Prehistory And Human Ecology Of The Deh Luran Plain:

Prehistory and Human Ecology of the Deh Luran Plain Frank Hole, Kent V. Flannery, James A. Neely, 1969 In the early 1960s archaeologists Frank Hole, Kent V. Flannery and James A. Neely surveyed the prehistoric mounds in Deh Luran and then excavated at two sites Ali Kosh and Tepe Sabz. The researchers found evidence that the sites dated to between 7500 and 3500 BC during which time the residents domesticated plants and animals. This volume published in 1969 was the first in the Museum's Memoir series designed for data-rich heavily illustrated archaeological monographs.

This book reports the results of an archaeological survey undertaken in southwestern Iran by a remarkable researcher Dr. F. G. L. Gremliza. The author, Abbas Alizadeh, presents Gremliza's survey data and provides an analysis of the developmental implications.

The Archaeology of Iran from the Palaeolithic to the Achaemenid Empire Roger Matthews, Hassan Fazeli Nashli, 2022-06-30. The Archaeology of Iran from the Palaeolithic to the Achaemenid Empire is the first modern academic study to provide a synthetic diachronic analysis of the archaeology and early history of all of Iran from the Palaeolithic period to the end of the Achaemenid Empire at 330 BC. Drawing on the author's deep experience and engagement in the world of Iranian archaeology and in particular on Iran-based academic networks and collaborations, this book situates the archaeological evidence from Iran within a framework of issues and debates of relevance today. Such topics include human environment interactions, climate change and societal fragility, the challenges of urban living, individual and social identity, gender roles and status, the development of technology and craft specialisation, and the significance of early bureaucratic practices such as counting, writing and sealing within the context of evolving societal formations. Richly adorned with more than 500 illustrations, many of them in colour and accompanied by a bibliography with more than 3000 entries, this book will be appreciated as a major research resource for anyone concerned to learn more about the role of ancient Iran in shaping the modern world.

Hasanlu, Volume I Mary M. Voigt, 1983-01-29. Any consideration of the Iranian plateau must include the important site of Hasanlu in northern Iran. The Museum carried out excavations from 1956 through 1977. A major aspect of the research focused on the Iron Age settlement. This fortified town was attacked around 800 B.C. The attack and accompanying fire caused the rapid collapse of public buildings. Thus the site provides a unique opportunity to examine a wide range of objects and materials still in the contexts in which they were stored. University Museum Monograph 50. Advances in Archaeological Method and Theory Michael B. Schiffer, 2014-06-30. Advances in Archaeological Method and Theory Volume 1 presents the progressive explorations in methods and theory in archaeology. This book discusses the strategy for appraising significance which is needed to maximize the preservation and wise use of cultural resources Organized into 10 chapters this volume begins with an overview of planning for the best long term use of cultural resources which is the essence of conservation archeology This text then examines importance of the concept in cultural ecological studies Other chapters consider the methods used in determining the density size and growth rate of human populations This book discusses as well the use of demographic variables in archeological explanation The final chapter deals with the decisions that must be made in designing a survey and to identify the alternative consequences for data recovery of various strategies This book is a valuable resource for archeologists and planners

Terrestrial Ecosystems Through Time Anna K. Behrensmeyer, 1992-08-15 Breathtaking in scope this is the first survey of the entire ecological history of life on land from the earliest traces of terrestrial organisms over 400 million years ago to the beginning of human agriculture By providing myriad insights into the unique ecological information contained in the fossil record it establishes a new and ambitious basis for the study of evolutionary paleoecology of land ecosystems A joint undertaking of the Evolution of Terrestrial Ecosystems Consortium at the National Museum of Natural History Smithsonian Institution and twenty six additional researchers this book begins with four chapters that lay out the theoretical background and methodology of the science of evolutionary paleoecology Included are a comprehensive review of the taphonomy and paleoenvironmental settings of fossil deposits as well as guidelines for developing ecological characterizations of extinct organisms and the communities in which they lived The remaining three chapters treat the history of terrestrial ecosystems through geological time emphasizing how ecological interactions have changed the rate and tempo of ecosystem change the role of exogenous forcing factors in generating ecological change and the effect of ecological factors on the evolution of biological diversity The six principal authors of this volume are all associated with the Evolution of Terrestrial Ecosystems program at the National Museum of Natural History Smithsonian Institution

Archaeology, History, Philosophy and Heritage Christine Williamson, Penny Crook, 2025-04-15 This festschrift volume celebrates Tim Murray s significant and wide ranging contribution to archaeological thought and practice It includes 27 papers by Tim Murray s colleagues research collaborators and students former and current Together these comprise a substantive and reflective contribution to Archaeology History Philosophy and Cultural Heritage in Australia Oceania China India the United Kingdom Northern Europe and North America The collected papers in this volume tie together Murray s research into the history or historiography of archaeological thought and his commitment to understanding the material culture of the past to write history They provide a cross section of philosophical enquiries and substantive research from epistemological studies of shared lexicons and important debates in the history of archaeological thought to the minutiae of material culture studies Several papers explicitly and implicitly explore one of Murray s great interests the role of heritage preservation in our exploration of the past including dedicated tertiary training programs for Indigenous Australians to manage research and protect their own Country The book is divided into four parts History Archaeology Philosophy and Heritage offering an interdisciplinary approach to the study of the past This volume would be of interest to archaeologists historians philosophers of archaeology and heritage scholars The Domestication and Exploitation of Plants and Animals G. W. Dimbleby, 2017-07-12 The domestication of plants and animals was one of the greatest steps forward taken by mankind Although it was first achieved long ago we still need to know what led to it and how and even when it took place Only when we have this understanding will we be able to appreciate fully the important social and economic consequences of this step Even more important an understanding of this achievement is basic to any insight into modern man's relationship to his habitat In the last decade or two a change in methods of investigating these events has taken place due to the mutual realization by archaeologists and natural scientists that each held part of the key and neither alone had the whole Inevitably perhaps the floodgate that was opened has resulted in a spate of new knowledge which is scattered in the form of specialist reports in diverse journals This volume results from presentations at the Institute of Archaeology London University discussing the domestication and exploitation of plants and animals Workers in the archaeological anthropological and biological fields attempted to bridge the gap between their respective disciplines through personal contact and discussion Modern techniques and the result of their application to the classical problems of domestication selection and spread of cereals and of cattle were discussed but so were comparable problems in plants and animals not previously considered in this context Although there were differing opinions on taxonomic classification the editors have standardized and simplified the usage throughout this book In particular they have omitted references to authorities and adopted the binomial classification for both botanical and zoological names They followed this procedure in all cases except where sub specific differences are discussed and also standardized orthography of sites Concise Oxford Dictionary of Archaeology Timothy Darvill, 2008-07-31 The most wide ranging comprehensive and up to date dictionary of archaeology available Over 4 000 entries cover the terms encountered in academic and popular archaeological literature in lectures and on television Topics covered include artefacts techniques terminology people sites and periods and specialist areas such as industrial and maritime archaeology The second edition is fully revised and updated now including 150 new entries on archaeological sites terms movements and people plus extended coverage of archaeological resource management and archaeological theory The dictionary's primary focus is on Europe the Old World and the Americas as these are the regions where archaeology has become an established academic and vocational subject but it includes key archaeological sites around the world A quick reference section covers chronological periods around the world Egyptian rulers and dynasties Roman rulers and dynasties rulers of England to AD 1066 and principal international conventions and recommendations New to this edition recommended web links for over 100 entries are updated on the Dictionary of Archaeology companion website People, Plants and Genes Denis J Murphy, 2007-07-19 This book provides a comprehensive interdisciplinary overview of human plant interactions and their social consequences from the hunter gatherers of the Palaeolithic Era to the 21st century molecular manipulation of crops It links the latest advances in molecular genetics climate research and archaeology to give a new perspective on the evolution of agriculture and complex human societies across the world Even today our technologically advanced societies still rely on plants for basic food needs not to mention clothing shelter medicines and tools This special relationship has tied together people and their chosen plants in mutual dependence for well over 50 000 years Yet despite these millennia of intimate contact people have only domesticated and cultivated a few dozen of the tens of thousands of potentially available edible plants This limited domestication process led directly to the evolution of the complex urban based societies that have dominated much of human development over the past ten millennia Thanks to the latest genomic studies we can now begin to explain how when and where some of the most important crops came to be domesticated and the crucial roles of plant genetics climatic change and social organisation in these processes Indeed it was their unique genetic organisations that ultimately determined which plants eventually became crops rather than any conscious decisions by their human cultivators The book is aimed at a wide audience ranging from plant specialists such as geneticists molecular biologists and agronomists to a more general readership of archaeologists anthropologists historians and others who wish to explore the complex processes that have shaped the often crucial relationships between plants and human societies over the past hundred millennia

The Elamite World Javier

Álvarez-Mon, Gian Pietro Basello, Yasmina Wicks, 2018-01-29 Amongst the civilizations to participate in the dynamic processes of contact and interchange that gave rise to complex societies in the ancient Near East Elam has remained one of the most obscure at times languishing in the background of scholarly inquiry In recent years however an increasing body of academic publications have acknowledged its relevance and suggested that its legacy was more considerable and long lasting than previously estimated The Elamite World assembles a group of 40 international scholars to contribute their expertise to the production of a solid lavishly illustrated English language treatment of Elamite civilization It covers topics such as its physical setting historical development languages and people material culture art science religion and society as well as the legacy of Elam in the Persian empire and its presence in the modern world This comprehensive and ambitious survey seeks for Elam hardly a household name a noteworthy place in our shared cultural heritage It will be both a valuable introductory text for a general audience and a definitive reference source for students and academics

Stone Tools in Transition: From Hunter-Gatherers to Farming Societies in the Near East Borrell, Ferran, Ibáñez, Juan José, Molist, Miquel, 2013 This volume compiles the papers presented at the seventh edition of the Conference on PPN Chipped and Ground Stone Industries of the Fertile Crescent held in Barcelona from 14 to 17 February 2012 This series of conferences workshops started nineteen years ago the first meeting was organised in Berlin in 1993 and is devoted to the study of the lithic record in the Pre Pottery Neolithic of the Near East and neighbouring regions The seventh of these conferences was organised by the Instituci Mil i Fontanals Consejo Superior de Investigaciones Científicas and the Prehistory Department Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona

This volume includes a total number of 36 articles covering a wide range of topics and disciplines related to lithic studies in the Levant over a long chronological time span from the final stages of the Epipalaeolithic Natufian to the Halaf period. The publication of the conference proceedings is thus an interesting synthesis of the current state of lithic studies on the Pre Pottery Neolithic of the Near East and consolidates this specific series of conferences as a key tool to maintain and stimulate the vitality of high quality research into the Near Eastern lithic record. The Archaeology of Elam D. T. Potts, 1999-07-29

From the middle of the 3rd millennium BC until the coming of Cyrus the Great, southwestern Iran was referred to in Mesopotamian sources as the land of Elam. A heterogeneous collection of regions, Elam was home to a variety of groups alternately the object of Mesopotamian aggression and aggressors themselves, an ethnic group seemingly swallowed up by the vast Achaemenid Persian empire, yet a force strong enough to attack Babylonia in the last centuries BC. The Elamite language is attested as late as the Medieval era and the name Elam as late as 1300 in the records of the Nestorian church. This book examines the formation and transformation of Elam's many identities through both archaeological and written evidence and brings to life one of the most important regions of Western Asia, re-evaluates its significance and places it in the context of the most recent archaeological and historical scholarship. Paleoethnobotany Deborah M. Pearsall, 2016-06-16

This new edition of the definitive work on doing paleoethnobotany brings the book up to date by incorporating new methods and examples of research while preserving the overall organization and approach of the book to facilitate its use as a textbook. In addition to updates on the comprehensive discussions of macroremains, pollen, and phytoliths, this edition includes a chapter on starch analysis, the newest tool in the paleoethnobotanist's research kit. Other highlights include updated case studies, expanded discussions of deposition and preservation of archaeobotanical remains, updated historical overviews, new and updated techniques and approaches including insights from experimental and ethnoarchaeological studies, and a current listing of electronic resources. Extensively illustrated, this will be the standard work on paleoethnobotany for a generation.

The Archaeology of Mesopotamia Roger Matthews, 2013-01-11. The only critical guide to the theory and method of Mesopotamian archaeology, this innovative volume evaluates the theories, methods, approaches, and history of Mesopotamian archaeology from its origins in the nineteenth century up to the present day. Ancient Mesopotamia, modern Iraq, was the original site of many of the major developments in human history, such as farming, the rise of urban, literate societies, and the first great empires of Akkad, Babylonia, and Assyria. Dr. Matthews places the discipline within its historical and social context and explains how archaeologists conduct their research through excavation, survey, and other methods. In four fundamental chapters, he uses illustrated case studies to show how archaeologists have approached central themes such as the shift from hunting to farming, complex societies, empires, and imperialism, everyday life. This will be both an ideal introductory work and useful as background reading on a wide range of courses. The Archaeology of Mesopotamia Dr. Roger Matthews, 2003
