petrified whale blubber in Svalbard the marble prized by Manhattan's Lenape and a huge Greenlandic meteorite that arrived with six Inuit adventurers in the exuberant but fractious New York City of 1897 As Raffles follows these fundamental objects unearthing the events they've engendered he finds them losing their solidity and becoming as capricious indifferent and willful as time itself

Interpreting the Landscape Michael Aston, 2002-09-11 Most places in Britain have had a local history written about them Up until this century these histories have addressed more parochial issues such as the life of the manor rather than explaining the features and changes in the landscape in a factual manner Much of what is visible today in Britain's landscape is the result of a chain of social and natural processes and can be interpreted through fieldwork as well as from old maps and documents Michael Aston uses a wide range of source material to study the complex and dynamic history of the countryside illustrating his points with aerial photographs maps plans and charts He shows how to understand the surviving remains as well as offering his own explanations for how our landscape has evolved

Dress and Society T. F. Martin, R. Weech, 2017-01-31 While traditional studies of dress and jewellery have tended to focus purely on reconstruction or descriptions of style chronology and typology the social context of costume is now a major research area in archaeology This refocusing is largely a result of the close relationship between dress and three currently popular topics identity bodies and material culture Not only does dress constitute an important means by which people integrate and segregate to form group identities but interactions between objects and bodies quintessentially illustrated by dress can also form the basis of much wider symbolic systems Consequently archaeological understandings of clothing shed light on some of the fundamental aspects of society hence our intentionally unconditional title Dress and Society illustrates the range of current archaeological approaches to dress using a number of case studies drawn from prehistoric to post medieval Europe Individually each chapter makes a strong contribution in its own field whether through the discussion of new evidence or new approaches to classic material Presenting the eight papers together creates a strong argument for a theoretically informed and integrated approach to dress as a specific category of archaeological evidence emphasising that the study of dress not only draws openly on other disciplines but is also a sub discipline in its own right However rather than delimiting dress to a specialist area of research we seek to promote it as fundamental to any holistic archaeological understanding of past societies
