The Future of Modernism Hugh Witemeyer, 1997 Argues for the complex and vital legacy of major modernist authors

Acrobatic Modernism from the Avant-Garde to Prehistory Jed Rasula, 2020-02-27 This is a book about artistic modernism contending with the historical transfigurations of modernity As a conscientious engagement with modernity's restructuring of the lifeworld the modernist avant garde raised the stakes of this engagement to programmatic explicitness But even beyond the vanguard the global phenomenon of jazz combined somatic assault with sensory tutelage Jazz like the new technologies of modernity re calibrated sensory ratios The criterion of the new as self making also extended to names pseudonyms and heteronyms The protocols of modernism solicited a pragmatic arousal of bodily sensation as artistic resource validating an acrobatic sensibility ranging from slapstick and laughter to the pathos of bereavement Expressivity trumped representation The artwork was a diagram of perception not a mimetic rendering For artists the historical pressures of altered perception provoked new models and Ezra Pound's slogan Make It New became the generic rallying cry of renovation The paradigmatic stance of the avant garde was established by Futurism but the discovery of prehistoric art added another provocation to artists Paleolithic caves validated the spirit of all over composition unframed and dynamic Geometric abstraction Constructivism and Purism and Surrealism were all in quest of a new mythology Making it new yielded a new pathos in the sensation of radical discrepancy between futurist striving and remotest antiquity The Paleolithic cave and the USSR emitted comparable siren calls on behalf of the remote past and the desired future As such the present was suffused with the pathos of being neither but subject to both

Our Gigantic Zoo Thomas M. Lekan, 2019-12-10 How did the Seregenti become an internationally renowned African conservation site and one of the most iconic destinations for a safari In this book Thomas M Lekan illuminates the controversial origins of this national park by examining how Europe's greatest wildlife conservationist former Frankfurt Zoo director and Oscar winning documentarian Bernhard Grzimek popularized it as a global destination In the 1950s Grimek and his son Michael began a quest to save the Serengeti from modernization and overpopulation by remaking an imperial game reserve into a gigantic zoo for the earth's last great mammals Grzimek well known to German audiences through his long running television program A Place for Animals used the film Seregenti Shall Not Die to convince ordinary Europeans that they could save nature Yet their message sidestepped the uncomfortable legacies of German colonial exploitation in the region that had endangered animals and excluded local people After independence Grzimek raised funds brokered diplomatic favors and convinced German tourists to book travel packages all to persuade Tanzanian leader Julius Nyerere that wildlife would fuel the young nation's economic development Grzimek helped Tanzania to create almost a dozen new national parks by 1975 but wooing tourists conflicted with rights of the Maasai and other African communities to inhabit the landscape on their own terms Grzimek's global priorities eventually clashed with Nyerere's nationalist ones as a more self assertive Tanzania resented conservationists meddling and failed promises A story that demonstrates the conflicts between international conservation nature tourism decolonization and national sovereignty Our Gigantic Zoo explores the legacy of the man who portrayed himself as a second Noah called on a sacred mission to protect the last vestiges of paradise for all humankind

Prehistory: A Very Short Introduction Chris Gosden, 2003-06-26 This VSI to prehistory will introduce the reader to four and a half million years of human existence Many of the familiar aspects of modern life are no more than a century or two old yet our deep social structures and skills were in large measure developed by small bands of our prehistoric ancestors many millennia ago Chris Gosden invites us to think seriously about who we are by considering who we have been The idea of prehistory owes its origins to Darwin suddenly any description of human life on Earth had to take account of a much longer timespan than ever before What new views of ourselves has this new timespan opened up Chris Gosden's fascinating new book asks What relationships did our distant ancestors have with the natural world with each other and with the objects and values they created And as humanity hurtles into a future of virtual interaction and genetic manipulation what can the darkest recesses of our past teach us about our future

ABOUT THE SERIES The Very Short Introductions series from Oxford University Press contains hundreds of titles in almost every subject area These pocket sized books are the perfect way to get ahead in a new subject quickly Our expert authors combine facts analysis perspective new ideas and enthusiasm to make interesting and challenging topics highly readable

Derek Walcott and the Creation of a Classical Caribbean Justine McConnell, 2023-05-18 Throughout his career Derek Walcott turned to the literature and cultures of ancient Greece and Rome His book length poem recasting the epics of Homer Virgil and Dante in St Lucia is best known in this regard yet Omeros is only the pinnacle of a lengthy and lively dialogue that Walcott developed between the ancient Mediterranean and the modern Caribbean Derek Walcott and the Creation of a Classical Caribbean explores how in developing that discourse between ancient and modern between Europe and the Caribbean Walcott refuted the suggestion that to engage with literature from elsewhere was to lack originality instead he asserted a place for Caribbean art in a global transhistorical canon Drawing on Walcott's own theoretical concerns

this book explores his engagement with Graeco Roman antiquity from three key perspectives Firstly that a perception of time as linear must be coupled with an understanding of it as simultaneous thereby doing away with the oppressive power of history and confirming the New World on a par with the Old Secondly that syncretism lies at the heart of Caribbean life and art with influences from Africa Asia and Europe constituting key parts of Caribbean identity alongside its indigenous cultures Thirdly that Caribbean literature creates the world anew without erasing the past With these three postcolonial conceptions at the heart of his engagement with ancient Greece and Rome Walcott revealed the reasons why classical reception has been a rich facet of Caribbean artistry

Picasso's Demoiselles Suzanne Preston Blier, 2019-12-13 In Picasso's Demoiselles eminent art historian Suzanne Preston Blier uncovers the previously unknown history of Pablo Picasso's Les Femmes d'Alger (O. J. R. M.) one of the twentieth century's most important celebrated and studied paintings Drawing on her expertise in African art and newly discovered sources Blier reads the painting not as a simple bordello scene but as Picasso's interpretation of the diversity of representations of women from around the world that he encountered in photographs and sculptures These representations are central to understanding the painting's creation and help identify the demoiselles as global figures mothers grandmothers lovers and sisters as well as part of the colonial world Picasso inhabited Simply put Blier

Lesbian Empire Gay Wachman, 2001 A critical reading of sexually radical fiction by British women in the years during and after World War I Gay Wachman examines work by Sylvia Townsend Warner Virginia Woolf and Radclyffe Hall along with the less well known Clemence Dane Rose Allatini and Evadne Price These writers she states created a modernist literary tradition one that functioned both within and against the repressive ideology of the British Empire

The Correspondence of Ezra Pound and the Frobenius Institute, 1930-1959 Ezra Pound, 2024-02-22 Collecting in full for the first time the correspondence between Ezra Pound and members of Leo Frobenius Forschungsinstitut für Kulturmorphologie in Frankfurt across a 30 year period this book sheds new light on an important but previously unexplored influence on Pound's controversial intellectual development in the Fascist era Ezra Pound's long term interest in anthropology and ethnography exerted a profound influence on early 20th century literary Modernism These letters reveal the extent of the influence of Frobenius' concept of Paideuma on Pound's poetic and political writings during this period and his growing engagement with the culture of Nazi Germany Annotated throughout the letters are supported by contextualising essays by leading Modernist scholars as well as relevant contemporary published articles by Pound himself and his leading correspondent at the Institute the American Douglas C Fox

Savage Theory Rachel O. Moore, 2000 An ambitious and original work which uses early film theory anthropological insights and avant garde film to explore the relation of cinema to ritual healing

The Myth of Matriarchal Prehistory Cynthia Eller, 2001-04-13 According to the myth of matriarchal prehistory men and women lived together peacefully before recorded history Society was centered around women with their mysterious life giving powers and they were honored as incarnations and priestesses of the Great Goddess Then a transformation occurred and men thereafter dominated society Given the universality of patriarchy in recorded history this vision is understandably appealing for many women But does it have any basis in fact And as a myth does it work for the good of women Cynthia Eller traces the emergence of the feminist matriarchal myth explicates its functions and examines the evidence for and against a matriarchal prehistory Finally she explains why this vision of peaceful woman centered prehistory is something feminists should be wary of The Uses of the Future in Early Modern Europe Andrea Brady, Emily Butterworth, 2010-04-15 This collection of essays examines the idea of the future in early modern European literature politics religion science and social life Investigating how both elite and popular writers represented their access to or control over the future it proposes new insights into one of the defining characteristics of modernity The Futures of American Studies Donald E. Pease, Robyn Wiegman, 2002-10-21 A state of the art portrait of the field of American studies its interests and methodologies its interactions with the social and cultural movements it describes and attempts to explain and a compendium of likely directions the field will take in the f

Producing Nature and Poverty in Africa Vigdis Broch-Due, Richard A. Schroeder, 2000 Drawing on case studies from eight different countries the contributors to this provocative collection of essays demonstrate quite clearly that environmental programmes often have direct and far reaching consequences for the distribution of wealth and poverty and that they constitute one of the major forms of foreign and state intervention in contemporary African affairs Tropical Forests in Prehistory, History, and Modernity Patrick Roberts, 2019-01-04 In popular discourse tropical forests are synonymous with nature and wilderness battlegrounds between apparently pristine floral faunal and human communities and the unrelenting industrial and urban powers of the modern world It is rarely publicly understood that the extent of human adaptation to and alteration of tropical forest environments extends across archaeological historical and anthropological timescales This book is the first attempt to bring together evidence for the nature of human interactions with tropical forests on a global scale from the emergence of hominins in the tropical forests of Africa to modern conservation issues Following a review of the natural history and variability of tropical forest ecosystems this book takes a tour of human and human ancestor occupation and use of tropical forest environments through time Far from being pristine primordial ecosystems this book illustrates how our species has inhabited and modified tropical forests from the earliest stages of its evolution While agricultural strategies and vast urban networks emerged in tropical forests long prior to the arrival of European colonial powers and later industrialization this should not be taken as justification for the massive deforestation and biodiversity threats imposed on tropical forest ecosystems in the 21st century Rather such a long term perspective highlights the ongoing challenges of sustainability faced by forager agricultural and urban societies in these environments setting the stage for more integrated approaches to conservation and policy making and the protection of millennia of ecological and cultural heritage bound up in these habitats Klossowski's Semiotic of Intensity Conor Husbands, 2020-03-23 Despite the increasing prominence of Klossowski's philosophical work there exists no full length or sustained treatment of his writings on Nietzsche. This study analyses Klossowski's semiotic of intensity as a conceptual foundation for his philosophy and interpretation of Nietzsche grounded in the central principles of his theory of signs. It then explores its implications for the categories of chance, causality, individuation and time, drawing a series of parallels between Klossowski's texts and the work of other scholars such as McTaggart, Eco, D. Z. Albert, M. Silverstein, Meillassoux, N. Land and J. Stambaugh. Throughout this work, Klossowski's often opaque and idiosyncratic style lends accessibility to his work. It should be relevant to anyone interested in Klossowski's philosophical work in contemporary Nietzsche scholarship or in the 20th Century linguistic and existential Continental tradition.

Modernism - Dada - Postmodernism Richard Sheppard, 2000. Modernism Dada Postmodernism collects and updates, integrates and contextualizes the critic Richard Sheppard's essays on the historical avant garde. Sheppard's topic in all of these essays is the modernist writers, artists and philosophers' linguistic and visual responses to a changed sense of reality and human nature. Beginning with an overview of the problematics of European modernism, Sheppard establishes the dialectical relationship between the cultural crisis that occurred during the period 1880-1936 and the different responses from European modernists and the avant garde. With its combination of classic and new essays and its perspective on the theoretical avant garde/modernism debate in the United States, Sheppard's volume should give the specialist as well as the general reader an insight into the highest sample of European scholarly discourse on this subject. Music, Race, and Nation Peter Wade, 2000-08. Long a favorite on dance floors in Latin America, the porro, cumbia and vallenato styles that make up Colombia's mestizo tropical are now enjoying international success. How did this music, which has its roots in a black marginal region of the country, manage from the 1940s onward to become so popular in a nation that had prided itself on its white heritage? Peter Wade explores the history of mestizo tropical, analyzing its rise in the context of the development of the broadcast media, rapid urbanization and regional struggles for power. Using archival sources and oral histories, Wade shows how big band renditions of cumbia and porro in the 1940s and 1950s suggested both old traditions and new liberties, especially for women, speaking to a deeply rooted image of black music as sensuous. Recently nostalgic, whitened versions of mestizo tropical have gained popularity as part of government-sponsored multiculturalism. Wade's fresh look at the way music transforms and is transformed by ideologies of race, nation, sexuality, tradition and modernity is the first book-length study of Colombian popular music.
