of these stories Because of her examination of the influences of literacy in the creation of history Rappaport's analysis makes a special contribution to Latin American and Andean studies solidly grounding subaltern texts in their sociopolitical contexts Amazon

The Politics of Memory Michael M. Tavuzzi, Joanne Rappaport, 1997 How does a culture in which writing is not a prominent feature create historical tradition Researcher Joanne Rappaport answers the question by tracing the past three centuries of intellectual history of the Nasa a community in the Colombian Andes Originally published in 1990 but of continuing interest to all scholars of Latin America 21 illustrations

The Politics of Haunting and Memory in International Relations Jessica Auchter, 2014-03-21 International Relations has traditionally focused on conflict and war but the effects of violence including dead bodies and memorialization practices have largely been considered beyond the purview of the field Drawing on Jacques Derrida's notion of hauntology to consider the politics of life and death Auchter traces the story of how life and death and a clear division between the two is summoned in the project of statecraft She argues that by letting ourselves be haunted or looking for ghosts it is possible to trace how statecraft relies on the construction of such a dichotomy Three empirical cases offer fertile ground for complicating the picture often painted of memorialization Rwandan genocide memorials the underexplored case of undocumented immigrants who die crossing the US Mexico border and the body ruins nexus in 9 11 memorialization Focusing on the role of dead bodies and the construction of particular spaces as the appropriate sites for memory to be situated it offers an alternative take on the new materialisms movement in international relations by asking after the questions that arise from an ethnographic approach to the subject viewing things from the perspective of dead bodies who occupy the shadowy world of post conflict international politics This work will be of great interest to students and scholars of critical international relations security studies statecraft and memory studies

The Politics of the Dead in Zimbabwe, 2000-2020 Joost Fontein, 2022 Innovative and challenging study that provides fresh insights on the anthropology of death and postcolonial politics In 1898 just before she was hanged for rebelling against colonial rule Charwe Nyakasikana spirit medium of the legendary ancestor Ambuya Nehanda famously prophesised that my bones will rise again A century later bones bodies and human remains have come to occupy an increasingly complex place in Zimbabwe s postcolonial milieu From ancestral bones rising again in the struggle for independence and later land to resurfacing bones of unsettled wardead and from the troubling decaying remains of post independence gukurahundi massacres to the leaky tortured bodies of recent election violence human materials are intertwined in postcolonial politics in ways that go far beyond yet necessarily implicate contests over memory commemoration and the representation of the past In this book Joost Fontein examines the complexities of human remains in Zimbabwe s politics of the dead Challenging and innovative he takes us beyond current scholarship on memory commemoration and the changing significance of traditional death practices to examine the political implications of human remains as material substances as duplicitous rumours and as returning spirits Linking the indeterminacy of human substances to the productive but precarious uncertainties of rumours and spirits the book points to how the incompleteness of death is politically productive and ultimately derives from the problematic entangled excessivities of human material and immaterial existence and is deeply intertwined with the stylistics of postcolonial power and politics Joost Fontein is Professor of Anthropology University of Johannesburg He was previously Director of the British Institute in Eastern Africa and Lecturer in Social Anthropology at the University of Edinburgh His books include Remaking Mutirikwi Landscape Water and Belonging James Currey 2015 shortlisted for the African Studies Association 2016 Herskovits Prize Southern Africa South Africa Namibia Lesotho Swaziland and Botswana University of Johannesburg Press

The Politics of Death Michael J. Blain, 2001 This dissertation reports the results of a sociological analysis of the narrative form and functions of revolutionary discourse Chapter I poses two questions How do representations of death function in political processes How do signifiers of violent death function in the structure of revolutionary statements Chapter II reviews relevant sociological concepts and articulates a dramatistic political sociology of death concepts mainly derived from Emile Durkheim Robert Hertz and Arnold van Gennep on death and the sacred Max Weber on violence and politics and Burke Duncan and Edelman's view of politics as symbolic action Chapter III presents the results of a formal narrative and semiotic analysis of a large sample of revolutionary statements Saussure Levi Strauss Foucault Two symbolic complexes were clearly evident First revolutionaries employ a tragic narrative form employing the blood of innocent victims and heroic martyrs to construct the villainy of their enemies to provoke moral outrage and to legitimate acts of righteous retaliation against established authority Second metaphors of fire storm explosion and eruption are used to infuse revolutionary acts with powerful impersonal forces Chapter IV validates these results through an exploratory study of political meanings employing Osgood's semantic differential technique Chapter V concludes that in revolutionary discourse at least revolutionary action is a form of tragic drama an violent appeal to a public audience made on behalf of powerless people a statement that one is willing to kill and die in the name of the ultimate principles of social order The results of the semantic differential analysis show that these meanings can be studied empirically employing this technique They also illustrate the validity and usefulness of the analytic framework suggesting future avenues of research

The Politics of the Past in Zimbabwe ,2025-04-07 Zimbabwe is a country whose longer past and shifting post independence politics have both included violent histories as well as often violent contestations over history itself The Politics of the Past in Zimbabwe addresses the many ways in which pasts are variously experienced remembered claimed denied or contested by differently positioned actors and how this in turn shapes the politics of the present It explores how such contestation is expressed in literature art and the media through exhumations and reburials in state apology and political myth making and in both traditional cultural heritage sites and the making of new national symbols Contributors are Jocelyn Alexander Elleke Boehmer Shadreck Chirikure Simbarashe Shadreck Chitima Lena Englund Shari Eppel Petina Gappah Amanda Hammar Pedzisai Maedza Owen Maseko Mphathisi Ndlovu Minna Johanna Niemi Astrid Rasch Timothy Scarnecchia Thomas Thondhlana Katja Uusihakala

A Politics of Melancholia George Edmondson,Klaus

Mladek,2024-03-12 Why melancholia is a vital form of social critique and a catalyst for political renewal Melancholia is wrongly condemned as a condition of withdrawal and despair that alienates its sufferer from community Countering that misconception A Politics of Melancholia reclaims an understanding of melancholia not as an affliction in need of a remedy but as an affirmative stance toward decay and ruination in political life and restores the melancholic figure by turns inventive and destructive outraged and inspired to their rightful place as the poet of political thought George Edmondson and Klaus Mladek identify pivotal moments of political melancholia in ancient and modern texts offering new perspectives on the death of Socrates in Plato's dialogues the fratricide in Hamlet Woyzeck's killing of Marie in Georg Büchner's Woyzeck the murder of Moses in Freud's thought and the betrayal of the revolutionary idea that Hannah Arendt identifies in her critique of eighteenth century revolutions Melancholia emerges here as a disposition that is mournful but also jubilant a mood of unbending disconsolation that remains faithful to a scene of downfall to events that cannot be forgotten and to things that cannot be governed Recovering a tradition of thought that is both affirmative and hopeful this eloquent book reveals how political melancholia embodies a shared condition of discontent that binds communities together and inspires change

Luke and the Politics of Homeric Imitation Dennis R. MacDonald,2018-10-25 Luke and the Politics of Homeric Imitation Luke Acts as Rival to the Aeneid argues that the author of Luke Acts composed not a history but a foundation mythology to rival Vergil's Aeneid by adopting and ethically emulating the cultural capital of classical Greek poetry especially Homer's Iliad and Odyssey and Euripides's Bacchae For example Vergil and more than a century later Luke both imitated Homer's account of Zeus's lying dream to Agamemnon Priam's escape from Achilles and Odysseus's shipwreck and visit to the netherworld Both Vergil and Luke as well as many other intellectuals in the Roman Empire engaged the great poetry of the Greeks to root new social or political realities in the soil of ancient Hellas but they also rivaled Homer's gods and heroes to create new ones that were more moral powerful or compassionate One might say that the genre of Luke Acts is an oxymoron a prose epic If this assessment is correct it holds enormous importance for understanding Christian origins in part because one may no longer appeal to the Acts of the Apostles for reliable historical information Luke was not a historian any more than Vergil was and as the Latin bard had done for the Augustine age he wrote a fictional portrayal of the kingdom of God and its heroes especially Jesus and Paul who were more powerful more ethical and more compassionate than the gods and heroes of Homer and Euripides or those of Vergil's Aeneid

The Politics of Memory of the Second World War in Contemporary Serbia Jelena Đureinović,2019-11-19 Exploring the concepts of collaboration resistance and postwar retribution and focusing on the Chetnik movement this book analyses the politics of memory Since the overthrow of Slobodan Milošević in 2000 memory politics in Serbia has undergone drastic changes in the way in which the Second World War and its aftermath is understood and interpreted The glorification and romanticisation of the Yugoslav Army in the Homeland more commonly referred to as the Chetnik movement has become the central theme of Serbia's memory politics during this period

The book traces their construction as a national antifascist movement equal to the communist led Partisans and as victims of communism showing the parallel justification and denial of their wartime activities of collaboration and mass atrocities The multifaceted approach of this book combines a diachronic perspective that illuminates the continuities and ruptures of narratives actors and practices with in depth analysis of contemporary Serbia rooted in ethnographic fieldwork and exploring multiple levels of memory work and their interactions It will appeal to students and academics working on contemporary history of the region memory studies sociology public history transitional justice human rights and Southeast and East European Studies
