My interest in ancient Maya agriculture began late in the year of 1971 when William M Denevan encouraged me to pursue the topic Our interests had been perked by reports from Joseph W Ball JaCk Eaton and Irwin Rovner of the presence of terrace like features throughout the Rio Bee region of the southern Yucatan Peninsula Denevan maintained a long term interest in pre Hispanic agriculture and population in the New World Our studies with the emerging Rio Bee research group at the University of Wisconsin led to the conclusion that the then dominant themes of Maya agriculture were in need of reevaluation and that a number of remains of intensive forms of agriculture were likely to be found in the Central Maya lowlands of Mexico Peten Guatemala and Belize particularly wetland or raised fields in addition to the reported terraces Our interests were heightened at this time by notification from Alfred Siemens of the finds of wetland fields in the vicinity of the Rio Bee region in the Chetumal Mexico northern Belize area

Exploring the Mesoamerican Subterranean Realm James E. Brady, Cristina Verdugo, 2025-09-01

Exploring the Mesoamerican Subterranean Realm brings together recent work and interpretations on the use of underground cavities by Mesoamerica's pre Columbian cultures demonstrating their invaluable cultural purpose Case studies from across the region investigate the ways in which these highly charged points in the sacred landscape were the focus of countless political and religious activities The volume expands the study of caves to focus on the broader realm of subterranean space introducing the concept of the constructed subterranean a space in which the Maya deliberately created sacred landmarks through excavation Chapters critically examine chultuns previously thought to be subterranean storage chambers and sascaberas previously considered mines demonstrating that the traditional archaeological models are deeply flawed A wealth of data on both features is used to envision a new sacred landscape filled with thousands of subterranean sacred landmarks Natural caves are also examined a survey conducted around the ancient site of Yaxchilan considers the obvious importance of large stalagmites set up in the site core as monuments Long distance pilgrimages to these caves fundamentally reevaluates the nature of pilgrimage and reveals an economic and political importance that structured settlement and activities around the pilgrimage sites Finally evidence is analyzed to show that the human bones recovered from Midnight Terror Cave Belize were the result of human sacrifice Dealing equally with the archaeology of both natural and constructed subterranean spaces Exploring the Mesoamerican Subterranean Realm challenges preconceived notions of these spaces and their meanings dramatically shifting the field's focus and extending the understanding of the critical importance of this dark side of archaeology
