Mapping Social Relations Marie Campbell, Frances Gregor, 2002-05-01 Published Under the Garamond Imprint Available in the US through AltaMira Press This is a book about a distinctive methodological approach inspired by one of Canada's most respected scholars Dorothy Smith Institutional ethnography aims to answer questions about how everyday life is organized What is conventionally understood as the relationship of micro to macro processes is in institutional ethnography conceptualized and explored in terms of ruling relations The authors suggest that institutional ethnographers must adopt a particular research stance one that recognizes that people's own knowledge and ways of knowing are crucial elements of social action and thus of social analysis Specific attention to text analysis is integral to the approach Institutional ethnography is remarkably well suited to the human service curriculum and the training of professionals and activists Its strategy for learning how to understand problems existing in everyday life appeals to many researchers who are looking for guidance on how to take practical action At the same time the highly elaborated theoretical foundation of institutional ethnography is difficult to deal with in the brief time most students are in the classroom The authors successfully tackle the issue of teaching and applying institutional ethnography Campbell and Gregor have been testing out instructional methods and materials for many years Mapping Social Relations is the product of that effort

The Politics of Community Services Roxana Ng, 1988 Changing Women, Changing History Diana Pederson, 1996-10-15 Changing Women Changing History is a bibliographic guide to the scholarship both English and French on Canadian's women's history Organized under broad subject headings and accompanied by author and subject indices it is accessible and comprehensive APAIS 1994: Australian public affairs information service, In Search of a Safe Place Vijay Agnew, 1998-01-01 Marginalized in the larger society and the mainstream women's movement immigrant women are also outsiders in women's shelters where racially sensitive and linguistically appropriate counselling is generally unavailable In this book Vijay Agnew documents the struggles of Canadian women's centres to provide better services to victims of wife abuse from Asia Africa and the Caribbean The study looks at every aspect of community based women's organizations including their funding operation and services The result is a detailed picture of the problems and challenges they encounter on a daily basis Agnew uses case studies reports and interviews to document the work of these groups and to show how race class and gender intersect in the everyday lives of the women who depend on them Although the women's movement initiated public discussion of wife abuse the fight against abuse is now conducted primarily by the state through its allocation of resources Agnew underscores the tension that often arises between the patriarchal state and feminist inspired organizations and the resulting difficulties in bringing about social change

Canadian Book Review Annual, 1997 The Politics of Care Work Emma Amador, 2025-04-18 In The Politics of Care Work Emma Amador tells the story of Puerto Rican women's involvement in political activism for social and economic justice in Puerto Rico and the United States throughout the twentieth century

Beyond Service Greg McElligott,2001-01-01 Greg McElligott traces neoconservative labour market policy from its international origins to the local offices of the Canadian state The Politics of Race in Canada Augie Fleras,Maria Wallis,2009 This engaging new anthology brings together important selections that have informed debates and generated controversies about race and ethnicity from the nineteenth century onwards Using an interdisciplinary approach the collection demonstrates and analyzes a transition from Canada s early focus on ethnicity to the current proliferation of sophisticated analyses of race as a concept Resistances to traditional thinking about race and ethnicity by academics and activist communities are also discussed The text demonstrates that despite claims of race neutrality as a preferred ideal Canada is actually a racialized society race remains a key variable in influencing people s identities experiences and outcomes APAIS 1992: Australian public affairs information service ,

The Experiences of Ghanaian Live-in Caregivers in the United States Martha Donkor, 2017-11-15 Using the convergence of the impact of globalization and political turmoil in Ghana on Ghanaian women as a backdrop this book examines the migration of the women to the US and their decisions to care for upper middle class white seniors who elected to stay in their homes to be cared for by private caregivers The book explores the attraction of domestic care work the women s perceptions of their job their relationships with their clients and the dynamics of their relationships with their immediate families and families left behind in Ghana It also analyzes the women s interactions with the immigrant community from their remote work sites The book examines widely held beliefs about domestic work as undervalued under remunerated and relegated to marginalized immigrant women of color While admitting that these problems exist the women whose stories are told in the book did not believe that their brand of care work which they called private practice was undervalued or underpaid They also did not think that racism played a role in the concentration of immigrant women of color in domestic care work as widely believed although again the women admitted that there was racism in American society By doing so the women symbolically placed themselves beyond the institutional barriers that constrain the lives of women of color in American society And while it addresses common themes like exploitation abuse restriction of movement etc that other studies of immigrant live in caregiving address this book stands out in two major ways First is its truly transnational character It links the women s background in Ghana to their immigration history and how these two influenced their choice as well as perceptions of care work and then loops their experience of care work back to expectations in Ghana Second the book validates the women s voices as a product of their cultural background thus making the case that the women s choices and experiences were informed by conditions in the US and the cultural baggage the women brought with them The book argues that private care work satisfied women s financial expectations and with that leverage in their families
